EISENHOWER STANDS FIRMLY BEHIND WILSON

Senate Puts Off Confirmation Until After Inauguration

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower was reported today to be standing firmly behind his choice of Charles E. Wilson as defense secretary despite a Senate balk at confirming him because of his stock holdings.

Senate action on confirmation, meanwhile, was put off until Wednesday — the day after Eisenhower's inauguration.

Wilson, who quit the $600,000-a-year General Motors presidency to take the $25,000 federal job, reportedly still was insistent that he be allowed to retain approximately 2½ million dollars worth of GM stock.

The Senate Armed Services Committee has questioned whether it would be lawful for a federal officer to have a financial interest in a firm doing business with the government.

General Motors does more business with the Defense Department than any other corporation.

Wilson conferred with Eisenhower at the latter's Commodore Hotel headquarters today and declined afterwards to discuss the situation with newsmen.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, told them, however, that there was "no change" in the situation.

Senate Republicans have abandoned efforts to obtain Wilson's confirmation by Tuesday.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts Republican and chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in Washington that Wilson had telephoned him asking for a new hearing, and that it would be held on Wednesday.

Eisenhower had hoped to have all his Cabinet choices confirmed in time to take their oaths of office Tuesday.

Hagerty first was asked whether there had been any change in Wilson's insistence on retaining the stock.

"No change," said Hagerty.

"Do you mean Wilson still wants to be secretary and that the general still wants him to be secretary?" he was asked.

"That is correct," Hagerty said.

There the situation stood on Eisenhower's final day — moving day — in his New York headquarters.

While Eisenhower and Wilson were conferring, workmen were carting desks and chairs out of the 67-room office space.

Eisenhower is scheduled to leave by train late tomorrow afternoon for Washington for his inaugural on Tuesday. A private car for Eisenhower and his party will be attached to a regular train. The exact departure time was withheld for security reasons.

GAME AGENT FIRED UPON

Negro Charged With Intent To Kill After Shooting At Franklin Man

WINNSBORO, Jan. 17. (Special)—Two Franklin Parish Negroes were in jail here on game law charges today and one of them is charged with shooting with intent to kill after a nighttime fracas late Friday with Game Agent Homer Hodges.

Willie Baker, 32, and Mack Cook, 23, both Negroes, are being held in the parish jail. Cook is facing the gun charge and is also charged with fire hunting at night and resisting arrest. Baker is charged with fire hunting at night and resisting arrest.

Both were arrested last night by Hodges and sheriff's deputies, Ellis Tarver and John Waller. Hodges said Cook fired at him with a .22 rifle when he came upon them suddenly in the woods last night. Hodges said he shined a light on the pair after the shot was fired and ordered them to stop. He said both Negroes then fled from the scene. Hodges enlisted the help of the two deputies and the arrests followed.

Specifically, the fire hunting charges state that the pair was hunting rabbits and coons at night with a carbide light. The arrests came on the same day that the hunting of coons with a light at night was made legal. However, the setting of dates and seasons for coon hunting has been left to the discretion of local police juries, and no action has been taken here yet.

Eisler Arrested In Purge Of East German Officials

BERLIN, Jan. 17 — UP — The Russians were reported Saturday to have placed former U. S. Communist agent Gerhart Eisler under house arrest in a sweeping purge of top East German officials.

Informed sources said Eisler, fired recently as Soviet zone information minister, was forced to move into a house in a Soviet headquarters compound at Karlshorst.

The compound is heavily guarded by armed Russian troops, the sources said, and Eisler is accompanied by Soviet secret police guards wherever he goes to prevent his flight.

These sources said Eisler, a Jew, may soon be one of the defendants in a big East German show trial against alleged spies, saboteurs, and "Zionist agents."

Others expected to be co-defendants include Foreign Minister Georg Dertinger, whose arrest as an "imperialist spy" was announced Friday; Paul Merker, former Jewish politburo member arrested last November and east zone Supply Minister Karl Hamann, who was seized last month.

Eisler, who was called the top Communist agent in the United States, was under U. S. indictment for perjury when he jumped bail and fled to Germany on the Polish liner Batory in 1949.

The Communists have announced only the arrest of Dertinger, but informed sources said the Reds arrested at least four other officials and fired two more in their purge of the east zone foreign office. Two others managed to escape to West Berlin.

NLSC SCHEDULES SPECIAL CLASSES

Added Courses To Be Given Late In Day Or On Saturday

Nineteen courses are scheduled for special classes during the second semester at Northeast State. Continuing the program which has become popular here, the college is offering these additional classes for late afternoon or Saturday morning. Requests for additional courses should be given to William M. Smith, dean of the college and director of teacher education.

Northeast is in a position to offer a variety of courses, and classes may be organized if the demand is sufficient to prove practical, Smith said. All courses will carry full college credit.

Registration for these special studies will be held Saturday morning, January 31 at the registrar's office in Brown Hall.

Classes will hold their first meetings Tuesday, February 3 and Saturday, February 7.

Tuesday courses which are scheduled from 4 to 6:30 p.m. include the following: Library Science 102 (literature for adolescents), speech 78 (speech correction for teachers), and Psychology 122 (child and adolescent).

Saturday classes meeting from 7:30 to 10 a.m. include: Geography

PRISON CHIEF TO SPEAK HERE

Reed Cozart Will Address Rotary Club At Meeting Thursday

Reed Cozart, assistant director of the Department of Institutions and Superintendent of Angola, will address the Monroe Rotary Club Thursday at noon at the Virginia Hotel.

Cozart is a native of Texas and received both bachelor and law degrees from the University of Texas. He practiced law in San Antonio three years before entering federal service in September, 1932.

From 1932 to May, 1940 he served as chief U. S. probation officer for the western district of Texas and later spent seven months on the staff of the Federal Bureau of Prisons in Washington before taking the position as first warden of the Federal Correction Institution at Texarkana.

On July 1, 1942 he became associate warden at Leavenworth. In June, 1945 he transferred to Seagoville as warden of the federal institution.

Cozart has made studies and surveys in several different states

FLU OUTBREAK CONTINUES TO SPREAD IN LA.

Peak Of Epidemic May Not Be Reached For Three Weeks

Health authorities reported yesterday that an outbreak of influenza in Northeast Louisiana has reached a high point, but the peak may not be reached for three more weeks.

The outbreak reached epidemic proportions last week, forcing several schools to close.

The Associated Press reported that hospitals in Louisiana were jammed. Hospitals reported many patients on the admitting lists although the wards are already filled. Some hospitals reported nursing staffs also hit by the illness.

Schools, industrial plants and offices were hard hit by the virus that moved out over the state from Northeast Louisiana.

East Carroll and Richland parish schools, which were closed last week, are scheduled to reopen their doors Monday if the outbreak has subsided.

Ouachita parish schools reported many absences due to the disease but school officials said there was no cause for alarm. Absences in some parish schools were running as high as 25 per cent of the enrollment last week.

Dr. S. J. Phillips, Louisiana director of health, said the virus is a type which hits the upper respiratory region and seems to be mild. No fatalities have been reported.

He added the illness usually runs its course in an individual in five days.

A close check is being kept on an outbreak in Caddo parish to determine if action should be taken for public control in the event of a rise in the number of cases next week.

Dr. Andrew Hedmeg, head of the health department's division of preventive medicine, said it wasn't known how many cases had developed but there were a lot of them.

"It definitely reached epidemic proportions in some parts of the state," he said.

Meanwhile, some 125 cases of influenza were reported at Keesler Air Force base in Mississippi. Brig. Gen. J. P. Kirkendall, deputy commanding general of the base, said he received orders from Washington to inoculate all base personnel against the virus.

White House Pickets Take Inaugural Holiday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—UP—Pickets asking clemency for doomed atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg disbanded a round-the-clock vigil before the White House Saturday "out of respect for the inauguration" of President-elect Eisenhower who may decide whether they live or die.

Fate of the man-and-wife spy team appears to be one of the first major problems which will confront Eisenhower after his inauguration next Tuesday.

Informed sources said they do not believe President Truman will receive a Justice Department check on the clemency appeal in time to act before leaving office. The pair has been condemned to death in New York's Sing Sing prison for giving U.S. atomic secrets to Russia.

Professor Reports Finding Pygmy Tribe Believed First Philippine Inhabitants

MANILA, Sunday, Jan. 17 (AP)—An American professor Saturday reported the discovery of a pygmy tribe which may have migrated to The Philippines some 10,000 years ago and become its earliest inhabitants.

Dr. Tage U. H. Ellinger, Danish-born Harvard doctor attached to the University of The Philippines tracked down the tiny people — known as Abenlens — in the Communist Huk-infested Zambales Mountains during a Christmas vacation.

They were located on the west coast of Central Luzon Island about 70 miles northwest of Manila —the same area occupied for thousands of years by the Negritos of the Aetas tribe.

Ellinger reported his finding to Professor H. Otley Beyer, American anthropologist and lecturer at the University of The Philippines, who described the tribe from pictures he saw as "typical proto-Malayan."

"This is definitely a new discovery," Ellinger said. "There are no known records of these people."

If Beyer's identification is correct, Ellinger said the tribe could have migrated to Luzon from the Asia mainland thousands of years ago when the island was believed still part of the continent.

Ellinger said he saw an Abenlen family of 15 but was told by residents in the area that there were about a dozen families totaling perhaps 150 members.

"The adult girls measured 4 feet 4½ inches, the men about 4 feet 8 inches," he said. "But they were entirely different from the Negritos among whom they have lived for thousands of years.

"The Abenlens have long, straight or curly hair, never the frizzled hair texture so characteristic of the Negritos. Their complexion is a light brown, much lighter than the dark hue of the Negritos.

"I noticed several of them had a distinct red tint to their hair. Their eyes were light brown, much lighter than the typical Filipino eye color and their features are remarkably fine."

Ellinger said that they have preserved a dialect of their own even though they know the Negrito language. Although he did not know anything about their social and economic life, Ellinger believed "they had been quite a savage people. They had made drinking cups from the skulls of their enemies," he said.

Ellinger decided to find out about the strange people after hearing about them from several students at the university. One attempt last October failed because the Huk-infested area had been the scene of large-scale military operations.

He made his discovery on the second attempt.

The 60-year-old Harvard doctor was a volunteer in the Norwegian Army in 1940 and received a citation from King Haakon of Norway last November. He had previously been credited with the discovery of a new type parasitic wasp in the Danube River basin when he headed an international corn borer investigation commission from 1926-31.

Ellinger served with the Scots Guards in England and was attached to the Board of Economic Warfare in Washington, D. C., during World War II.

13 KILLED IN CRASH OF AIR FORCE PLANE

No Survivors Of Eleventh Military Crash Since November

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld., Jan. 17—UP—A U.S. Air Force C-54 transport plane crashed and burned just before landing here Friday night, killing all 13 servicemen aboard in the 11th U.S. military air disaster since November.

Twelve of the dead were American servicemen. The thirteenth was a Canadian soldier.

At least 350 persons have died in the 11 crashes.

Maj. Alan Wilbur, public information officer for the Northeast Air Command, said a full-dress inquiry of the new disaster was underway. Investigators trekked over rocky terrain to examine the wreckage of the plane, which tore into the earth on a finger of the Newfoundland coastline.

The C-54 was approaching the Harmon Air Force Base near here on a routine flight from the Fort Pepperell base near St. John's, Nfld., when it broke through a cloudy layer and crashed.

The most recent military air disaster before Friday night was the crash near Logan, Utah, of a C-46 transport killing 40 persons. Among the dead were 37 homeward-bound Korean war veterans. The plane crashed Jan. 7, but was not found for five days.

Jes' Ramblin'

There is no greater, more urgent need confronting the citizens committee right now than that for the establishment of a proper place to detain offending juveniles instead of incarcerating them with hardened criminals in jail here. Irving Zeidman, chairman of a special committee of citizens, is urging action to remedy the situation.

"Many children," he states, "who are picked up by the law can be returned to their homes but many have no homes to which to return and if they have homes the atmosphere may be such that it will contribute little or nothing toward a reformation of the child. But where are we to put them," he asks.

Zeidman quoted Lawrence Higgins, member of the Louisiana Youth Commission, as saying that this state lacks even a home for delinquent colored girls.

He urges all citizens to attend an open meeting January 30 at 7 p. m. in the parish courthouse when the citizens committee, city

Army Arrests Another Red Spy Ring Suspect

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 17 (AP)— The U. S. Army's investigation of a Russian spy ring led to the detention today of a 30-year-old Vienna-born British woman who has worked several years as a typist for the American 769th Military Police Battalion in this four-power city.

A divorcee, Mrs. Theresa Harris was reported "crying helplessly that the American agents did not believe her innocence."

That word came from Mrs. Harris' mother, Mrs. Rudolph Holzer, who was permitted to see her for a while this afternoon. The prisoner's father, a white-whiskered theater critic and author well known throughout Vienna, said:

"I intend to appeal personally to the Austrian Chancellor (Dr. Leopold Figl) to intervene in my daughter's arrest."

U. S. officials emphasized that Mrs. Harris is held only for questioning and said "she did not have access to any secret information."

She is among five persons known to have been arrested here in connection with an espionage plot a Washington grand jury charged was headed by the second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, Yuri V. Novikov.

Two Austrian-born former GIs were among them — Otto Verber, 31, and Kurt Ponger, 39 — have been flown to Washington, where they face arraignment Monday on charges of participating in the ring.

Others known to be detained are Walter Lauber, Austrian-born former U. S. soldier who has been studying at Vienna University under the GI bill of Rights, and Ernest Tislowitz, a Berlin-born veteran of the U. S. Military Intelligence Service (MIS).

FIRST B-29 LOSS IN TWO YEARS OF KOREAN WAR

Planes Believed Downed Near Manchurian Border

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 18 — UP — Communist night fighter planes, reported using air-to-air rockets for the first time in Korea and possibly latest radar tracking devices, have shot down three American B-29 Superforts in the last two weeks, the Air Force announced Saturday night.

Previously only one B-29 had been downed by a Communist night fighter in the entire two and one-half years of the war. Superforts have concentrated almost entirely on night bombing since losing several planes to daylight MIG-15 jet attacks.

The Air Force said two B-29s were downed during the week ended Friday and one the previous week. Latest losses presumably were in the Saturation raids against the heavily defended rail and road bridge complex north of Sinanju, less than 75 miles from the MIG base at Antung, Manchuria.

There were no details in the Air Force announcement, but it was learned that pilots have reported use of rockets by Communist night fighters.

Pilots and flight crews also suspected that the Reds were using radar in their night fighters. Night interception of the Superforts would be difficult without it, they said.

Rockets have not been generally adopted for air combat although they were used by the Germans in World War II against American bombers. Communist fighters have been equipped with cannon and machine guns.

Pyongyang radio, voice of North Korea, said four B-29s were downed Friday night over Yonghung, between Wonsan and Hungnam on the northeast coast.

Superforts bombed a marshalling yard near Wonsan Friday night but the Air Force did not say if any were lost. Communist reports of Allied losses usually are false or exaggerated. Other night-flying Superforts hit supply areas northwest of Pyongyang.

The Air Force said only that the three lost Superforts, which carry crews of at least 11 men each, were downed in "air to air combat." It did not say if the enemy planes were jet or propeller-driven.

Eight other United Nations planes were lost during the week either to ground fire or "other causes"—usually accidents.

But American Sabrejets came through unscathed for the third straight week while destroying 13 MIG-15s, probably destroying three and damaging eight.

More Mild Weather Seen For This Area

The weather man said today's weather menu will include cloudy skies and higher temperatures this afternoon. Monday, he predicted, will be mild with temperatures in the 60s.

Yesterday's high was a chilly 42, followed by a low of 33 degrees.

Drive To Indict Russia On Genocide Begun In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)— A drive to get the U. N. General Assembly to indict Russia and her satellites here next month on a charge of crushing religious and national groups was begun here today by Rafael Lemkin, author of the U. N.'s genocide treaty.

Lemkin, whose one-man campaign got 40 nations to ratify his treaty outlawing mass destruction of any group because of their religion, race or nationality, said he is certain the Soviet bloc can be convicted of practicing genocide.

Lemkin formerly was a professor of law at Yale.

Between now and the return of the Assembly Feb. 24, Lemkin said, he hopes to persuade a number of countries to bring the U. N. action. He has begun by proposing a U. N. commission to investigate the charges, similar to the commission set up by the Assembly last month to investigate charges of black-white racial differences in South Africa.

But Lemkin said all the facts are there to convict Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and her other satellites of the crime of genocide.

The treaty defines genocide as "acts undertaken with the intent to destroy in whole or in part a national, racial, ethnic or religious groups as such, through killings, inflicting seriously mental or bodily harm, creation of conditions of life calculated to bring about physical destruction and even kidnaping of children." Neither the United States nor Russia has ratified it. Russia signed the treaty, however, in December 1949, without ratification, and is therefore bound by it, Lemkin insists.

Czechoslovakia, which has ratified the convention, singled out the Jewish aspects of defendants in recent purge trials, Lemkin sad.

He charged that the kidnaping of children of Jews in Hungary to raise them as Communists was matched by the kidnaping of 28,000 Greek children taken away from their parents by Communist guerrillas in 1947.

Polish children are being shipped to Red China for "re-education," Lemkin said.

The breaking - up of the Latvian, Lithuanian and Estonian republics, killing of their nationals and shifting of huge populations to Siberia was part of the Soviet plan, Lemkin told reporters.

The accusations against the Jewish doctors in Moscow in a purported medical murder conspiracy revealed that the Soviet government is acting in the same way that the satellites have been acting in disposing of Jews, he said.

Parish Jail Phone Number Is Changed

Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant announced yesterday that the number of the parish jail phone had been changed effective immediately. The new number is 5814, Sheriff Grant stated.

This number is used during the night or on holidays when persons want to contact the sheriff office. In making the announcement, Grant urged that all persons who call the parish jail make notations of the new number in a convenient place. The number formerly was 5081.

Marechal, president of the Monroe Optimist Club, is shown presenting Hershel Abbott with a handsome wrist watch for winning the oratorical contest recently sponsored by the Optimist Club. Five boys from local schools participated. The winner will be taken to Oklahoma City to take part in the district convention in the spring. If he wins there he will go to the international convention. Prizes there will include scholarship awards of $1,000 for first place, $750 for second place and $500 for third place. The watch was presented at a banquet held by the Optimist clug. Other boys participating were Mickey Tarver, James Knight, Eddie Pohlman and Tommy Ross.

TWO STATIONS PLAN STUDIOS IN FERRIDAY

Natchez Broadcasting Companies To Set Up Facilities Soon

FERRIDAY ,Jan. 17. (Special)—Two Natchez radio stations have disclosed plans to open special broadcasting facilities in Ferriday and originate daily broadcasts from here.

P. K. Ewing, Jr., general manager of radio station WMIS in Natchez, said his station will boardcast one hour daily from studios on Louisiana Avenue here. He said the program will be from 11 a. m. to noon with more broadcast time here to be added in the future.

Meanwhile, announcement has been made by Gen. Mgr. Paul Schilling of station WNAT in Natchez that his station plans to open a special broadcasting studio in Ferriday in the near future. Schilling said installation of the equipment will take place Monday. The studio will be located on the street floor of the King Hotel. Plans call for two hours of broadcasting daily with an announcer on the scene to handle programs. The WNAT studio here will go on the air at 1 p. m. daily and continue until 3 p. m.

The Ferriday studio will devote its efforts to local drives, civic organizations, clubs and the like, Schilling said.

Ewing said the WMIS studio here will feature programs consisting of civic events, sports reporting, and other events of interest to residents of Ferriday and surrounding territory.

FINISHES BASIC TRAINING — James M. Whittington, S. A., 1217 South Second street, Monroe, son of Mrs. E. L. Whittington, will soon be sent to join his brother in service in Korea.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Canada (AP)—James Mills of Little Pond, who recently celebrated his 100th birthday, says his only complaint is that he hasn't enough work to do. "I have worked hard all my life," he says, "but my hardest life is now—doing nothing."

CRACKING DOWN ON DAIRYMEN

Dealers Must Furnish Health Certificates Of Animals Feb. 1

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dealers in dairy type cattle must furnish health certificates with their animals effective Feb. 1 as part of Louisiana's campaign to eradicate Bang's disease.

The regulations, issued by the Livestock Sanitary Board, already cover auction barns and breeder's association sales.

Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce said health certificates, signed by a veterinarian, must state that the animals are free from contagious and infectious diseases and have met special requirements to guard against Bang's disease.

He said Louisiana has the highest incidence of Bang's disease in the nation, with 12 to 15 per cent of its cattle affected compared to a national average of five per cent.

Dr. F. B. Wheeler, state veterinarian, estimated the state will spend $200,000 this year to wipe out the disease.

"This is a public health problem in addition to being a problem for the state's cattle industry," he said. "Bang's disease is transmitted to human beings as undulant fever, which is difficult to cure, and is often misdiagnosed as malaria.

RE-ELECTED — Malory Martin Walsworth, East Carroll parish superintendent of education, reelected at the school board meeting of Jan. 14. Mr. Walsworth has been in the educational field for 28 years, with 23 of them spent in East Carroll.

BEER FOILS HOLDUP

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — William F. Muenstermann, 71, was glad he had a pail of beer when a holdup man attacked him the other day. He hit his assailant with the beer pail and the man fled.

"But I spilled the beer," Muenstermann said sadly.

ADDS WORKSHOP ON PERCUSSION

Will Be Held At Northeast State Jan. 24 From 9 A. M. To 1 P. M.

The music department of Northeast State has added to its calendar of features a percussion workshop, scheduled January 24 from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. in the Fine Arts building on the campus.

All band directors and instrumental teachers are invited to bring their drummers and percussion players for this complete and comprehensive project, Joe Barry Mullins, professional percussion player and band director at Northeast, announced.

The workshop is planned for all students, from the youngest players to the most advanced, Mullins explained.

Lectures, demonstrations and performances will be given by Grace and Joe Berryman and Mr. Mullins. These will cover many phases of percussion playing including: tympani, marimba, xylophone and bells, bass drum, cymbals, traps and accessories, Latin American instruments and rhythms, snare drum, percussion, in the marching band and concert band percussion section.

Equipment and teaching are also included in the list of workshop factors to be considered.

A special feature of the day's program will be numerous performances of solo and ensemble literature. Performing musicians will be Grace and Joe Berryman and Mr. Mullins. They plan to use percussion music of considerable variety.

The Berrymans represent the C. G. Conn Company, Ltd., in several southern states, where they have appeared in a number of "clinics." Both are professional percussion players and have had successful teaching experiences in addition to their performances.

Mullins, assistant professor of music at Northeast, is the author of an article on percussion which appeared in a recent issue of Instrumentalist, national magazine for instrumental teachers.

Negro Hurt As Leg Caught In Squeeze

A 42-year-old Negro received minor injuries late Friday when his leg was caught between the bumper of an automobile and a guard around the gasoline pump at Saul Adler's garage, 201 South Grand.

Monroe police officers stated that a 1951 Buick, driven by Paul M. Forster, of Evanston, Ill., was backing up to the pump when the accident occurred. Taylor was unlocking the pump when he was caught between the bumper and the iron guard around the pump.

A Dramatic Fight

There are two events in the news of today which assume awe-inspiring importance to every citizen of this nation. They are important because they will most likely determine the course of world events for years to come. They will probably determine whether or not a new war is to be unleashed in the near future against a world which by all rights, should be tired of war, but which has been forced by fate and the Soviet Union to gird for a coming onslaught.

These two events are equal in their importance.

One is the inauguration of a former farm boy, a lamb among wolves, politically speaking, to the highest office this nation can offer. Dwight Eisenhower will assume his office on the coming Tuesday, an office which has responsibilities never before encountered by any American President. Upon every move he makes will rest the safety and security of every citizen of this nation and what is called the "Free World."

The other event, or series of events, is the dramatic battle going on inside the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics between Levrenti P. Beria, the head of the Soviet Secret Political Police, sometimes termed the M. V. D. or the N. K. V. D., and Georgi M. Malenkov, member of the Supreme Soviet, and present secretary of the Secretariat of the Soviet Communist Party.

Why is this battle raging? Stalin will most certainly not live forever. He is an old man. His power at this point is probably "on the wane". There must be a successor chosen before his death. Therefore, the two former allies, Beria and Malenkov, are attempting by the use of power politics to make the final decision. It is useless to add that the loser will not retire to his home in Minsk; he will eventually be shot. There are no "losers" in the Soviet Union. A loser is a potential winner to any Soviet leader.

Until now, Premier Stalin has been able to control with the skill of a genius in political organization, manipulation and operation, the younger opponents of each department of Soviet Government. In fact, he has always assumed that by the constant warfare and dispute forever prevalent among his lieutenants, that he could keep opposition from his own person. In this idea, he has simply followed the ideas of lesser dictators, and perfected it to an unheard of degree of political mastery.

The accusation by the Soviet Government that nine doctors (academicians of medical science, as they are known in the Soviet Union) have conspired to murder several high military and civil officials is simply a warning that this fight is now underway. The drama is following prescribed lines of the great Soviet purge trials in the fateful year of 1938 when Stalin elected to purge the majority of brilliant military leaders out of existence. This was a huge gamble which nearly cost the Soviet Union its life. Three years later, when the mad Fuhrer overran the Soviet Union, Stalin may well have had use for the purged leaders.

Now, this first operation, the accusation that British and American intelligence agencies are plotting to kill through the use of Soviet doctors, members of the Red Army and official government, is simply the prelude to another bath of blood which could inundate the Soviet Union. However, the Stalinist idea of dictatorship will attempt to destroy either one side or the other before the purge gets started. It is very likely that Stalin will have by now actually chosen his successor and the purge will have to be controlled to see that no valuable men are unnecessarily sacrificed as happened in 1938. There is no doubt that such a purge will occur and these "spy" accusations are simply the prelude.

The Soviet leaders today realize that any war with the United States will, of necessity, have to be a fight to the finish. They further know that it will be a war of frightful costs and fearful punishment resulting on both sides. One will come out the master of the world, no matter how low the living standards may have gone. Therefore, never before in the short, turbulent history of the Bolshevic state has a necessity for strong leadership been so paramount. On the other hand, there must be valuable men to help operate the war. There cannot be sacrifice in the face of a gamble for national existence.

Far from a revolutionary government, the present Soviet society has become as reactionary as it is possible to get. It is now cynical and corrupt and a terrible monument to its creators. The best chance the Soviet Union has is through a world grown similar due to polices forced upon that world by none other than the Soviet Union. Should world chaos reign, the Soviets would have an easy victory. This has been master politician Stalin's hope. His every action has been pointed in that direction.

Stalin's fate is now in the hands of history. Upon the success or failure of his chosen follower will rest the ultimate outcome which history will place upon his life. The fight is on and probably already decided.

This week is an important one in history.

Grassroots Opinion

Sheldon, Iowa, Mail: "The American Farm Bureau in its annual convention at Seattle—called for the restriction of federal entry into the power business to instances where private enterprise or state or local government were not able or willing to handle the job . . . All in all their revolutions seemed based upon the soundest business judgement and they are every encouraging."

Ventura, Calif., County News: "The people spoke . . . not just for a change in political leadership, but for a change-of-course for the Ship of State. No more of this fairly effortless running-free, they said, let's come about, into the wind, trim our sails and drive her . . . This was the mandate to Ike. It was more than that. It was likewise a mandate to ourselves—to roll up our sleeves and our bell-bottomed trousers and turn-to for the new skipper."

Meat prices remain high, says an authority, because housewives will have only the best cuts. Presumably that is why they are giving soupbones away for dog meat.

The Washington Parade

By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower will have not quite 25 top positions to fill immediately out of about 100 places on the most important independent commissions, boards and agencies below cabinet rank in his new administration.

This count is indicated by a check on some 25 of these organzations. It shows 11 actual vacancies to fill, eight resignations definitely submitted, with a few others expected, and four appointments, as yet unconfirmed by the Senate. Ike may have a chance to replace these four.

Of approximately 90 of these jobs now filled, 55 are held by Democrats, 25 by Republicans, five by independents. To replace a majority of the positions now held by Democrats, it will be necessary in most cases for the Eisenhower administration to wait until terms expire. For if a member of an independent commisson wants to hang on to his job, he can usually do it.

Atomic Energy Commission — Chairman Gordon Dean (D) may resign his chairmanship. His term as commissioner expires in June, 1953. There is one AEC vacancy which Eisenhower could fill now with a new head.

Civil Aeronautics Board — One vacancy for Eisenhower to fill with a Republican. Present Chairman Oswald Ryan is a Republican.

Civil Service Commission—Three probable vacancies. Chairman Robert Ramspeck has resigned. Frances Perkins (D) and James D. Mitchell (R) are both expected to resign.

Council of Economic Advisers—One vacancy coming up. Chairman Leon Keyserling (D) and John D. Clark (R) have not announced their plans.

Export-Import Bank — The chairmanship is vacant, caused by the resignation of Herbert Gaston (D). Appointment of Wilson L. Townsend (R) to Ex-Im's board has not been confirmed by Congress.

Economic Stabilizer DiSalle Resigned

Economic Stabilization Agency—Director Mike DiSalle, Price Director Joseph H. Freehill and Rent Director James M. Henderson (all Democrats) have resigned. There are two possible vacancies on Wage Stabilization Board but the four present public members intend to stay on the job till their dog dies in the spring.

Federal Communications Commission—Chairman Paul A. Walker (D) has given no indication he will resign before his term expires in June, 1955. Eugene H. Merrill (D) has a recess appointment as yet unconfirmed by the Senate. This gives Eisenhower a chance to send up a substitute appointment and name him chairman.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. —The terms of Chairman Maple T. Harle (D) and H. Earl Cook (R) run to 1957. Preston Delano's term as comptroller of currency runs till October, 1953, so he could stay on FDIC that long. If he resigns, it would create an FDIC vacancy.

Federal Power Commission — Chairman Thomas C. Buchanan (D) was given a recess appointment last June but it is as yet unconfirmed. That gives Ike a chance to fill another job here.

Federal Maritime Board — One vacancy to fill due to Admiral Cochran's resignation.

Federal Trade Commission — James M. Mead (D) will resign as chairman, but hold his job as commissioner till 1955. The term of John Carson (Ind. R) expired in September, so that leaves a vacancy which could be filled with a new appointee as chairman.

Federal Reserve Board — No vacancies and no resignations expected.

Housing and Home Finance Agency — Present holders of the three top jobs have given no indication whether they will resign. They are Administrator Raymond H. Foley, Public Housing Commissioner John E. Egan and Federal Housing Commissioner Walter S. Green.

Home Loan Bank Board—First vacancy will be expiration of term for Kenneth G. Heisler (D) in June, 1953.

Larson Stays On To Break In Successor

General Services Administration — Jesse Larson (D) will resign Jan. 20, but will stay on to break in his successor.

Interstate Commerce Commission—Two vacancies. The terms of William E. Lee (R) and William J. Patterson (Ind.) expired Dec. 31, but they continue to serve till their successors are named. The term of J. Haden Alldredge (D) as chairman runs till May, 1953.

Reconstruction Finance Corporation—One, maybe two vacancies. Chairman Donald C. Cook (D) serves as chairman at the pleasure of the President and is expected to resign, though he has not announced it. Commissioner J. Howard Rossback (D) was given a recess appointment. If Congress doesn't confirm by Feb. 10, he's out.

Tariff Commission—Two Republican vacancies caused by the death of John Gregg and retirement of Dr. E. Dana Durand. The President has the right to name chairman and vice chairman, so those jobs, now held by Oscar B. Ryder and Lynn R. Edminster, may change.

Tennessee Valley Authority—The TVA law says its directors shall not be political appointees and only Congress can fire them by joint resolution. The first vacancy will come in 1954, when the term of Chairman Gordon Clapp (Ind.) expires.

National Labor Relations Board — No vacancies and no resignations expected. Chairman Paul Herzog is a Democrat, but he worked under Dewey in New York. First vacancy will come in December, 1954, when the term of Paul L. Styles (Ind.) expires.

Veterans' Administration — Gen. Carl R. Gray, Jr., wants to stay on as administrator. He is counting on his past service as chief of transportation for Ike in Europe to hold his job for him.

Spotlight On Hollywood

By Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Paramount will be the first major movie company to build a separate telefilm studio. But even more important, the grapevine has it that all Paramount stars eventually will alternate between big-screen chores and home-channel flickers.

Paul Raibourn, vice-president of Paramount, declined to comment when asked by VARIETY the direct question: "Will Paramount stars be in your telefilms?" But he did say:

"I have no prejudices against film stars."

Need any more clues, Myrtle?

And on the same hot subject: Bud Abbott and Lou Costello will not only film their theater movies, but also their TV films, at U-I!

Ben Blue and NBC are poised over a contract that will tie him up for 26 half-hour telefilms—the result of his click as a pantomimist from whom Charlie Chaplin could take pointers . . . George Fenneman's still blushing. He announced the Groucho Marx show as "You Bet Your Wife."

Herman Levin, the Broadway producer, was asked when he was going into TV.

Wheel Chair Bound

It's audience howls for Joan Davis' filmed TV show, "I Married Joan," zooming to channel heights in its first season. But it's Joan flashing the red light to other stars on the TVerge:

"Two a day in vaudeville was beautiful. Radio? What a breeze! It was stealing money. But this—this is IT. I've never worked so hard in my life. I'm glad I took care of myself as a little girl."

As the owner of her own show, Joan plays a dual role. "I pay the bills and I'm the heavy," she says.

Putting a 26-minute show on film every week, she figures, is worth the effort for the rich rewards.

"The pictures will be playing when I'm in a wheel chair," she beams, "and after that it'll be great for my daughter. I'll leave her with a cracked voice and a lot of negatives."

P. J. Wolfson, a top movie producer who switched to TV, holds the production reins with Joan on the show and has developed their one-day shooting schedule with three cameras to slick perfection.

Broadway Lullaby

Hush, little heartache, don't you sigh,
You'll be a Torch Song bye'nbye...
Out of your sadness and out of your pain
Someone will fashion a haunting refrain,
Softly your teardrops will trickle and flow
Into the voices of Johnnee and Jo. . .
Frankie and Dinah and Patti and Bing
Will give us the lowdown on your suffering;
While the disc-jurqys their platters will spin,
Informing the world what a fool you have been,
Radio crooners and vaudeo stars
Will tell us your troubles in 32 bars,
And thousands of juke-boxes over the land
Will speak of your sorrow and we'll understand. . .
So hush, little heartache, don't cry,

Inside Hollywood

By Jimmy Fiddler

HOLLYWOOD, January 17, — Readers of this column are well awart of my feelings about American Communists and Communist sympathizers. I have nothing but contempt for the whole lot of rabble-rousing ingrates who would attempt to destroy our democratic form of government. But I am also impatient with the indiscriminate picketing of movie theaters every time some little group of private citizens decides to stage a witch hunt.

We, here in Hollywood, recently witnessed a most confused, ill-conceived piece of name-calling at the star-studded premiere of "Moulin Rouge." A few American Legionnaires, apparently without authorization from the various Los Angeles posts, took it upon themselves to picket the theater. They paraded ostentatiously past the box office bearing placards denouncing Jose Ferrer and John Huston, the picture's star and director.

These self-elected spokesmen for the Legion announced to newspapermen they would instigate similar picketing in every city where this picture is shown. But the American Legion post in Beverly Hills, where the picketing took place, completely disavowed and connection with the display.

This sort of thing, in my judgment, demands an immediate show-down. If Huston and Ferrer are Communists, let the FBI so brand them, in order that the motion picture industry itself can deal with them. Ban their pictures, if it so decides. But if both men are innocent, they should take legal action against the pickets in order to protect their own good names, and that of the industry which they represent. Whatever the verdict may be, it should be arrived at fairly and honestly. Holding Kangaroo court on an individual's loyalty is not my idea of good Americanism.

The surprise elopement of John Barrymore, Jr., and 24-year-old Cara Williams, has Hollywood predicting that the kids are in for shrd shrd shrd shrd shrd shrd plenty of grief when they face John's Aunt Ethel and Uncle Lionel. One newspaper headlined the story of the elopement this way: "Family sparks are expected to fly over Barrymore's elopement." I hope the newspapers are wrong. The kids are married now, and nothing would be gained by creating a family rift. Besides, considering the play - boy reputation that John has been making for himself, the family should welcome any indication that young Barrymore is beginning to settle down.

Stage and screen stars have always been jealous of competing stars, or lesser associates, when the latter were given equal or superior prominence in billing. Stage folk like to see their names large in the bright lights. I hear that Cary Grant is incensed because Ginger Rogers, reportedly, gets top billing in the advertising of their new movie, "Monkey Business." I hear further that Cary has discussed the possibility of bringing suit against the studio. In this instance, I must sa ythat Grant is out of order. His salary for making the picture was fabulous, if it was as reported. Therefore, he should be willing to allow the studio to decide which billing is most likely to get back its investment.

It's Academy Award time again, and the industry is now proposing stringent measures to prevent television cameras from covering the big shindig on the night the awards are handed out. This is another instance of Hollywood shortsightedness in dealing with TV. By banning television cameras from photographing the presentation of the awards the industry is passing up millions of dollars worth of the best kind of publicity that could regenerate lost interest on motion pictures. I'm finding it increasingly difficult to build up sympathy for a business that insists on digging its own grave.

The vital role that publicity plays in the rise or fall of motion picture personalities has been the subject of many an editorial published in this column, the good and the bad, the constructive and the destructive. An over-zealous press agent has been passing out stories that little Natalie Wood, eleven-year-old actress, has been receiving proposals of marriage through the mails. If that is true — and I frankly doubt that it is — the letters should be turned over to the postal authorities for investigation, instead of boasting about them in the newspapers. Marriage proposals to a child of that age reek of depravity. Natalie's parents should order a halt to such distasteful publicity.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Peter is six years old, and a more annoying child would be difficult to find. At home he has to be pushed, nagged and shoved into doing the simple tasks required of every child — washing his face, brushing his teeth, putting on his clothes and eating his breakfast.

Unlss his mother stands over him insisting, he will still be in his pajamas sitting on the edge of the bed reading a comic book he smuggled in the day before. Driven to work, he sulks and sits in a black mood. Every morning sees a battle, every evening brings its climax of storm and stress.

In school the pattern is the same. Now and then, he, by group contact perhaps, does his work and does it well. But that lasts only for a time. Soon he relapses into his Sit and Sulk attitude. The teacher gave the class a review test the other day and Peter handed in his paper without so much as his name on it. The teacher sent the paper home with, "This is Peter's test paper. WHY?" written across it.

Peter's mother had had more than her share of work and trouble that day and, when she saw the paper, she lost her patience and gave him a spanking. "It's no wonder the children call you Peter the Pest," she said. "That's what you are. Just a pest. Go out of my sight, anywhere so I can't see you."

Peter did so. He walked and walked until he was quite lost and a kind lady stopped her car and said, "Where are you going little boy?"

"No place," said Peter, doggedly.

The matter ended in the lady's taking Peter to the police station in her town, some miles from Peter's home. When mother cooled off and discovered that Peter had taken her at her word, she was frantic. She began telephoning and soon learned where he was and went for him. "I didn't mean it, Peter," she said. "Yes, you did," said Peter. "Everybody calls me that. And I'm going to run away, every day."

Of course, Peter had earned that name, but it did not help the situation. Of course, he earned a protest from the teacher, but whose responsibility was it to see that he put something on that paper, or to learn WHY? The note did not help either. And spanking an already overburdened child did not do any good.

Peter needed the attention of an experienced teacher-psychologist. His behavior was based on a cause concerning which such an expert could advise.

Very often it is the kind of food your child eats that brings on ill-tempers and tantrums. Dr. Patri's booklet No. 303, "Eating," tells how eating habits affect a child's health and disposition. CAROL LANE IS TO VISIT CITY

Noted Travel Authority To Deliver Lecture At Hotel Frances

Carol Lane, America's leading authority on travel for women, will come to Monroe for an address in Hotel Frances, Thursday, Jan. 29 at 7:30 p. m. She is sponsored by the Business and Professional Girls' club of the local Y.W.C.A.

Carol Lane has a unique job. All year long she travels--to make vacations better for other people.

As women's travel director of Shell Oil Company, she is a roving researcher, testing places, gadgets and ideas to increase the touring pleasures of the million of American families who take vacation trips by car. She has motored with children from tiny babies to teen-agers, taking along both pets and formulas. She has traveled with naturalists, scientists and educators to learn how to make touring more educational. In short, if there is any conceivable way of enriching the family vacation Miss Lane tests it personally.

After answering more than 40,000 queries from women about "what to wear", Miss Lane developed this year a "Vacation Dress-O-Graph" for planning a one-suitcase wardrobe that is amazingly convenient and completely fashionable for any typical two-week vacation. Ingeniously arranged so that the reader can actually mix-match the costume ingredients. Miss Lane's Dress-O-Graph shows four basic ensembles which combine to make about two dozen costume changes. One of its highlights is a set of easy-to-make jersey triangles which can be transformed into a variety of blouses and halters.

Besides fashion tips that help women tour more pleasantly, Miss Lane also tells parents how youngsters can "learn and like it" on a trip. Working with the American Museum of Natural History, and a committee of eight noted educators, scientists and historians, Miss Lane is now at work developing a painless but profitable plan for bringing the child's schoolbooks to life during vacation travel. During research trips with grade school students, Miss Lane has tested formulas for balancing recreation and education, checked the interests and enthusiasms of boys versus girls, helped fabricate home-made equipment for nature study in wildlife areas, and spotted places throughout the country where young people can get first-hand educational experience.

Freeda Mickel Signs 'Kiss Me Kate' Show

The attraction will play one performance only on the stage at Neville auditorium February 12 at 8 p. m.

In sponsoring "Kiss Me Kate" here, Miss Mickel said last night, "I feel in booking this show for Monroe that it will be paving the way for the return of the legitimate theater to our community."

"Worthwhile stage attractions have been noticeable absent in our Twin Cities," she added, "and we should take advantage of being able to enjoy a Broadway production direct from New York on a par with larger cities of the nation."

An outstanding cast of Broadway favorites will sing, dance and clown their way through the hilarious book and Cole Porter tunes of this musical, which has just completed a run of over one thousand consecutive performances in New York City.

College Credits Will Be Given To Nurses

Northwestern State College, department of nursing, will offer to graduate registered nurses the course, Community Aspects of Nursing, Nursing 431, which carries college credit of three hours, the spring semester. The registration date will be February 26 at the Monroe division of the department of nursing, E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

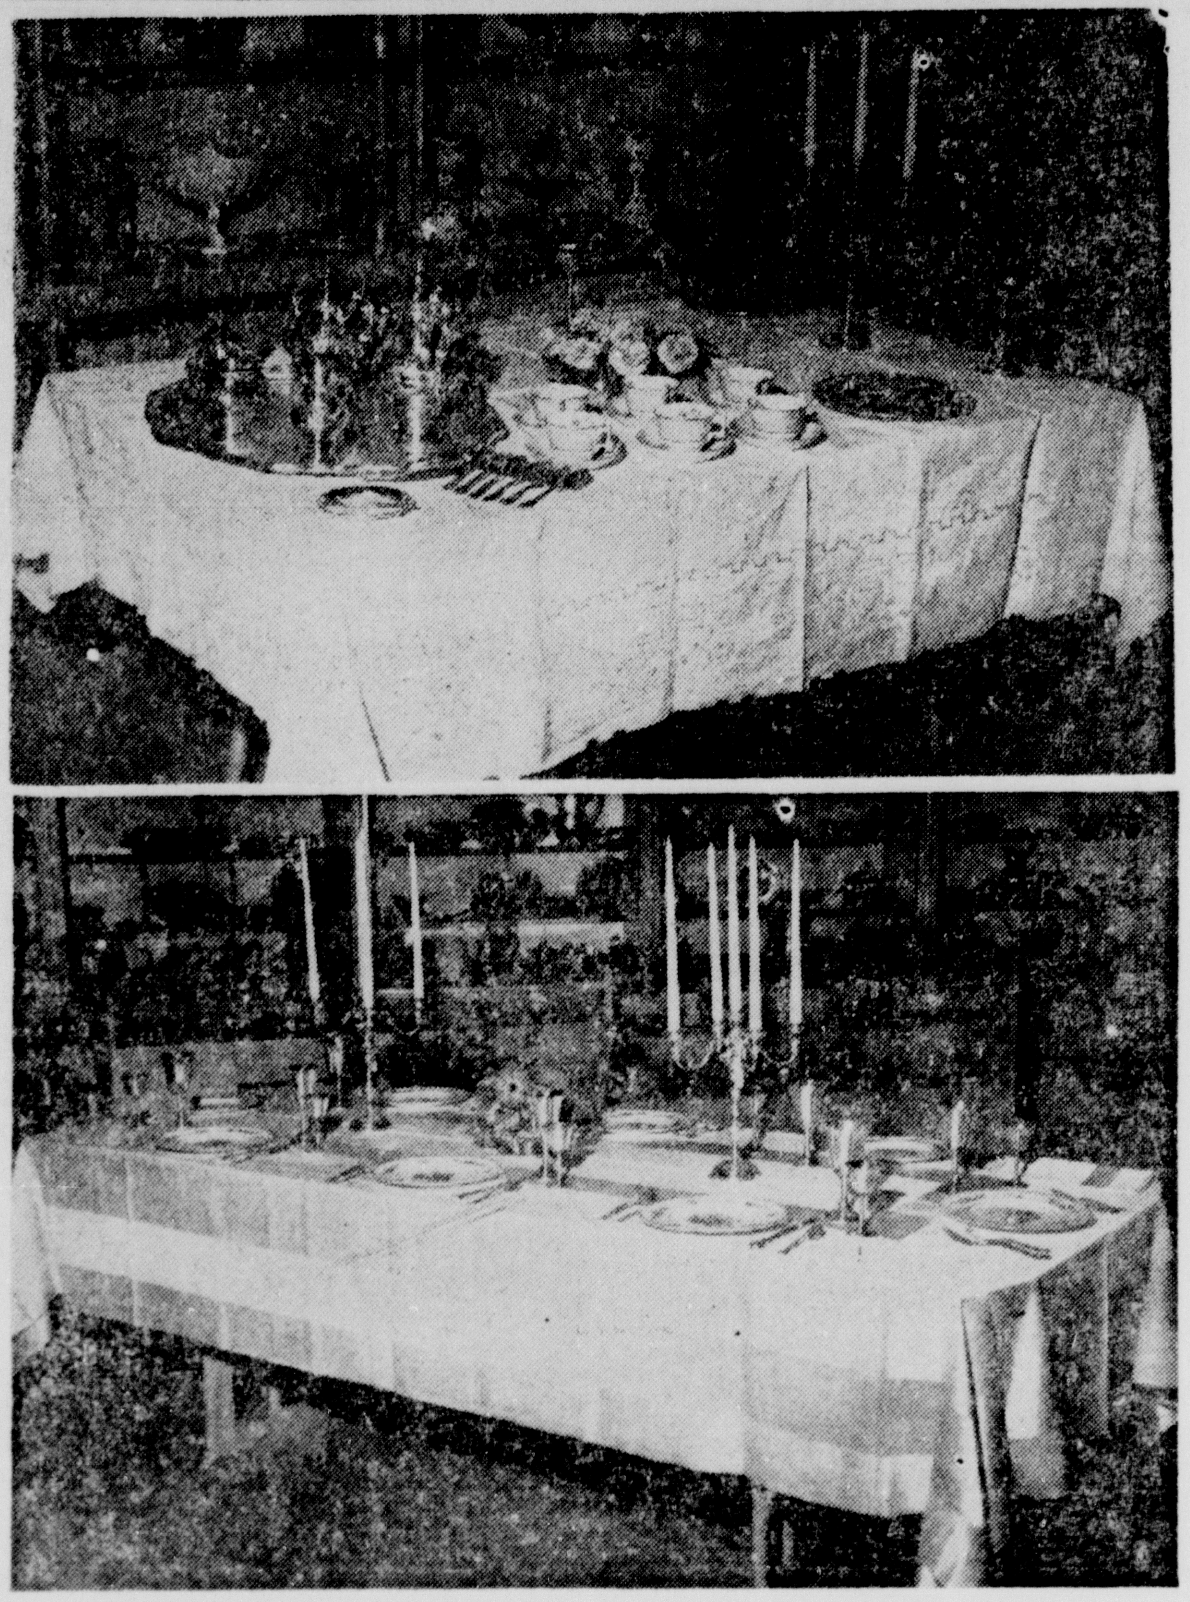
College credits earned can be applied toward a B. S. degree in nursing at Northwestern State College.

Miss Lorraine Means, assistant professor of nursing and director of public health nursing from the campus division of the department of nursing in Natchitoches, will teach the course.

Bar Examiners Require Early Applications

Eugene D. Saunders, New Orleans, secretary of the committee on bar admissions, reminds those interested that the committee will hold its examinations in New Orleans on March 16, 17, and 18, 1953, and that applications with documents attached must be filed on or before February 16, 1953.

Application is to be made to Stephen A. Mascaro, assistant secretary of the committee, 522 Godchaux Building, New Orleans 16, La., for blanks and information regarding the examinations.



FORMAL DINNER TABLE SET—The Palace Department Store set a formal dinner table at the request of the Delhi High School Home Economics Class, Instructed by Mrs. Pearl Floyd. A personal visit was made by the students through the gift department to view the lovely dinner setting. This was to illustrate, in a practical way, their studies of the proper placing and use of silverware and China. Upon completion, a tour was made to the third floor to see the new fashion fabrics for Spring. After this trip, the students will return to Delhi to hold their own formal dinner as one of their school projects. The Palace stated it was happy to accommodate this class and invited other schools to make a group visit and inspect all departments of interest to them.

LIBRARIAN BRAVES TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Television is no more a threat to good reading habits in children, says librarian Dorothy Leland, than radio was a generation ago. She asserts that book publishers, newspaper editors, schools, teachers and parents are teaming up to meet the challenge of TV for the mind and personality of the youngster.

INAUGURATION PRAYERS ASKED

National Council Of Churches Calls For Observance Jan. 20

Because of the importance of this inauguration day and since this nation finds itself facing so many grave issues, the National Council of Churches is calling for the observance of January 20 as a day of prayer for the nation.

The council requests all pastors to keep the churches open for prayer during the entire day. A vigil of prayer in the churches is suggested beginning about 8 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening. This may be observed by local churches individually or interdenominationally. Pastors are urged to remember in their pulpit prayers the new president and the nation on Sunday, January 18.

The following suggested prayer is offered by Rev. H. L. Johns, Methodist minister.

"Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, God of the nations and God of our lives, we lift our hearts to Thee on this day of Inauguration.

"We are grateful to Thee, O Lord for our country. Thou hast blessed us with abundant material and spiritual blessings. Continue Thy favor and mercy upon us, O Lord.

"Bless, strengthen and guide the new president of the United States and his cabinet, in the discharge of their great responsibilities and in their leadership of the nation. May our leaders, our legislators, our public officials be those who have been taught the wisdom of the Kingdom of God, and walk in the light of Thy truth.

"Cleanse our public life of every evil and cause us to remember that righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.

"Defend our liberties, O God, and preserve us by Thy holy power. May peace come soon to our troubled world, and the nations of earth learn to dwell together in understanding and brotherhood.

"May we recognize Thy Divine Hand in all our national life, and render unto Thee and to our country our devotion and our service.

"Hear our prayer and grant us Thy blessing, we ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Saviour, the Way, the Truth, and the Life, Amen."

Man is the only mammal known to produce two types of twins, one type from two eggs and the other from one egg.

ENDING BASIC—Jim B. Maxey, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Maxey, Sterlington, La., is completing his AF basic airmen indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

Although wild cranberries were available to the first settlers in what is now the United States, the berries have been cultivated only since the white men came to the country.

Negro Confesses To Two House Burglaries

Detectives of the Monroe police department arrested a Negro man late Friday who confessed to two house burglaries.

The Negro was identified as Alvis Spears, of Monroe.

Spears admitted breaking into the home of Stella Spears, 511 Atkinson street, on the night of January 11 and taking approximately $1.50 in change. He further admitted breaking into the same house three months prior to the January 11 burglary and stealing $3.50.

Auditions Slated On Horace Heidt's Show

Auditions will be held Monday and Tuesday nights starting at 7:30 in the studios of KNOE for all persons wishing to try out for the Horace Heidt's show.

Anyone wishing to audition for the show may do so by being at the studios at the appointed hours. Persons auditioning will have to supply their music and accompanist.

Group performers will be limited to four.

PHILIP AMBROSE

AMBROSE TO BE GUEST SOLOIST

Will Appear With Shreveport Symphony Orchestra Jan. 25

Philip Ambrose, pianist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose, Monroe, and a junior at Neville High School, will appear as guest soloist with the Shreveport Symphony Orchestra on Sunday, January 25, at 3 p.m.

The concert, comprised entirely of chamber music, will be played in the auditorium of Broodmoor High School. Accompanying the soloist in his performance of the first movement of Mozart's Concerto in A Major will be the traditional Mozart orchestra.

This appearance comes to the 16 year old student as a reward for his gaining first place in a state wide concerto contest held in Shreveport in December. He won in a field of 21 contestants judged by Silvio Scionti, of the Texas State Teachers' College faculty, Sidney Palmer, conductor of the Arkansas State Symphony, of Little Rock, and Mrs. Jean Despujols, chairman of the competition.

The talented youth plays first clarinet in the Neville High School band. He has had seven years formal training in the piano. His mother was his first teacher, followed by Miss Anna Dunn in Corpus Christi, Tex. Later, as a student of Frank Parker, in Monroe, Philip won the first J. Paul Hewitt scholarship to Interlochen, Mich.

For the past two years he has been under the guidance of Florence Ziegler Allbritton at Northeast State College, and is the second of her students to gain an appearance with the Shreveport orchestra. Joe Monroe, Jr., won the collegiate competition and performed with the group as soloist in 1950.

Tickets will be available at the door on the day of the concert for those who do not hold season memberships.

JES' RAMBLIN'

and parish officials and the Louisiana Youth Commission will meet to discuss the situation further.

A blind woman, Mrs. J. B. Puckett, operator of the post office newsstand in Shreveport, Thursday had an interesting experience when, all alone, she boarded a Delta Airways plane bound for Los Angeles. This plucky woman will be in that city for four weeks' training with a seeing eye dog. The animal is provided by International Guiding Eyes and a Shreveport group is defraying all costs. The dog itself is valued at more than $1,000.

These animals are almost human and a new world will be opened to Mrs. Puckett when she returns with her faithful animal friend.

Children from West Monroe's Crosley School had, for them a momentous project when, with their teachers they boarded a westbound Illinois Central train Thursday en route to Ruston.

For most of them it was their first train trip. In Ruston, they were met by a school bus from home and conveyed around the imposing buildings of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, and were shown other sights of the city.

Later they returned home by bus. The youngsters were from the two fourth grade rooms at school and teachers who made the trip with them were Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth and Mrs. Ora Gaston.

Rev. James T. Horton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rev. J. C. Murphy of Ruston, and Rev. J. T. Owens, of Jena, have returned from a two - week evangelistic trip to Jamaica. It was sponsored by the Southern Baptist convention which sent a total of 70 ministers in an effort to spread the gospel in the tropics. The three named were the only ministers from Louisiana.

A number of conversions are reported.

Asked if the language there was such as to prove a barrier, the pastor said that the native Jamaicans all speak English, but with a heavy British accent.

Officers of Grace Episcopal Church for a three - year term have just been elected by the vestry. They are as follows: O. N. McNeil, E. N. Hemphill, T. H. Allen, Henry Bernstein Jr., and Ivy Faulk. They are to replace T. F. Wilson, L. U. Fourmy, Forrest Linquist, W. W. Kellogg and F. L. Smith. Mr. Snellings was elected senior warden, replacing Mr. Fourmy. E. N. Hemphill was elected secretary of the vestry, replacing Mr. Linquist and Harry Frazer Jr. replaces David Agnew as treasurer.

This afternoon a silver tea will be held in the O'Kelly home, 123 North Sixth Street as a benefit for the newest Catholic Church to be established here, called Our Lady of Fatima, which is to be erected in the college area.

Mrs. Charles Mitchell and Miss Mary O'Kelly will be hostesses and will at this time show the outstanding features of their home which is regarded by many as possibly the oldest residence here.

The public is invited to attend the tea.

BENDEL WILL BE ROTARY SPEAKER

Will Give One Of Major Addresses At Meeting Near Gulfport

A prominent member of the Monroe Rotary Club, Dr. William L. Bendel, will be one of the major speakers at the annual district conference of Rotary International at the Edgewater Gulf hotel, near Gulfport, Miss., on January 29 and 30, it was announced here today. Dr. Bendel has taken as his subject, "Let Down Your Buckets."

Representatives of the more than 50 other Rotary clubs in Louisiana and western Mississippi which make up the district also will attend the conference. Host clubs are those in Shreveport and Cedar Grove, it was stated. The annual conference is held to review Rotary service activities and to make plans for increasing their effectiveness.

P. Hicks Cadle, director of Rotary International, of Denver, Colo. will make the principal address at the conference, speaking on the subject, "Tolerance vs. Appreciation." District Governor Dan A. Outlaw, of Opelousas, will preside at the conference sessions.

M. A. Abernathy, of Shreveport, who is in charge of arrangements for the conference, stated that addresses will be given by Robert T. Nash, of Alexandria, David D. Dupuy, of New Iberia, Henry Bernard, of Natchitoches, C. K. Ballard, of Lake Charles, Wiley B. Cotten, Jr., of Baton Rouge, Gen. Charles R. Doran, of Lafayette, and Rudolph Richard, of DeQuincy, in addition to those named. He has also lined up a full program of entertainment for delegates and their wives, who are termed Rotary Anns.

SLEET, RAIN COVER NATION

Bitter Cold Wave Sends Temperatures Plunging

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 —UP—Snow, sleet and freezing rain coated highways with ice from the Midwest to Texas Saturday, while in the East a cold wave sent temperatures plunging as much as 40 degrees.

Freezing rain that ice roads in Central and East Texas moved north into Illinois and Indiana, creating hazardous driving conditions.

To the north, snow fell in the Chicago area.

In Texas, the Lone Star Gas Co. reported that gas consumption totaled one billion cubic feet in the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. It was the first billion-foot day in the company's history.

In Pennsylvania, the mercury dropped 30 to 40 degrees during the night as cold air moved eastward from the Midwest. Philadelphia had a record high of 61 degrees Friday, and only 25 Saturday.

In northern New York, Temperatures were near zero.

Numbing cold which gripped the Midwest Friday abated but was replaced by the storm conditions moving up from the Southwest.

COMB AREA FOR BODIES OF TRIO

FERRIDAY, Jan. 17 (Spec[illegible])—Routine air and ground search continued here Saturday for the three missing Bolyer brothers after a localized search in an area of thickets south of Vidalia Friday failed to uncover any trace of the brothers. The trio has been missing from a fishing trip on the river since Jan. 6.

Lt. Eddie Phelan of the Natchez Civil Air Patrol said he and Capt. Theodore McCarstie made the ground search Friday while a plane manned by Lt. Billy Simmons and Lt. Duane Fern directed them from the air.

The three men, who were commercial fishermen, are presumed drowned and all hopes of their safe recovery have been abandoned. Rescue workers now are concentrating on locating the bodies. The lost youths are Virgil Bolyer, 18, William E. Bolyer, 19, and Chester Bolyer, 20.

O'Dwyer Is Granted Temporary Separation

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17—UP—Former U.S. Ambassador William O'Dwyer announced Saturday night that the archbishop of Mexico, Dr. Luis Maria Martinez, has authorized his "temporary separation" from his wife, ex-New York model Sloan Simpson O'Dwyer.

The former New York mayor said in a written statement that "the eventual outcome of our marriage rests in the hands of the Catholic ecclesiastical authorities. No further comment can be made until these authorities have handed down their decision."

EX-ARMY PROBER SAYS MANY GI'S DOPE ADDICTS

Tells Of Wide Spread Operation Of Korean Narcotics Ring

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17—UP—A Korean narcotics ring, headed by a cripple known as "The Seal," has turned hundreds of American soldiers into heroin addicts, a former Army criminal investigator disclosed Saturday.

Sgt. George L. Wooley, now of the Los Angeles police robbery squad and former assistant chief of the Army's Criminal Investigation Department in Korea, said the mass addiction was "virtually impossible" to stamp out. Wooley said so far it has been restricted to rear echelon troops.

He said a bedridden cripple — "The Seal"—directs the ring from Pusan, using hundreds of peddlers, including pretty Korean girls who lure lonely soldiers into trying 95 per cent pure heroin.

Wooley said he believed Chinese Communists actually were behind the ring.

"The stuff they get is the real thing," Wooley said, describing the heroin. "One or two 'pops' and the soldier is 'hooked.' "

Wooley, whose story first was disclosed by the Los Angeles Daily News, said many of the soldiers addicted since have returned to this country and have turned to crime to finance their habit.

Wooley said the Army was trying its best to break up the narcotics ring but were facing "odds which make the job virtually impossible."

He said there were a lack of trained Army narcotics agents and the U.S. did not have jurisdiction over Koreans engaged in the peddling of heroin.

Wooley emphasized that the narcotics traffic was rampant only among rear area echelon troops and the Army so far has managed to keep it from spreading into the front line.

William P. Gaines Dies In Rayville

SPEAKER — Reed Cozart, above, assistant director of the Department of Institutions and Superintendent of Angola, will address the Rotary Club January 22.

PRISON CHIEF

of prison systems and for many years he served on working committees of the American Prison Association.

Law enforcement officers of the Twin Cities and Ouachita Parish have been invited to hear Cozart's speech to the Rotary Club Thursday. H. H. Rosenhein, Rotary Club member, announced that invitations had been extended to Mayor John E. Coon, Commissioners Frank X. Cline and Wayne Huckaby, Mayor Allen Norris, Judge Howell Heard, Chiefs of Police M. L. Peters and Jeff Caldwell, Judge David I. Garrett, Judge Jesse Heard, Judge Ben Dawkins, Judge Gaston Porterie, Judge W. M. Harper, Sheriff Bailey Grant, District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown, and juvenile officer, Mrs. Willie Harris along with members of the citizens committee investigating juvenile problems in the parish.

Adults Warned Not To Hide Law Violators

Fourth District Judge David I. Garrett yesterday issued a stern warning to persons who aid others in keeping secret any form of law violations.

The warning was especially directed to those who might aid in the preventing of bringing to justice any juveniles who have committed crimes in this area.

Following the sentencing of a Negro to two years in the state penitentiary at Angola for being an accessory after the fact Friday, Judge Garrett said this was a "good example" of what has been happening in many of the juvenile cases.

He said some persons of legal age know of crimes committed by juveniles but will not aid the law enforcement agencies in clearing up these acts.

The Negro sent to Angola was Allen Mock, 42, who had entered a plea of guilty to aiding his stepson dispose of stolen property. Mock, it was pointed out, had kept some of the stolen goods, in his home and had taken other items to the home of his brother who lives near Mangham in Richland parish.

The Negro and his wife, who is facing a court trial after pleading not guilty, were reported to have known that the items, mostly clothing, were stolen, but did not inform either the sheriff's department or police departments. Both were picked up on December 5 and have been held in the parish jail.

Mock's stepson had admitted to 15 burglaries, 14 of which were in Monroe. The single other was in West Monroe.

Goods recovered from the Mock home and the house of his brother in Richland parish included, a French coat, five shirts, six pair of pants, 12 belts, two fountain pens, suitcases, man's gold watchband, ladies watchband, ladies watch, two men's wrist watches and a number of other items.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Men Must Spruce Up To Match Their Wives

It is a rare man who massages his scalp each night, yet this is what he should do as a precaution against possible baldness.

Tens of thousands of men all over the country are going to find themselves in a dilemma. These are the husbands and beaux of women who recently joined my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon As the little woman becomes more attractive herself she may become less patient with a baywindow, slumping posture, a shallow chest, narrow shoulders, flabby biceps and poor grooming.

It seems only fair and appropriate that "Why Grow Old?" should at this time come to the rescue of these men. While I do not run a regular self-improvement course for them in this column, I can help the men with exercise and diet and some information which will be helpful to them.

Self-improvement programs can have far-reaching results in human happiness. I remember one woman who had completed an eight-week course in my classes. She told me that she had wanted to leave her husband for a long time, but to be honest, had no other prospects. After the course she found herself the recipient of a great deal of attention from men, among them her husband.

He found her most attractive, in fact, he rediscovered in his wife, the girl he had married years ago.

The ending of this story is happy. This marriage acquired a freshness and bloom it had not had for a long time. The wife said to me, "I guess I have always been in love with him but he took me for granted, and to be truthful, I think my whole personality changed for the better along with my improvement in looks."

Never let it be said that a masculine reader of this column received no encouragement! Today let us consider the thinning hairline.

Here are a few suggestions for the care of the masculine head of hair. Not a great deal is known about the factors involved in baldness. However, it is true that the average man does not give his hair the attention his wife does. His hair is too short for stimulating brushing, and it is a rare man who massages his scalp each night. Yet this is what he should do. Stimulation of circulation is a great help.

Experiments seem to indicate that diet plays some part also. Eat a well-balanced diet with emphasis on the vitamin B family. You can reinforce this with wheat germ on your cereal and powdered Brewers Yeast taken in water or milk. Your physician may also prescribe vitamin B complex capsules for you.

We also know that hair often falls out after illnesses or after times of strain. The average man hurries and worries too much. This may be reflected in a thinning hairline. Take it a bit easier for health as well as your crop of hair.

If your problem is overweight you may want my "Tubby Hubby Diet Booklet" which gives you a loss of from 7 to 12 pounds in 12 days' time. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Morning World.

SCHOOL BOND ELECTION SET IN CALDWELL

Voters' Okay Sought On $500,000 Building Program For Parish

COLUMBIA, Jan. 17. (Special)—Caldwell Parish school board will call a bond election for March 31 for approval of $500,000 to be issued in a series of ten - year bonds for the purpose of building additional school facilities and repairing and modernizing those now existing. Among the recommendations is one providing for a building to be erected at Hebert to provide for the two grammar schools now in that community; another new building contemplated is an auditorium and gymnasium at Union Central high school (Negro).

Additional class rooms are proposed for Columbia and Grayson Schools with all existing buildings to be worked over with everything necessary to put the entire parish school plant in top condition.

The board is being advised and assisted by William King Stubbs, of Monroe, as architect, and the voters of the parish have only until Feb. 28 to register in order to qualify for the election.

At the last meeting of the school board, W. C. Hester was continued for an additional four years as president, with S. B. Harrelson as vice - president and T. L. Johnson as secretary - treasurer; C. E. Myers, S. B. Harrelson, and D. M. May were named as the financial committee.

The members of the board are G. A. Mann, C. E. Myers, C. A. Claunch, D. G. Ford, W. C. Hester, J. R. Head, M. T. Gough, S. B. Harrelson, J. D. Mott, D. M. May, and C. C. Roark.

6-Foot Mixer Makes Shakes In 8 Seconds

LOS ANGELES.—A giant milkshake mixer 6 feet high, 4 feet wide, and 2½ feet deep turns out shakes in 8 seconds.

The machine, called the "Insta-Shake," will be put on the market for $3,250. It has four 5-gallon tanks holding different flavors of dairy mix. Plastic tubes lead from these tanks to a small container in the machine.

Dialed for the desired flavor, the mix drains into the small container, which is chilled to 20 degrees below zero. There it's beaten and dropped into a waiting cup. It can be made in consistencies ranging from a thin liquid to soft ice cream.

MELCHIOR AND STARS

MELCHIOR SEEKS TOP IN TALENT

Nationwide Search Conducted For Two Leading Vocalists

A nationwide talent search to find the two most promising young vocalists in the United States will be conducted by Lauritz Melchior in conjunction with his appearance in 104 cities during the first six months of 1953 in "The Lauritz Melchior Show."

In an arrangement with local clubs of the National Federation of Music Clubs, under whose auspices the talent search will be conducted, national winners of the contest will receive major career awards such as a screen test by Paramount Studios in Hollywood and possible record contracts as well as a cash award from Mr. Melchior.

Mr. Melchior just has completed his first motion picture for Paramount, the technicolor musical comedy "The Stars Are Singing." Judges for the screen test award will include Mr. Melchior's co-stars in "The Stars Are Singing": Rosemary Clooney and Anna Maria Alberghetti..

In each city, individual tape recordings of the voices will be made as the singers appear on stage. These tapes, together with a photograph, will be the basis for judging by a committee acceptable to the National Federation.

At the conclusion of Mr. Melchior's nationwide tour in May of 1953, the names of the national winners of the talent search will be announced.

Mr. Melchior's new tour is a complete departure from the formal concert appearances he has made in the past. Titled "The Lauritz Melchior Show," it will include eight young award-winning artists in company with the star. To be presented are Shirlee Emmons, soprano; Angelene Collins, soprano; Val Valente, tenor; Alan Werner, tenor; Michael Roberts, baritone; Edward Williams, bass; George Roth and Ted Sadlowski, duo piano team.

The first city on the tour is Port Arthur, Tex., on January 16. The Melchior show will be presented in Monroe under the sponsorship of Northeast Louisiana State College on Feb. 11 at the Neville High School auditorium. Reserved seat tickets will go on sale within a few days.

NSC NURSES TO GRADUATE

Group Of 37 Will Be First To Get Nursing Degrees At NSC

NATCHITOCHES, Jan. 17. (Special—The first graduates in the three - year diploma program in nursing will participate in Northwestern State College's regular commencement exercises in the Fine Arts auditorium on Jan. 22, Miss Hilda C. Brunham, director of nursing, announced today.

Thirty - seven are candidates for the three - year diploma which qualifies them to take the state examinations for the R. N. certificate. They may also complete work for the B. S. degree in two additional semesters.

Each student has had clinical practice in two or more of the following collaborating hospitals: Baptist Hospital in Alexandria. Central Louisiana State Hospital in Pineville, and four in Shreveport; Highland Sanitarium, North Louisiana Sanitarium, Shreveport Charity Hospital, and Willis - Knighton Memorial Hospital. From the groups of students now assigned to the other two collaborating hospitals, E. A. Conway Memorial in Monroe and Baton Rouge General, the first to graduate will be in the summer of 1953.

Large State Delegation Leaves For Inauguration

NEW ORLEANS, Sunday, Jan. 18—UP—The last big group of Louisiana's 115-man delegation to the inauguration of President-elect Eisenhower left here by plane early Sunday for Washington.

The group faces a three-day whirlwind of activities beginning with a delegation party Sunday and ending Tuesday night at the inauguration ball. John Minor Wisdom, Louisiana's Republican national committeeman, will be host to the state's delegation for the Sunday evening meeting.

Wisdom, who heads the Louisiana inaugural visitors, left for Washington a week ago. He stopped over in New York, where Eisenhower has his pre-inauguration headquarters, and conferred with the President - elect before continuing his trip to the capital.

Contacted in Washington Friday, Wisdom said he had conferred with Eisenhower and other Republican leaders since leaving New Orleans. Wisdom declined to say what he discussed with Eisenhower, but he said federal patronage was not the subject of their meeting.

Gov. Robert F. Kennon, a Democrat who denounced the national party to support Eisenhower in the Nov. 4 general election, will be represented at the inauguration by Claude Harrison of Monroe. Harrison was to leave with the group Saturday night.

Others in the delegation include Mrs. Violet B. Allen of New Orleans, Louisiana national committeewoman; N. Bryant James of Farmerville, state GOP chairman; Theodore Lyons of New Orleans, manager of the Eisenhower campaign in Louisiana, and Harrison G. Bagwell, who was the Louisiana Republican candidate for governor last spring.

States' Rights leader Leander Perez of Plaquemines Parish; Sheriff T. H. Martin, Sr., of St. Francisville; and J. Denson Smith of the Louisiana Law Institute, Baton Rouge, are also in the group scheduled to make the trip.

Benjamin R. Strong, secretary of the Louisiana inaugural committee, left for Washington Friday night to set up headquarters for the delegation. Strong said the group will attend a series of parties and sight-seeing tours during the inaugural trip. A concert by the National Symphony Orchestra is scheduled for Sunday night, and a variety show is on the Monday night program.

Eisenhower will be inaugurated at noon Tuesday. The inaugural parade is scheduled that afternoon and the inaugural ball that night.

Strong said several of the Louisiana delegation planned to return to New Orleans immediately after the ball Wednesday morning and the rest of the group would fly home Thursday morning.

French Veteran Testifies In Massacre Of Village

BORDEAUX, France, Jan. 17 (AP)—A one-armed Alsatian soldier testified today he heard groans and anguished cries of dying women in the little church at Oradour-sur-Glane before the third company of Hitler's SS Das Reich Division set it aflame in 1944.

Two hundred forty-five women and 207 children were shot, bludgeoned or burned alive in the church as an aftermath of a Nazi elite guard search for French underground fighters:

The soldier, Paul Graff, made his statement on the sixth day of the trial before a military tribunal here of 14 Alsatians and seven Germans of the Das Reich Division, accused of having killed 642 villagers in the June 10, 1944, Oradour massacre.

Graff, wearing a black patch over the right eye he lost in the Normandy campaign, admitted firing on a prostrate woman outside the village but said he did not know whether he killed her. He was convicted in 1946 of her murder, but a higher court quashed the verdict on the ground that he had been a minor of 18 at Oradour and that his trial was held in public, contrary to the law covering minors.

Graff also said a White Russian private first class named Pakowski, who was a member of the third company and now is a fugitive, told him he had shot and killed a woman and her child as they were escaping from the burning church.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

The business of blocking out the action for "Bell, Book and Candle" is now behind the cast. This very important phase of rehearsal was accomplished this past week with three different people assisting the director with the master script. Fleta Latham, long - time, faithful assistant to the director, wielded the pencil on the director's script the first night of stage rehearsal. The second and third nights are credited to Johnny Smith and Ralph Troy, both recently of the cast of "The Petrified Forest."

Director Stocker Fontelieu plans a full rehearsal of the play this afternoon at the playhouse and your wondering reporter, wondered out loud and the answer was, there will be no rehearsal on Monday evening.

Three more weeks and two days will bring "Bell, Book and Candle" to its opening date and to theater in - the - round's debut at the Selman Field Playhouse both of which are anticipated by local Little Theatre fans.

THE GREEN ROOM. . .There is no doubt that actors and drama students get a certain stimulation from being with other people in their field who are intensely interested in everything that is happening around them; the air they breathe seems to be charged with theatrical excitement. Northeastern State College now has a lovely Green Room that provides just such atmosphere. Sylvester Breard, veteran Little Theatre member and new instructor of speech and drama at the college, was looking around for himself an office when he spied the projection room, a balcony really, of Brown auditorium. Once permission was granted for use of the room, which over a period of years had filled with an accumulation of stored items, a clean up campaign was waged.

Instructor Breard decided almost from the beginning to make the room a combination office and meeting place for members of Northeast Players and students of drama and speech. The walls were painted a Robin Hood green and once painters get started that always calls for something else. The ceiling became a stratosphere gray and by that time the question of the floor became an issue. Mrs. Lewis Slater, wife of the president, had promised the enthusiastic drama students that she would give them a linoleum rug if they ever had a place of their own. In the meantime, the promised rug found it's way to another needed place on the campus. So, Mrs. Slator, good as her word, gave the aspiring group a retroactive Christmas present and it is a very attractive rug in gray and Chinese red.

The furniture has been painted a Dixie Gray and Mr. Breard made a handsome three - shelf bookcase put together with pegs instead of nails or glue, which is filled with gayly colored books about theatre. He also brought from home an antique spittoon that is now painted white and blue and is filled with potted greenery to compliment the new room. A little later the girls of the drama department plan to make curtains for the four windows. Pictures of Northeast Players and of Delta Psi Omega's adorn the wall as well as a framed charter of the Delta Psi Omega campus chapter. I understand they intend to start themselves a hall of fame for all the people appearing in college productions at Northeastern. One extremely attractive picture that draws much comment is a water color of an opera given overseas and brought back to Monroe by Instructor Breard.

Reminiscent of the beginning of the Monroe Little Theatre, all the work to create the Green Room was done by the students between classes and in their spare time. Congratulations to Bobby Jackson (recently of L. T.'s comedy, 'Room Service"), Alice Montgomery from the cast of "Box and Cox"), Betty Jean Jones, Freddie Eason, Cora Lee Wimbish and Marjorie Gulley.

RANDOM NOTES . . . Saturday afternoon the Selman Field play - house was a beehive of activity, bristling with conversion to theatre-in-the-round.. . .Sorry to hear that Bill Stewart of "Bell, Book and Candle" has flu in his family . . .Little Theatre Patron, Skipper Perkins, enjoyed a couple of days on the coast last week end and ran upon an interesting personality in Ocean Springs, Miss. When she was introduced to Lottie Schoemell, swimming teacher and Swedish bath owner of Ocean Springs, Skipper remarked that the name reminded her of someone famous. The woman remarked that someone by that name was a famous swimmer in the mid-twenties and was the first woman to swim around Manhattan. Skipper's interest caused the swimming teacher to bring out her cherished scrap books and she was discovered to be the early '20's forerunner of the feminine athletes who later braved the rugged English Channel. Miss Schoemell is also credited with creating the grease-paint bathing suit. . .I've often wondered what famous people do when their star is declining. . . Have a nice Sunday, everybody and there will be "Curtain Call" in Monday evenings' News-Star.

Ike Appoints Heiress To Succeed Mrs. Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—UP—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower Friday named Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, a flour mill heiress and ardent internationalist to succeed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as United States representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission.

Eisenhower also announced the appointment of Mrs. Alma K. Schneider, Mount Morrison, Colo., as superintendent of the federal mint at Denver.

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, recommended Mrs. Lord for the UN post, the headquarters announcement said. It said Mrs. Roosevelt has filed her resignation with the State Department.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who has served with the UN since it was organized, said in her newspaper column last week that she had submitted her resignation and would do volunteer work to promote the UN.

Mrs. Lord is chairman of the United States committee for the UN International Children's Emergency Fund. She was one of the original Eisenhower campaign leaders and was co-chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon.

Mrs. Lord is the former Mary Pillsbury of Minneapolis. She is a granddaughter of Charles Alfred Pillsbury, founder of the flour company.

MEDICS AIDED BY HAMSTERS

Tiny Creatures Replace Guinea Pigs In Many Experiments

RENSSELAER, N. Y., Jan. 17. (Special)—Herbivorous, hardy little hamsters, originally unwilling immigrants from the deserts of Syria, are today becoming increasingly significant in medical research, according to Dr. Dicran A. Berberian, of the chemotherapy laboratories of the Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute here.

Hamsters are comparatively new laboratory animals, he explained, important among other reasons because they naturally harbor the same kinds of parasites that infect man internally. The creatures develop tuberculosis of the lungs, more closely resembling the disease in humans than is the case with guinea pigs, in whom tuberculosis is primarily an infection of the spleen.

How the hamsters first became available to scientists is a fascinating story, Dr. Berberian said. Twenty years ago, the daughter of a professor at Hebrew University in Jerusalem was working on a thesis, involving hamsters. The rare Syrian or "golden hamster" had not yet been bred successfully in captivity. They are extremely difficult to capture.

A litter of seven was captured. Five died quickly, leaving only a brother and sister. Studying the diet and habits, scientists at the university successfully bred the prolific animals from this pair. All the millions of golden hamsters in the United States and Great Britain propagated geometrically from those two.

Now, growing in popularity as pets, the hamsters are helping in medical research. For example, tests made with hamsters, Dr. Berberian said, have proved that Milibis, effective drug for combatting intestinal amebiasis, has a much higher margin of safety than any other drug yet developed. Approximately 15,000,000 Americans are infected with amebiasis.

Amebic parasites normally infect the hamsters' intestines and are similar to those causing amebiasis in man. The hamster is also the animal most susceptible to leishmaniasis, an internal infection contracted especially in the Far East.

At the Sterling - Winthrop Research Institute, several thousand hamsters are under the care of 70-year old Leroy Poyneer. "Hamsters are most meticulous and clean," he explained. "Each family sets up house by creating dining room, lavatory and bedroom space in different corners of the cage. Food pellets are carefully piled in one corner, while the family sleeps during the day in a clean area. Another corner is set aside as the lavatory.

"Hamsters have an almost insatiable curiosity. They are noisy and active at night, when they instinctively forage for food. Generally sociable and playful, they occasionally engage in combat. They are strong and agile — and productive. With a gestation period of only two weeks, they have litters sometimes as large as fifteen."

SEALS OUT-FISH NATIVES

SEATTLE (AP) — A clergyman from tiny St. Paul Island in the Bering Sea says there is one special dietary drawback to life in that area where sea life abounds. No fish.

If he wants herring for his table, for example, they must be shipped from outside, explained the Rev. Makarx A. Baranoff of the Russian Orthodox Church.

"The seals catch all the fish for 100 miles around our island," he said. "The seals are much better fishermen than the Aleut natives. So the Aleuts spend their summers sealing and their winters in trapping foxes."

St. Paul is one of the Pribilof Islands, famed as the breeding grounds for the migrant seal herds of the Pacific.

In about three cases of twins in eight, one twin is a boy and the other a girl.

VETERAN OKAYS SON'S OPERATION

Air Force Sergeant Granted Emergency Leave For Life-Or-Death Operation

MEMPHIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—An Air Force sergeant, home on emergency leave from Korea, granted surgeons permission today to perform a life-or-death operation on his critically ill infant son.

The 7-week-old child, whom Sgt. Jack W. Garrison never had seen until the Air Force flew him home, is suffering from a large, fast-growing tumor between the eyes. Only delicate surgery can save his life, doctors believe.

The dangerous surgery will be performed by doctors at the U. S. Naval Hospital in nearby Millington. It probably will take place early next week.

Garrison said his buddies in his outfit did everything possible to speed his hurried departure from Korea Wednesday.

They "cleared my records, packed my clothes — everything. I didn't do a thing but wash my face."

And just before he stepped aboard the plane, he said, an envelop was pressed into his hand. It held $120 Garrison's buddies had collected for his trip home.

The Garrisons have two other sons, 7 and 5 years old.

Twin Cities Jaycees To Honor Outstanding Young Man At Banquet

Presentation of the Distinguished Service Award key to the Twin Cities' outstanding young man will be the highlight of the local observance of the Junior Chamber of Commerce week, which will continue until Wednesday.

The banquet meeting will be held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

The special meeting will be held in place of the regular weekly meeting usually held at noon Monday.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Donald M. Ewing, associate editor of the Shreveport Times.

Plans for the banquet meeting, which will mark the 33rd anniversary of the Jaycee organization, have been completed, Ragan DeFreese, chairman of the banquet committee has announced.

"The Monroe-West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce is making this award, because it affords recognition to the young man who has made one of the most outstanding contributions to this community during this critical year of history," DeFreese said.

Last year's Young Man of the Year was Evans Ethridge, with Sheriff Bailey Grant and District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., taking the honors in previous years. The presentation Monday night will announce the honor for this year.

Judges in the contest have already made their choice, after leading civic organizations of the Twin Cities turned in their nominations. Included in the judging group were representatives from three circles, business, professional and religious. Names of the judges will be released at the meeting.

Besides serving as associate editor of the Shreveport Times, Ewing also has a weekly radio commentary program over KWKH and is active in many of that cities leading organizations. He is chairman of the Shreveport City Park and Recreation Council, which administers more than $200,000 annually in tax-paid city-wide recreational facilities.

Ewing was educated at Sewanee, Tenn., Military Academy and the University of Missouri school of journalism and entered news - paper work with the Omaha, Neb., Daily News. Following service with the Army Air Force in World War I, Ewing worked with the Associated Press, Chicago Tribune, Chicago Herald-Examiner and the New York World.

He has covered activities of five presidents and traveled with Eisenhower on his trip through Louisiana and Texas last year.

Ewing came to the Shreveport Times in 1937 and has been active personally and in an official capacity in behalf of honest government on all levels. Largely because of a speech made at Louisiana State University in 1950, by Ewing, a then secretly planned constitutional convention was not called.

He also exposed proposed $140,000,000 state highway bond issue which would have left spending of the entire fund solely to the dictation of the governor.

MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN DITCH

46-Year-Old Monroe Negro's Body Dicovered Saturday

A Negro, identified as Perry Lloyd, 46, was found dead Saturday morning in a shallow ditch at the intersection of Chapel and Myers Streets in the south part of Monroe.

His address was still undetermined late yesterday.

The body was found lying face down in a small pool of water about 8:30 a. m. by D. L. Richard, who was passing by. He immediately notified the Ouachita parish sheriff department.

Ouachita parish Coroner Dr. J. T. French said no signs of foul play were noted, but tests were being run on the blood of the victim. Only a slight abrasion was found on the body, with this being located on the right side of Lloyd's face. However, this is believed to have been done when he either fell or struck himself possibly in the last few minutes of life.

Dr. French said Lloyd "apparently died of drowning."

Slight signs, however, were found which indicated that the Negro may have attempted to crawl out of the ditch, but because of the slick clay was unable to do so. Approximate time of the death was set "between 11 p. m. and daylight" Saturday morning.

The neighborhood where the Negro was found is populated entirely by white people, but is within a short distance of a Negro settlement towards the south.

Building Increase In Louisiana Shown

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (Special) —Louisiana in November had construction contract awards of $19,967,000, a decrease of 52 per cent from October but 104 per cent more than November 1951. S. J. Kupecky, district manager of F. W. Dodge Corporation, construction news and marketing specialists, said the 1952 eleven - month total was $385,842,000, a gain of 44 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

Individual November awards showed nonresidential building at $5,503,000, down 37 per cent from October but up 87 per cent over November last year. Residential awards of $5,853,000 were 18 per cent less than October but 57 per cent more than November 1951. Heavy engineering (public works and utilities) at $8,611,000 was 67 per cent less than October but substantially more than November a year ago.

Eleven-month 1952 individual totals compared with the corresponding 1951 figures were as follows: nonresidential, $170,620,000, up 74 per cent; residential, $85,327,000, down 17 per cent; heavy engineering, $129,895,000, up 94 per cent.

NOT-SO-GOOD GIVING

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — After the recent arrest of four boys who are charged with burglarizing a store just before Christmas, Memphis police say the urge for holiday giving can get out of hand. The boys confessed that they stole from the store to get gifts for their girl friends.

The girls remained loyal to the boys and asked to be locked in jail with their friends so they could comfort them. That, the police would not permit.

The case reminded police of a Christmas night arrest, when they nabbed a man burglarizing a store just after he had played Santa Claus for his three children.

WOMAN CHARGED IN SHOOTING OF THIRD MAN

Sister Of Executed Texas Outlaw Riddles Customer In Bar

HOUSTON, Jan. 17—UP—Police charged Margie Zeglen, the pistol-packing sister of executed outlaw Raymond Hamilton, Saturday with shooting down her third man.

He is Jesse Donald Muirhead, 32, a Baytown, Tex., construction foreman whom she hit with three out of four shots in her Pier 75 bar. Her closest connection with him was as a customer. He was in critical condition late Saturday.

She killed two other men: Andy Robinson, a bronc rider and steer wrestler and ex-husband in Fort Worth, Tex., in October, 1936. She killed Michael Zeglen, another husband, in Houston last year.

Mrs. Zeglen, a chunky woman of 36 with strawberry-colored hair, claimed self-defense in the Robinson killing and a grand jury refused to indict her.

She was sentenced to five years for killing Zeglen—at whom she had to shoot through two open doors and a window to hit while he was running—and was free in appeal bond when she shot Muirhead Friday night.

When police booked her on a charge of assault to murder Muirhead, it ended a bad week for her and her two sons. Bethel Raymond Farris, 21, her older son, was arrested Friday night in a dark Wichita Falls, Tex., drugstore.

He and Weldon Henderson were trying to open a safe with burglar tools at the time. Her 18-year-old son, Herbie Farris, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the reformatory at Olathe, Kan., last Thursday on a charge of resisting arrest.

Mrs. Zeglen admitted shooting four times at Muirhead with a .32 caliber automatic. She hit him in the abdomen, left leg and right foot.

She said she shot him after he told her: "I always wanted to whip Raymond Hamilton's sister.. . I always wanted to find out how really tough you are."

Mrs. Zeglen said she ordered him out, and when he refused, got another customer to throw him out.

"He came back in and started throwing beer bottles at walls and customers," she said. "That's when I shot."

Muirhead's story was: "Mrs. Zeglen walked up and wanted me to buy a round of drinks for the house. I refused to do it. That's what brought on an argument and the shooting."

Muirhead has a wife and two children.

Mrs. Zeglen's brother Raymond was a partner in crime with the late outlaws Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow in the early 1930s. He was in Eastham prison farm, serving 283 years for a murder and numerous robberies, when he broke out on Jan. 16, 1934.

He and four other prisoners shot it out with guards and one was killed. He was recaptured and executed in the Texas state prison in 1934, though he managed to break out of the death house once before he finally went to the chair.

Barrow and a brother, Floyd Hamilton, were believed to have helped him escape from the Eastham farm. Floyd—also a brother of Mrs. Zeglen—never attained the infamy of his brother, though the FBI captured him once for a bank robbery.

The civilian labor force in the United States increased 13.9 per cent from 1939 to 1951.

Truman, Stevenson Seem Relieved, If Not Happy, To Step Out Of Picture

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 18 (Special)— The two most important Democrats of 1952-- Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson-- have delivered their political farewells and are walking off the national stage with twinkles in their eyes, as they look back on the muddles confronting their successors.

Truman, true to his characteristics, spent the last days of his term telling his successors what they would be up against--and making their situation a little more difficult. Stevenson, who left office with a record as governor of Illinois which will continue to be a political asset, said nothing as he saw his Republican successors set the stage for what may turn out to be a malodorous political scandal in state government.

The heralded Eisenhower gift for compromise can be put to excellent use as soon as he steps in the White House. He has already demonstrated once more that politics makes strange bedfellows, and the forecasts that the Republican senate, under Senator Robert A. Taft's leadership, will make the early news in the new administration still hold up.

The Eisenhower cabinet is distinctly on trial so far as the senators who depended heavily for their reelection on his vote getting ability are now ready to assert themselves in criticism of sub-cabinet and lesser appointments, partly because they don't like the individuals, partly because they say that never in the history of the Republican party has its Senate wing been given less consideration in the matter of appointments than by the new President.

The private criticism of the miffed Senators, as was anticipated, is that a World War II group of generals is having entirely too much to say in advising the President - elect about appointments, both in the domestic and foreign affairs field. Admittedly close to the new President—and undoubtedly called on for advice-- are Lieutenant General Lucius B. Clay, who was General Eisenhower's deputy in France in World War II; Major General W. B. Parsons, who has been with the new President since the beginning of his campaign; General Walter Beedle Smith, his wartime chief of staff, who will be Undersecretary of State; and Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer, who may be one of his principal advisors on Asiatic matters.

The Beedle Smith appointment is said to be highly distasteful to Senators Taft, Joseph R. McCarty (Rep.-Wis.) and William E. Jenner (Rep.-Ind.) as well as others, because they do not believe he has shown enough aggressiveness in tracking down Communists in the Central Intelligence Agency, of which he has been head. It is also pointed out that General Person's brother is Governor Seth Persons of Alabama and that General Clay comes of a staunch Georgia Democratic family. Even Democrats in uniform are suspect among G.O.P. senators.

In the West, the appointment of Ezra Taft Benson of Utah as Secretary of Agriculture is suspect by Republican senators from North Dakota, South Dakota and Idaho, who do not believe that his views on price supports are close enough to those of the north-west wheat farmers, and are apprehensive that the President will lean on him for advice.

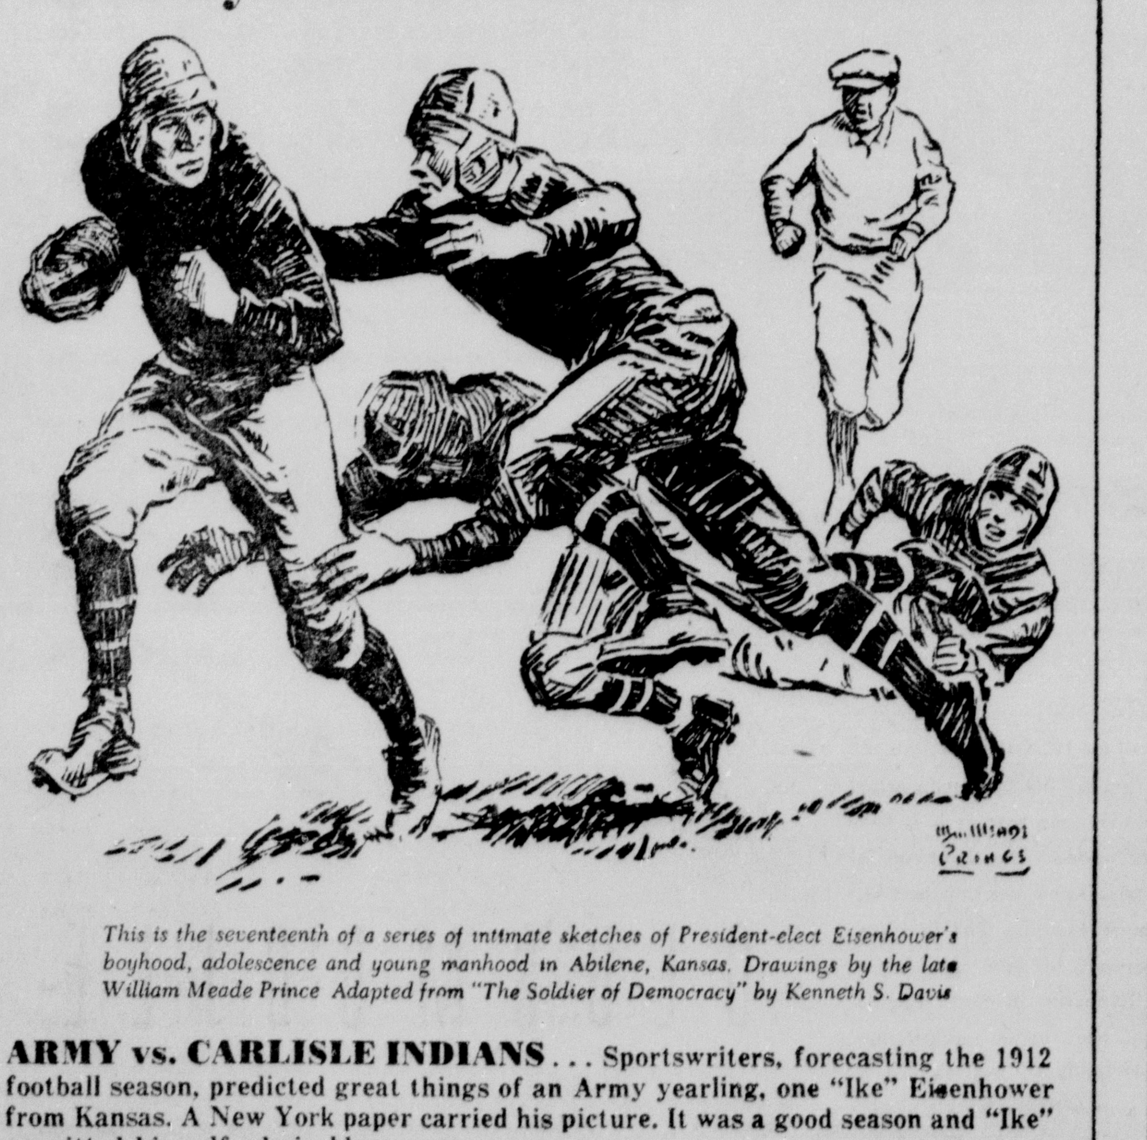
These may seem like minor annoyances, but they can surge up to major proportions in a short time, particularly in a new and as yet unorganized administration. The President-elect has not as yet caught on to the idea that Senators want to be consulted on appointments at all levels, and that if they are not, they will resort to their own methods to remind him that he has stepped on their sore toes.

"Ike said at the beginning he was going to model his campaign organization after a headquarters staff in wartime," one well known Republican Senator said today. "We didn't think that he was going to include so many generals in it and I'm afraid that, sooner or later, we will have to have a show down."

Senator Taft has talked along the same line to many of his friends. If the new President were to read the newspapers of March 1929, when the Hoover administration was taking office, he would find similar comments, with the late Senator James E. Watson of Indiana talking much like Senator Taft.

As for Governor Stevenson, he must have smiled when the first act of his successor, Republican Governor Stratton was to replace two of three members of the state parole board considering the parole application of Nathan Leopold, serving a life sentence, commuted to 85 years by Stevenson, for the thrill killing of 10 year old Bobby Franks 28 years ago.

The Boyhood of Our Next President



This is the seventeenth of a series of intimate sketches of President-elect Eisenhower's boyhood, adolescence and young manhood in Abilene, Kansas. Drawings by the late William Meade Prince Adapted from "The Soldier of Democracy" by Kenneth S. Davis

ARMY vs. CARLISLE INDIANS . . . Sportswriters, forecasting the 1912 football season, predicted great things of an Army yearling, one "Ike" Eisenhower from Kansas. A New York paper carried his picture. It was a good season and "Ike" acquitted himself admirably.

Army played the Carlisle Indians on November 9. Carlisle in 1912 meant Jim Thorpe. Even then he was a legendary figure. "Stop Thorpe" was the slogan of every team that faced Carlisle that year. One can imagine the tense excitement when he trotted out on the field.

Against such a player, ordinary tactics could be of no avail. The Cadets did "stop Thorpe" for a few plays, with Eisenhower and Company giving Jim the hard old high-low, one-two treatment which they had carefully planned in advance.

But when the game ended it was Ike who limped from the field . . . not the Injun Juggernaut. The final score . . . Carlisle 27 — Army 6.

GEOGRAPHIC REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS—Above Newsmap shows party division by geographic areas, in the 82nd and 83rd House and Senate. Members of the rural midwest appear slated to wield the legislative power in the new Congress with GOP members of this area heading 22 of 34 standing committees. This will happen even though the Midwest was the only area in which Republicans failed to gain added congressional seats in the November election. Midwest total in the House includes one Independent and one vacancy, caused by the death of Rep. Adolph Sabath.

Republicans Swarming Into Washington

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—UP—Republicans swarmed into Washington from everywhere Saturday to celebrate their party's finest hour in 24 years—the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower as president of the United States.

Eisenhower takes the oath of office at high noon Tuesday, on the east steps of the Capitol. But the formal festivites attending the nation's first million-dollar inaugural begin Sunday. They will continue at a splendid and dizzy clip into the wee hours of Wednesday morning.

Eisenhower's reputation here and around the globe was built upon his ability as a commander in battle to deal with crises. He ascends to the presidency with the nation and the world still in the shadow of the war in Korea and the ever-present threat of a new Russian aggression.

At 62, Eisenhower will be the fourth oldest man ever to become president. His vice president, ex-Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, at 40 is the second youngest man to be elected to that job, putting him first in the line of succession.

The national government is on the threshhold of a new era this weekend. Not since Herbert Hoover of California became president on March 4, 1929, have the Republicans inaugurated a chief executive.

In the interval since Hoover stepped out in 1933, the nation has had Democratic rule in Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal and Harry S. Truman's Fair Deal, won history's biggest, deadliest war and went through international crises piled on atop one another.

The long, lean years out of power contributed to the Republicans' enthusiasm which resulted in a step-by-step expansion of plans as they prepared for the Eisenhower inauguration. They started out determined to have it simple—as Eisenhower wanted it. They wound up with a gilt-edge program.

It opens with special services in churches of all denominations Saturday morning and hits its first social peak with the gigantic official reception for governors and distinguished guest Sunday afternoon. Sunday's program will be capped with a special concert by the national symphony orchestra in Constitution Hall.

Monday's social schedule is full, but the highlight will be an inaugural festival, featuring many of the biggest names in the entertainment world.

Eisenhower, now in New York, makes a triumphal entrance to Washington Sunday evening. He and his family will stay at the Hotel Statler until Tuesday, when the White House becomes their address.

At 9:30 a. m. Tuesday Eisenhower and his family will attend a special service at the National Presbyterian Church to pray for divine guidance. From the Church, they will go back to the Statler.

At 11:15 a. m., Eisenhower rides a few blocks over to the great White executive mansion. President Truman will receive him there and together—Mr. Truman on the right, Eisenhower on the left—they will ride up to the Capitol.

More Americans than ever before will watch, close-up, the orderly change of the government. The television industry estimates 70 million persons will see the spectacle via TV.

Another Internationally Famed Tex. Painter Dies

EL PASO, Jan. 18 —UP— Urbici Soler, a leader of the modern school of art, died at his home early today after a heart attack, the second death in Texas this week of an internationally famed artist.

Soler, 83, was an instructor in sculpture at Texas Western College and sculptor of the statue of Christ the King on Sierra de Cristo Rey near El Paso.

Reared in Barcelona, Spain, Soler studied in Munich, Budapest, Vienna and Paris. He was commissioned for several works of art in South America, including the facade of the Banco Francais Del Rio de Plata in Argentina. He also gave several courses in sculpture in Chile.

Soler came to the United States in 1937. He taught for several months in San Francisco, where the late Bishop Anthony J. Schuler commissioned him to do the statue of Christ the King.

MANY MILLION IN GAS TAXES CATCHES DUST

Been Sitting In Texas State Treasury Since 1951

Houston, Jan. 17 (AP) — Several million dollars in natural gas tax money has been collecting dust in the Texas State Treasury since 1951.

A court suit which tied up the money leaves room for argument whether the new Texas Legislature will attempt to draw a new bill designed to increase taxes on gas being exported to other states.

The unspent money was collected under a gas gathering tax bill passed by the 1951 Legislature, a bill aimed primarily at Texas gas marketed elsewhere.

Over 50 companies challenged legality of the tax and have won the first round. A state district judge last summer held the tax unconstitutional. The state appealed and it probably will be many months before a final decision is received.

Meanwhile, most of the companies have stopped paying the tax, which was designed to bring in about $1 million in revenue each month.

The Legislature began its 1953 biennial session this week, faced with the usual problem of finding enough money to meet desired expenditures.

Governor Allan Shivers told the legislators some $40 million in current and anticipated revenue is tied up by the gas tax dispute.

"With those funds we would have little or no financial problem at this time," he said.

Shivers indirectly advised the Legislature to settle its financial problems wthout bothering natural gas. He said readjustments of the current tax structures would take care of all pressing requirements except highway construction. He recommended the state gasoline sales tax be boosted by 1 cent per gallon — to a total of 5 cents — to aid the Highway Department.

Then he added:

"If it is your policy decision to seek additional revenue to finance state government, I suggest that you consider levying additional taxes on the 'long line' natural gas transmission lines, if this is found to be practical under existing legal circumstances."

Many oilmen and attorneys think it would be difficult for the Legislature to come up with a new gathering tax plan which would not further endanger the money already collected or which could avoid a court controversy similar to that under way over the 1952 bill.

The 1951 gathering tax was the Legislature's answer to proposals that "long line" companies carrying Texas gas elsewhere to be marketed pay heavier taxes. The bill covers gas kept for Texas marketing but provides that no gathering tax will be collected on intrastate gas unless it also applies to exported or interstate gas.

Specifically, the gathering tax calls for payment of 9-20ths or .45 of a cent for each 1,000 cubic feet. This is in addition to a state natural gas production tax amounting to 5.72 per cent of market value.

Opposition to Shivers' gasoline tax hike proposal could force the new Legislature into a natural gas controversy despite the court case. Most Texas consumers would feel little effect from the gathering tax.

Postoffice for Two Egg

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 —UP— The Postoffice Department has assured Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) it will look into a request to establish a postoffice at Two Egg, Fla. Two Two Egg men made the request.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 —UP— The weather bureau predicted Friday that it will be moderately cold —and possibly wet—Tuesday, inauguration day.

In its five-day forecast, officials said average winter cold will take over Saturday. The outlook for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is for daytime temperature highs of 38 to 40 degrees, with a chance of rain "ending Monday night or Tuesday."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 —UP— Rep. William A. Dawson told Congress Friday it could save the taxpayers money by making most government officials get to and from work on their own.

The Republican said he was "appalled" at the number of "big, black, sleek limousines hauling government officials to and from their jobs."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 —UP— The Senate in which he served so long bade farewell to Vice President Alben W. Barkley Friday and one colleague called him "the best-loved man in this country.

The 75-year-old Veep, who retires Tuesday after 40 years in Congress, wasn't around to hear the lavish words of praise. He was out of town and the Senate will not meet again until Tuesday when Vice President-elect Richard M. Nixon takes over.

SMART FOLKS—THOSE BUICK ENGINEERS!
They've made the 1953 BUICKS 87 ways better

World's newest V8

OUR hat's off to the men who made the 1953 Buicks what they are—the greatest Buicks in fifty great years.

They came up with a new kind of V8 for the SUPER and the ROADMASTER — a brilliant V8 Engine with a long list of engineering "firsts."

They redesigned the F-263 Fireball 8 for record horsepower and compression in the spirited Buick SPECIAL.

They kept every inch of room in the roomiest six-passenger Sedan in America — and still shortened its turning radius considerably.

They did new wonders with the wonderful Million Dollar Ride. They stepped up visibility, comfort, handling ease, control.

And man! — what they did with getaway!

They dreamed up, designed and developed a new Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Drive* that whisks you away quick as a wink—and just as smooth, almost as silent.

In fact, no other car in the world gets away with all the combined quickness, quiet and smoothness of a Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Buick.

Wouldn't you like to see for yourself just how great these Golden Anniversary Buicks really are? Drop in soon—we'll be happy to do the honors.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

First Church of Christ, Scientist

224 Auburn Ave.

"Life" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 18, 1953.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. . .Thou wilt shew me the path of life" (Ps. 16:5, 11).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light" (Ps. 36: 9).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In science man is the offspring of Spirit. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his Father, and Life is the law of his being" (63).

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH

Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.

J. O. Fleming, Church School Supt.

A writer has told of a curious little invention found in Japan "by which small dry wisps of woods or straw, by some magic, when dropped into a bowl of water, spread into flowers and stars and graceful shapes. One moment they seem dead and dry; the next, as by a miracle, they expand, blossom, change into strange beauty."

Even so does the coming of Christ into the heart make dead souls live and barren lives fruitful.

Sunday:

Church School, 9:45 a.m.

Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.

Youth Fellowship, 5:30 p.m.

Bible Comment

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Transfiguration of Jesus

It is a truism that every event or happening must have an adequate cause or explanation. It may not always be easily determined, but it is adways there.

In the history of human affairs, especially in man's religious history, nothing is more remarkable than the transformation of three Galilean fishermen and their apostolic fellows of equally humble origin, into builders and world leaders. For such they soon became as they obeyed their Master's command to go into all the world and preach the Gospel, and make disciples of all nations.

Once the worldly ambitions of these earnest, intense young men were overcome and discovered the true nature of the kingdom Jesus was to establish, there was much in all their contacts with Him to develop vision and action.

But when one seeks the causes of all they became and did, I think one fact and experience stands out above all else: the Transfiguration of Jesus when Peter, James and John went up with Him onto the mountain.

The vision given there was limited to the three. And as they came down from the mountain they were told they should tell no man of the vision "until the Son of man be risen again from the dead," a saying that may well have puzzled them at the time.

But the story of the Transfiguration became well known after the Resurrection. In addition to all the rich memories of Jesus, it must have been to all the disciples, as the three prominent leaders made it known, a powerful incentive to conviction, inspiration and courage, all vitally needed in the times of difficulty and danger that lay ahead.

A study of the part that special visions have played in religious faith and achievement would be interesting and rewarding but it would cover an amazingly large and varied field, for dreams and visions have had a very large part in determining people's decisions and achievements.

We should also, I think, have to distinguish between delusions and illusion. They are very different.

I knew a young man once who had a vision. At the age of 14 he experienced a highly emotional conversion. One day he went up into the hay mow to pray. As he prayed the roof of the barn seemed to open and a great light shone in.

When I knew him he regarded it all as a delusion. He failed to come out of the vision seeing Jesus only, and with the profound and strengthened realism of faith with which Peter, James and John came down from the mountain.

As for myself, I am a rather prosaic person, and have never had the sort of visions I have studied in others. But perhaps we all need moments of transfiguration; and as it is written (Joel 2:28 and Acts 2:17) that "old men shall dream dreams," there may be hope for me yet.

Service For Deaf Is Planned Here Today

The message of the gospel of Jesus Christ will be presented in a service of sign language for the benefit of the deaf in this area by the Rev. Donald Sallach, on Sunday, at 2:30 p. m. The service will be conducted at Trinity Lutheran Church, two blocks south of Northeast State College.

Mr. Sallach, residing in Jackson, Miss., serves the deaf throughout Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and part of Florida.

A special invitation is extended especially to all who must communicate by means of signs, and to those who are interested in seeing and hearing how the story of Jesus and His story of eternal salvation is brought to the silent world, Rev. Harold Reinhardt, pastor of Trinity, stated.

In a recent communication, Mr. Sallach has written the following: "We would like to keep our names and addresses up to date, therefore we ask if you are moving please send us your new address."

Ouachita Pastors Will Meet Monday

Ouachita Parish Ministerial Association will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday at First Presbyterian Church, Monroe. Coffee will be served at 9:45 a.m. The business session will begin at 10 o'clock and will last for one hour. All ministers of the parish are invited.

Special features of the meeting will be the appearance of Mrs. Pace, director of the Welcome Wagon committee of Monroe, who will bring information to the association relative to newcomers to the city. There will also be a member of the committee, appointed by city councils and parish police jury concerning the establishing of a detention home for juveniles, to report on the progress of this enterprise.

Adventure Film Starts New Career For Power

The popular star's first role as a free - lance artist is a top role with Piper Laurie and Julia Adams in Universal - International's Technicolor "The Mississippi Gambler," opening today at the Paramount Theatre.

"They got so used to me around Twentieth Century-Fox," Ty recalls, "that they used to count me in the annual inventory of props."

Power believes that his fifteen year stint at a single studio had both its advantages and disadvantages. Summing it all up, he felt that the advantage of being able to pick his own pictures via the free - lance route offered him more than yearly salary security and protected him against roles which weren't to his liking.

"I felt like a total stranger to the industry when I first walked on the set of 'The Mississippi Gambler'," the actor admitted to friends. "The technical crews were all people I had never seen before. There was a different crew behind the camera. Make - up men I had never seen before dabbed grease-paint on my face. It was all rather frightening at first."

Paradoxically, it was on the old Universal lot that Power made his unnoticed film debut. That was twenty years ago when the young actor — he was known as Tyrone Power, Jr., then — was picked by Director William Wyler to play a one - line bit role in "Tom Brown of Culver."

The plush, five - room dressing room bungalow occupied by Power during the filming of "The Mississippi Gambler" stood within a stone's throw of the spot occupied by the small circus tent in which he "dressed" along with thirty or forty other bit players in 1932.

John McIntire William Reynolds, Paul Cavanagh and Robert Warwick head the supporting cast of "The Mississippi Gambler." Rudolph Mate directed and Ted Richmond produced.

In 1952 each man, woman and child in the United States owned an average of $1,840 as his share of the federal, state and local debts.

POWER IN ADVENTUROUS ROLE — Tyrone Power, center, plays one of his most adventurous screen roles to date cast as a riverboat gambler in Universal-International's Technicolor "The Mississippi Gambler," also co-starring Piper Laurie and Julia Adams. John Baer, seated right, plays a top supporting role in the new film directed by Rudolph Mate and produced by Ted Richmond. "The Mississippi Gambler" opens a weeks run today at the Paramount Theatre.

DROP THAT ROD!

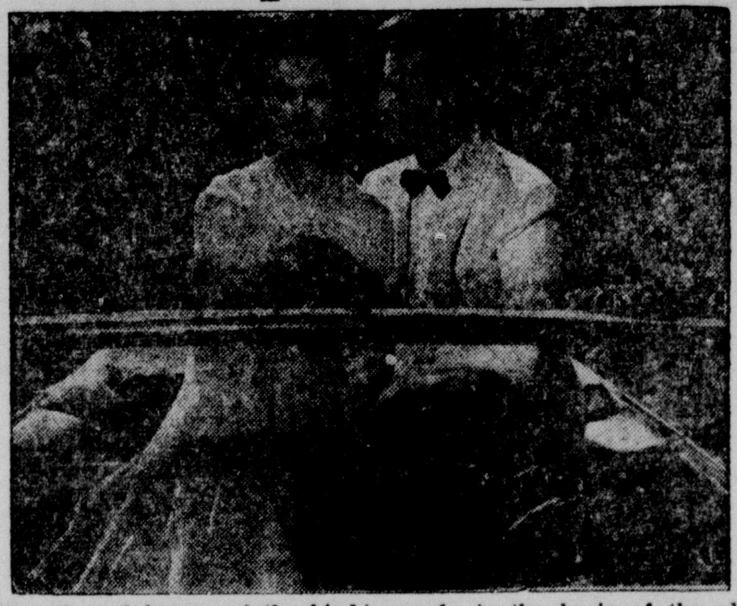
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Residents complained that two "hot rod" cars were racing up and down the streets and that the occupants were shooting at each other.

Police captured two boys and the "hot rods" but there were no guns. The boys were warned after they explained their cars had been backfiring.

NOW AT JOY — Jane Russell, in the garb of a frontier dance hall singer, gives a torchy rendition of a ditty entitled, "The Gilded Lily," in RKO Radio's Trucolor drama of the early West, "Montana Belle," in which she shares stellar honors with George Brent.

Harvard University takes its name from John Harvard who died in 1638, leaving the school his library and half his estate.

'Sally And Saint Anne' Wins Top Comedy Praise



Warmth and humor of the kind which flavored such films as "Going My Way" and "You Can't Take It With You" can be savored again in Universal - International's "Sally and Saint Anne," starring Ann Blyth and Edmund Gwenn, which opened at the Tem Theatre.

Credit for bringing to the screen this story's down-to-earth quality and feeling of high faith can be shared by Director Rudolph Mate, Miss Blyth and Gwenn and the film's excellent supporting cast.

The tribulations of a robust Irish-American family form the structure about which the story of "Sally and Saint Anne" is woven. While comedy is the basis of the plot, true - to - life family "touches" abound in the telling and account for the warmly human feeling imparted by the film.

As Sally O'Moyne, Miss Blyth draws upon her own Irish nature and background in maintaining her mood. As her grandfather, Gwenn gives his most endearing performance since "Miracle On 34th Street." As the mortal enemy of the O'Moynes, John McIntire, with his permissably broad Goldtooth McCarthy characterization, earns a nomination for the title of "Meanest Man of the Year" in Hollywood.

Veteran troupers from Broadway hits like Frances Bavier as Miss Blyth's mother, Otto Hulett in the role of Ann's father and George Mathews as the parish priest contribute much to the fine quality of "Sally and Saint Anne."

Young Universal - International contract players who handle important roles with expertness include Jack Kelly, Hugh O'Brian, Palmer Lee and Kathleen Hughes, while Lamont Johnson and Robert Nichols also deliver fine performances.

"Sally and Saint Anne" was produced by Leonard Goldstein.

POPULATION TREBLES

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — This city, capital of Nationalist China, has trebled in size since the end of World War II. Swollen with Chinese who fled the Communists on the mainland, Taipeh has a population of about 600,000.

Bolt Holds Own In San Diego Tourney

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The crack-up in the baseball family at Fort Worth is due to find new faces bossing the Cats this season on the playing field and in the front office. There's a good possibility that Ed Head, the former Brooklyn pitcher who has been doing such a good job in a managerial capacity with Dodger farm clubs the past few seasons, may be offered the field generalship.

Head, the native son of Ouachita parish who makes his home in West Monroe, told us yesterday that he has already signed a contract to manage Mobile in the Southern Association another season and that he has no idea who will get the assignment to Fort Worth. We have a feeling, however, that even if Ed doesn't get the call, he is being considered by the brains of the Dodger organization.

The Fort Worth bombshell exploded the past week when John Reeves, so long installed as president of the Fort Worth club, broke the story with his own announcement that he has been "fired" as president. Next, Bobby Bragan, the club manager, announced from Havana (he's piloting Almendares in the Cuban Winter League) that he will leave Fort Worth, too, apparently giving his loyalty to Reeves.

The Dodgers have promised to name their new president and field manager at Fort Worth today, at least Fresco Thompson, Brooklyn club executive, has promised such.

Head did such a good job at Mobile last year that the Dodgers might decide to keep him there, after all it's the same class of ball as that played by Fort Worth and about all Ed could expect would be a change in scenery—the pay is the same. After arm trouble forced Ed to give up pitching at Brooklyn, he made his debut as a manager at Three Rivers, Canada. Next stop was Asheville, N. C., and then to Lancaster, Pa. Last year Ed was promoted to the Mobile job, and, as a sound projectionist of the Dodger policy, now is considered one of Brooklyn's top field generals in the high minors.

Latest word from Greenville, Miss., is that the Bucks are nearer returning to the Cotton States League than they were this time a week ago. Robert May, heading the drive to obtain the forfeited Greenwood franchise, is trying to obtain a working agreement with some club of higher classification. If he can obtain the help in players he's looking for, you can count on Greenville being back for '53.

After reading all the pros and cons on the merits and demerits of the two-platoon system in college football it all boils down to the fact that the coaches who are moaning the loudest about the end of free substitutions are the ones with the biggest squads loaded with the most specialists, and those who are hailing the new limits on use of substitutes are the coaches who have been working some of their talent 60 minutes anyhow and feel they have others capable of working both ways—offense and defense.

In regard to the specialists, we wonder how Leland Sims, Neville High's two-time Louisiana all-state guard, is going to make out with Georgia Tech. The Sugar Bowl champs are loaded with specialists. Sims is quite an all-around player, but our understanding is that Tech is more interested in his great punting ability. Bobby Dodd wanted him as a kicker. The hitch now is that Sims wound up his high school career here with a bum shoulder.

If kicking was all he had to do at Tech, the Yellow Jackets wouldn't be too concerned about that shoulder. But with free substitution out, Dodd is going to look for a punter who can go all the way. If the treatments Leland has been taking make his shoulder as good as new he could fill the bill. It's going to be interesting to see how those other Engineer specialists, the Teas and the Hardemans, operate next fall.

BENDER READY TO REJOIN A'S

At Age Of 69 'Chief' Not Ready To Retire From Diamond

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17. (AP)—Charles Albert (Chief) Bender, the warrior who rose from the lodges of the Chippewas to become the first pitcher to win six World Series games, says he's coming back to baseball again as a pitching coach with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Bender now 69 says he plans to drive to the A's Florida training camp early in February so as to be on hand when the first Mack hurlers arrive.

And Art Ehlers, A's general manager, says he'll be glad to have the Chief around to show Jimmy Dykes' boys a trick or two.

Sitting in the living room of his modest, two-story brick home in north Philadelphia, the American League's leading pitcher in 1910, 1911 and 1914, talks eagerly about his plans for the trip south.

Last June there were many persons who wouldn't have given the proverbial plugged nickel for Bender's chances of being around at spring training time.

A series of illnesses struck the Chief early last year necessitating an operation which was performed late in June. He told his friends he was ready for the third strike.

But he rallied, slowly at first, until he was finally able to get around with the aid of a cane, and now says happily he feels better than he has in a long time.

Although he spent 5 years in the major leagues, and was instrumental in 1910 in leading the A's to their third pennant and first World Series victory, Bender arrived too early to cash in on baseball's golden era. In all his years in organized baseball he never earned as much as some untried rookies pickup as bonuses. He has earned more for a season of coaching than he ever was paid for a season of pitching.

Since his playing days, Bender has turned to sharing his knowledge of the game with younger players, and there is evidence that he's a success at this, too. His current prize pupil is lefty Bobby Shantz, the American League's most valuable player of 1952.

Come springtime, the Chief will be back in the A's bullpen, ready as always to be quietly helpful to youngsters and veterans alike. It wouldn't seem like the A's training camp without him.

Chet Nichols Marries His Former Classmate

LINCOLN, R.I., Jan. 17 (AP)—Boston Braves pitcher, was mar-Chet Nichols, brilliant young.. Boston Braves pitcher, was married today to a classmate from his Pawtucket High School days, Miss Beryl E. Lovering at Lincoln. The ceremony at Christ Episcopal Church was conducted by the Rev. Phil P. Kierstead. A family dinner and reception followed.

Nichols, who led the National League in 1951 in earned run averages, will return to his post as private in the Army's special services at Camp Lee, Va., later next week.

BROSCH, NEWEST THREAT, TRAILS BY ONE STROKE

Mangrum Has Good Day To Pull Back Into Picture

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan 17 (AP)—Colorful Tommy Bolt survived the severest sort of challenges today, including a rival's eight-under par 64, but managed to remain on top at the end of the third round of the $10,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Leading the charge of the shotmakers on 34-year-old Tommy was a 41-year-old club pro from Garden City, N.Y., Al Brosch, who uncorked a 64. And that ushered him into contention immediately behind the pacesetter from Maplewood, N.J.

Bolt began the round with a two stroke lead over little Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., and four or more over such threats as Doug Ford, Lloyd Mangrum, Ed Oliver and, until late this afternoon, the red-headed Brosch.

When the round was over, Bolt had shot a two under par 70 and was hanging onto the lead by one thin stroke over Brosch and another New Yorker, Ford, from Harrison, who shot a 66.

Barber was still in the picture, with a 70 for 206; Oliver had moved up to 207 with a 66, and the dashing Mangrum man was back in contention with a 67 for 208.

Bolt dominated the scene as play got underway at the San Diego Country Club, a 6600-yard, par 37-36-72 test.

Brosch was more consistent than spectacular. True, he hit the pins twice, but his longest putt was a 12-footer on No. 3 for a deuce.

The leaders:

Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., 73-68-64—204.

Dick Knight, Honolulu, 70-68-71—209.

Yanks' Mickey Mantle Will Get Oklahoma's Art Griggs Memorial

The award annually goes to the Oklahoma baseball player who has brought the state the most distinction with his pst year's performance.

Mantle will receive the plaque Wednesday night at the Tulsa Oldtimers Club's seventh annual diamond dinner.

Dale Mitchell of the Cleveland Indians was voted third by the sportsmen while 11 voters marked both Mantle and Reynolds first. Reynolds won the Griggs award in 1948-'50-'51 and '52.

Mantle's sparkplug role in last year's World Series and his record with the Yanks was regarded by the voters as astonishing. He led the Bombers with .311 batting average and produced 23 home runs and 87 RBI's.

Tinsley Will Be Featured Speaker At Banquet Of L. S. U. Alumni Here

Louisiana State Graduates Will Meet February 2

Gaynell Tinsley, head football coach at Louisiana State University, will be a featured guest speaker at the L. S. U. alumni banquet to be held here Monday night, February 2, at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Coach Tinsley, better known to his many friends as "Gus," is noted as an interesting speaker who ha a knack of saying things in a humorous vein. In addition to speaking on the future prospects of the L. S. U. Tigers Coach Tinsley will bring with him and show the movies of the recent Tulane-L. S. U. football game in which the Tigers upset the dopesters by winning a hard fought battle.

Coach Gaynell Tinsley, a former high school football product of north Louisiana, is well remembered as the All-American end at L. S. U. during the early 1930's. Playing under L. S. U. Coaches "Biff" Jones and Bernie Moore, Coach Tinsley twice won All-American fame, and earned his proper place in the L. S. U. Hall of Fame.

Known as both a terrific defensive end, and performing equally as well on the offense, Coach Tinsley after leaving L. S. U. entered pro football where for a number of years he was an outstanding performer and consistent record breaker.

Returning to his Alma Mater as head football coach several years ago, Coach Tinsley has adequately proven his ability to turn out winning teams. During the years he has consistently been named as football coach of the week in the Southeastern Conference. Most notably among his teams was the one of just a few years back known as the "Cinderella" Team, or the team that went from rags to riches overnight and won a Sugar Bowl selection.

While Coach Tinsley did not produce a championship team at L. S. U. during 1952, there is certainly good evidence to indicate that he might do so in 1953. After all, with only about six seniors on the squad, and a squad plagued by injuries all year, and playing a heavy schedule that included five bowl teams, it is remarkable that Tinsley was able to whip his team into shape to upset Tulane.

So 1953 will be a new and better year for L. S. U. football followers as Tinsley will tell about when he appears here on February 2.

HEELS MAY PICK COACH MONDAY

Assistant Barclay Regarded As Snavely's Successor

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 17 (AP)—The University of North Carolina may announce Monday its selection of a new head football coach to succeed veteran Carl Snavely who resigned under fire last Dec. 6.

A university spokesman said approval of the selection must be obtained from the executive committee of the university board of trustees. A poll of members of this committee reportedly was underway by telephone.

George Barclay assistant to Snavely last year and a former head coach at Washington and Lee, is the No. 1 candidate and his selection was being predicted by a number of authoritative campus sources.

The university spokesman, who preferred that his name not be used, said Barclay already had been given the nod by the athletic council and its coaches committee, and that approval of the executive committee is all that stands in his way.

Snavely, with three losing seasons behind him, quit at the end of the 1952 season. A long-time single wing expert, Snavely changed to the split T last season and brought in Barclay, a former Tar Heel line great, to install it. The 1952 team won three of eight games.

Barclay's contract as assistant still has a year to run. It reportedly calls for $9,000 a year. Snavely got $15,000 as head coach.

HAPPY GO LUCKY SCORES VICTORY

Beats Out Spur On In Mayors Day Run At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Happy Go Lucky, H. G. Bockman's super-charged son of Haltal, showed his steel to a high class field of eight other thoroughbreds to win the $5,000 Mayors Day Handicap at the Fair Grounds today.

With Jockey Hal Keene wearing the orange and brown silks of the Bockman stable, Happy Go Lucky took command of the field at the top of the back stretch turn and stood off a challenge by B. W. Landy's Spur On to win the mile and one-sixteenth feature by a half a length.

With the victory today, Happy Go Lucky tightened his claim for handicap honors at the Fair Grounds as the victory was the Bockman colt's fifth straight triumph of the local season.

Happy Go Lucky, negotiating the distance over the sloppy track in 1:47:3, returned $4, $3 and $2.60.

Spur On paid $5.20 and $3.20 with Thelma Berger returning $3.40.

Despite grey, leaden skies and a wind-driven rain, the surprising turnout of 10,400 fans wagered $509,619 on the nine-race program.

HIBISCUS STAKES WON BY ETERNAL WILL, FIRST AID

Gilroy Star Pays $39.70 In His Section Of Race

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—Brookmeade stable's First Aid drove to victory in the second division of the Hibiscus Stakes at Hialeah park today after Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Eternal Will won the first half of the $15,000-added feature for three-year-olds.

First Aid, with Ira Hanford riding, won a hot stretch duel over G. C. Ganter's Virtuous and finished a head in front. Charles A. O'Neil Jr.'s Florida - bred Air Pine was third, a nose back in the close three horse finish.

First Aid's time for the six furlongs was 1:11 4-5 over a fast racing strip and the three-year-old son of Bernborough earned $13,687.50.

First Aid, lightly regarded by the Saturday crowd of 17,826, paid $39.70, $22.40 and $11.90 in the $2 mutuels. Virtuous returned $19.50 and $12.80 while Air Pine rewarded $2 bettors with $5.90 to show.

A dozen colts and geldings competed in each division of the six furlong stakes with Game Gene, Do-Ra-Mi stable's Florida-bred a late scratch in the second section.

Isador Bieber's Fresh Meadow fell going into the stretch and first reports said Jockey Nick Shuk suffered fractured ribs. The horse appeared to be injured slightly.

Eternal Will, first choice in the betting, covered the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5 over a fast track and won by three-quarters of a length over Hal Price Headley's Reprimand. Darby Dan farm's Skipper Bill was third, a length back of Reprimand and five in front of R. P. Levy's Hueso.

Eternal Will went postward the favorite at 2 to 1 and paid $7, $4.90 and $3.30. Reprimand returned $5.40 and $3 and Skipper Bill paid $2.90 to show.

MARCIANO LIKES JUNE FOR FIGHT

Heavyweight Champ Says He Feels Stronger Outdoors

By JACK CUDDY

GROSSINGER, N.Y., Jan. 17—UP—Heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano said Saturday he favored defending his title in June because he "feels stronger outdoors than inside."

But since boxing's new joint review board has ordered a defense by April 10, Marciano is willing. He still thinks he'll retain the title. A June fight would have been held outdoors in New York; the April fight probably will be staged indoors in Chicago.

Rocky explained, "I felt strong as a bull in my outdoor fights with Harry Matthews and (Jersey Joe) Walcott." The unbeaten slugger grinned and added, "of course, I did pretty well indoors too, but I never felt as strong."

Just in from a six-mile hike along the lightly snowed trails here in the foothills of the Catskills, Rocky took off his blue woolen skating jacket and parka as he continued talking in the living room of his lodge.

Did the champion hope that Walcott would be the challenger at Chicago despite Jersey Joe's protests to the board of review that he would not fight in Chicago?

As Trainer Charley Goldman pulled off Rocky's heavy paratrooper shoes, the fighter said, "I'd prefer Walcott. I figure he would draw the most money because of the great fight he put up last September. And he deserves a return shot because he was good enough to give me my chance."

The champ said it felt good to be back in camp after a 36-hour visit to New York to receive the fighter-of-the-year award at the Boxing Writers' dinner.

He admitted somewhat guiltily, "I enjoy training. So, honestly, I'm not too disappointed that I have to fight on April 10, as we originally planned. I've liked to exercise — ever since I was a kid."

Fontana Coming Home With Woody Herman's Band For Sunday Show

Remember Carl Fontana who used to play summer softball here with the old Cooperative Dairies team? He's playing with Woody Herman's band now and will be a featured player when Herman comes to Monroe with his musicians for a dance show next Sunday at the Progressive Men's Club at Selman Field, it was announced yesterday by Julius Haddad.

Carl, now 24 years old, has been traveling with Herman's band for a year and two months. He graduated from Neville High School in 1945, spent two years at Northeast Louisiana State and graduated from L. S. U. He's first trombone and soloist for Herman's show.

Rule Changes, Player Draft, Help For Weak Top Docket

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17 (AP)—The National Football League opens its annual meeting here Wednesday night with the far more than usual pandora's box of problems—new rules, a new franchise, television, college player draft, financial worries, and the always tedious job of formulating a new schedule.

The first item on the agenda when the full scale meetings start Thursday morning will be the college draft. Such players as Oklahoma Halfback Billy Vessels, Jack Scarbath, Maryland quarterback; Ron Morris, Tulsa, Ed Crowder, Oklahoma, Chuck Malloy, Howard Waugh, the nation's leading ground gainer from Tulsa; "Little Moe" Modzelewski, Maryland tackle; Don Moomaw, U. C.-L.A. linebacker; Johnny Michaels, Tennessee guard; Joe Cosgrove, Maryland center, and Bernie Flowers, Purdue end, will be in the grab bag.

Commissioner Bert Bell has described the meeting as one of the most important in many years. The $30,000-a-year league head has said that the N. F. L. structure needs some revising. He's concerned about this 12-team league in which only four or five teams make a decent profit and the rest struggle for survival.

Despite a growing report last week about increased attendance, the N.F.L. is in a shaky state. The attendance increase was good for the few clubs that made so-called better than average profits, but not for the majority.

One club reported in the red last week was described as having lost "peanuts." The owners of that team don't feel that way. They consider $40,000 a lot of "peanuts" in a league where it takes two, three, or sometimes four seasons to make the same amount unless you come up with a champion. Incidentally, this same team lost $35,000 the previous year-$75,000 for two years. Some peanuts.

Bell has indicated he doesn't favor cutting salaries, but some of the owners don't feel that way about it. One owner recently said that salaries were far in excess of what the operation called for and must be cut.

Bell suggests cutting overhead, but this owner pointed out that a "big league" has to operate like a "big league" or it loses that standing in the sports community. This source said overhead can be cut some, but the big slice has to be in the salary department where N.F.L. teams are paying for 12 games almost equivalent to what major league baseball clubs pay for 154 games.

It appears that the playing rosters are almost certain to be cut from 33 to 30 despite the wall of coaches. The pros, like the colleges, are going to go back to 60-minute ball players: Owners say they can't afford to pay specialists.

On the subject of rules, four important suggestions will be made. Bell will try once again to get the extra point abolished and to have all league games played to "sudden death" in event of a tie.

Also, it will be recommended that once an offensive player is tackled by the defense he cannot get up and run again. He can get up if he slips, but not if contact has been made with a defensive man. This one is designed to prevent injuries in pile ups.

Another major recommendation is to have disqualified players sidelined for a period of time only instead of for an entire game. Bell says the fans come out to see the star players and don't want them thrown out in the first quarter. If the recommendation is accepted, players will be put out for seven or 10 minutes at a time if disqualified, sort of like the penalty box in hockey.

On television, the N.F.L. lawyers will discuss the impending government anti-trust suit against the league, talking to prospective witnesses. The trial opens in U.S. district court here Jan. 26. The result could have a drastic effect on the N.F.L. TV money helps to pay the big salaries. If the Government wins it would leave a big hole in club treasuries.

Baltimore, the newest franchise in the N.F.L. has to be placed in either the American or National conference and this may bring about a large scale fight among the owners.

AUSSIES CHARGE OLYMPIC 'STEAL'

Claim Plot Underway To Take Games From Australia

MELBOURNE, Jan. 17—UP—Irate Australian Olympic officials accused International Olympic President Avery Brundage of trying to steal the 1956 games for Chicago Saturday.

Australia, assigned site of the next Olympiad, revealed this week that it had ordered a halt to construction of the Olympic stadium because of a fluctuation in the value of the Australian pound. It'll resume building when the government provides more money, the announcement said.

This prompted Brundage to say in Chicago that he has cabled members of the Australian committee to determine whether it will be necessary to change the site of the games. The situation "is rather serious," he said, and action may be taken at the April 17 IOC meeting in Mexico City.

This infuriated Australian Olympic committee members.

"It ill behooves Brundage to adopt his present attitude on such scanty knowledge of the facts," one official said.

"Is it possible he'd like to see Melbourne lose the games and Chicago get them?"

Australian Olympic Federation Secretary Edgar Tanber said, "There's nothing to worry about. Work on the stadium was temporarily put back, but other preliminary work for the games is proceeding quickly and efficiently."

'Working Press' Favors New Grid Rules, 5 To 1

FEW TEARS SHED BY SCRIBES OVER SUB LIMITATIONS

Vision New Crop Of Athletes, Not 'Half' All-Americas

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Death of the two-platoon system found little sorrow today among the nation's football writers, a big majority of whom breathed a sigh of relief at getting rid of the "coaches' chess game."

An Associated Press cross-check of the men in the press boxes showed them lined up 5 to 1 in support of the rules committee action this week in throwing out the free substitution rule.

"It will be nice to know who's in the ball game once more," commented Bert McGrane of the Des Moines Register, secretary-treasurer of the National Football Writers Association.

Harry Farrar of the Denver Post and Royal Brougham of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer referred to the game of recent years as a master chess game with players as pawns and said the rules change will make the game simpler and easier to follow.

Others foresaw a keener brand of all-around competition, salvation for many of the smaller colleges and a whole new generation of well-rounded athletes "instead of half All-Americans."

But a minority put up a strong argument that the move will set off a new wave of intensified recruiting, relegate the specialists to the bench, lower the standard of play and increase the number of injuries.

Most outspoken critic of the rules change was H. G. Salsinger, veteran sports editor of the Detroit News, who said, "football will be a slower, less interesting game.

"Colleges have blamed their operational woes on the two-platoon system and television. What they overlook is that it costs several times as much to coach, equip and travel as it did 10 or 15 years ago."

Asserting that pro football will be the chief beneficiary of the college move, Salsinger added: "Eliminating the two platoon system is a step backward that the professionals will not be guilty of."

Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner and Wilfrid Smith of the Chicago Tribune expect a rebirth of the old Rockne shock troop era when subs were sent in to wear down a foe and regulars inserted to put over the finishing wallop.

"Undoubtedly," said Russell, "most coaches will try to develop three or four double duty units. One group might play the first and third quarter, another the second and fourth, as Tennessee used to do. Or, with such big squads, possibly units will be drilled to play seven or eight minutes, then withdraw for a fresh team."

Smith commented: "It will not abolish platoon football but it will make the new game one of measured substitution for individuals and teams. In the latter instance, it will be a rebirth of the old Rockne shock troop era. The second team may start and the first take over the second quarter. I think the public will like the change."

Here are some other comments:

Joe Williams, New York World-Telegram and Sun: "All the virtues claimed for the two platoon system were dismissed in a gambling effort to stop the downward spiral and balance the books. Is it more desirable to have a superior-type game or a healthy financial operation? Is any kind of football preferable to none? These seem to have been the issues."

John Cronley, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "Better all-around athletes, a keener brand of overall competition, a clarification of the game for the spectators, the salvation of many smaller schools, a coaching concentration on personnel rather than tactics. These points loom as the most important results to be expected from the abolition of the platoon system."

Harry Farrar: Denver Post: "Under the platoon system football has been relegated to a coaches' chess game. The mob scenes on the field when the ball changed hands left me cold. It will be nice to see some versatile players again."

Paul Zimmerman, Los Angeles Times: "Shed no tears for these poor downtrodden football coaches: All their talk about giving more athletes more chance to compete; the game now is going to pot; and more injuries due to player fatigue. College athletics should be predicated on the good accomplished—for the athlete first and the university, its student body, alumni and friends next. After that comes the spectator. Platoon football gave none of these consideration. It was a vehicle for the grid mentor who could get a wealth of talent under his control."

Ed Danforth, Atlanta Journal: "If killing the two platoon system will put the colleges back in business then it will be a good thing and rich folks should take it without a whimper. Yet, did the expensive two platoon system force the small colleges out of football? That is debatable. People seem to be shopping with their amusement dollars and it is possible they passed up the minors to attend the majors or stay at home and watch TV."

Wrestling Girls Feature Mat Card At Kallio's Arena Here Tomorrow

Misses Hawkins, Dieckman Clash; Henning Vs. Blackley

Wrestling girls will be featured attractions on a double main event mat show at Gus Kallio's Arena here tomorrow night when Betty Hawkins, Louisville, Ky., and Donna Marie Dieckman, Cleveland, O., tangle in one half of a program that also includes a scrap between Johnny Henning, popular ringman of Miami, Fla., and Gene Blackley, a newcomer here from Buffalo Gap, Tex.

The girls are relative newcomers to the wrestling business, one lured by television and the other as a means of developing her body to fight ravages of infantile paralysis. It will be the first showing in Monroe for both the girls.

Advance notices on Miss Hawkins said:

"To look at this girl from deep in the hills of Kentucky you would find it hard to believe that three years ago she was an invalid, hopelessly bed-ridden, hardly darying to hope that she would ever walk again. She had fallen victim to one of the most vicious 'villains' of them all, polio. It took time and hard exercise, and tears; and at times she nearly gave up the fight. But today that is all like a bad dream. She is developing into one of the foremost women wrestlers at 20 years of age."

Donna Dieckman is something of a muscle woman who became so interested in watching mat shows on TV at Cleveland that she got her father, Raymond Dieckman, to talk Billy Wolfe, the man who led Mildred Burke to the women's world championship, to give her a trial. Reared on a farm, she weighs 135 pounds and can easily lift twice her weight.

The Henning-Blackley match promises to be a rough affair with the classy looking Florida boy certain to be carrying the hopes of most of the fans who have been showering him with favor rivaled only by that that usually goes to Jack Curtis who for years has been one of the top attractions with Twin City fans.

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes with two falls to win. The first match is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

SHE BEAT POLIO — Betty Hawkins (above), Louisville, Ky., was battling polio three years ago with fears she would never walk again. Tomorrow night this 20-year-old miss, conqueror of the disease, will strive to beat Lonna Marie Dieckman as well in a featured wrestling match at Gus Kallio's Arena.

SUGGS UP FRONT IN TAMPA EVENT

Holds One Stroke Edge After Three Rounds Of Play

Bobby Dykes Turning Middleweight In Bout With Turner Tuesday

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—Steady Louise Suggs was one under women's par with a 73 again today to cling to a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the 72-hole Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament.

One stroke back in the tightening race was amateur Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga. Miss Faulk, who led with 70 the first day only to sky to 78 Friday, came back again with a 73 for 221.

Pro Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, also shot 73 for a 223 total, tying with Patty Berg, another pro playing out of St. Andrews, Ill. Miss Berg was even par 74 today over the 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course.

The leaders:

Louise Suggs, Cincinnati, 74-73-73—220.

JENA'S QUINTET TAGS J-H, 41-39

Giants Score Important Win In Class A League Play

JONESBORO, La., Jan. 17 (Special) — Jena took a long stride toward the championship of the North-Central Class A basketball division with a 41-39 win over Jonesboro-Hodge at Jonesboro Tuesday night.

The two teams, who are in the district with Menard of Alexandria, Winnfield, LaSalle, and Pineville, were the co-favorites to cop the crown. Their next meeting is at Jena, February 5, and Jonesboro-Hodge must win to tie, assuming that both teams win their other games. Only the division champion is eligible to go to the state Class A tournament.

Kennon paced the Jena scoring with 22 points. "Sonny" Montgomery with 16 and Harmon Ayres with 14 were high for the losers. In the "B" preliminary Jena also won, 40-32, despite 15 points by Charley Parker of Jonesboro-Hodge.

Jonesboro-Hodge won the Quitman tournament the previous weekend by betting Chatham in the finals, 50-42, led by Harmon Ayres' 22 markers. James Cowart of the losers had 18. The defensive work of Travis Ford and Kenneth "Zero" Brown featured this game, with the two holding Chatham's scoring aces, George Moore and Joe Jordan, to 3 and 2 points respectively.

The Tigers had opened their Class A race January 8, when they squeaked by Menard at Alexandria in the last 25 seconds, 49 to 46. Jonesboro—Hodge plays at LaSalle next Tuesday, and meets Pineville at Jonesboro Thursday night, both Class A conference games.

The Jonesboro-Hodge Invitational Tournament will be held January 23-24. Twelve boys' teams have registered, and Coach Harrell Haile urges all schools interested to get their entry in by January 16, the deadline for entering.

Illinois High Schools Junk Cage Experiment For 'Fouls, Unlimited'

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (AP)—"Fouls, unlimited" an experimental basketball rule allowing players to remain in the game after five or more personal fouls, has failed in Illinois high school circles.

The Illinois High School Association reported today that most observers of the rule tried in 25 holiday tournaments roundly condemned it.

The test permitted a player charged with his fifth and succeeding personals to remain in the game, but in each instance the offended team was awarded the ball out-of-bounds after the free throw.

M. F. Sprunger, I.H.S.A. assistant executive-secretary, said criticism included:

1. The rule encouraged fouling and rough play.
2. Fewer boys had an opportunity to participate because regulars never were forced to the bench.
3. Without the present disqualification rule the game would become disorderly and ragged, and,
4. While stars could remain in the game under the trial rule, high-scoring players could be fouled with impunity on every shot.

The few coaches who favored the unlimited foul rule pointed out players should not be permanently disqualified for acts accidental to the game itself and that the ticket-buying public was entitled to see a star in action for the entire game.

TENNIS FATHERS RELAX AMATEUR REQUIREMENTS

Put American Net Stars On Par With Foreign Countries

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP) — The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association moved to wipe out hypocrisy in the sport by relaxing its amateur rules today and at the same time it gave unanimous approval to the ranking of Gardnar Mulloy as the No. 1 player in the country.

The tennis fathers abolished without a single argument the antiquated eight-week rule which forbids a player to accept expenses for more than eight tournaments a year, exclusive of the national and sectional championships.

In the swift move, the U.S.L.T.A. thus put its court athletes on an equal footing with those of other countries who have an unrestricted program under laws of the international federation. Now a U.S. player can get paid, conceivably, for 52 tournaments a year.

Bishop appointed a committee of regional vice presidents to make a further study of the amateur code, which he described as "old and patched up," and asked them to make further recommendations next year.

In a placid session, devoid of expected fireworks, the U.S.L.T.A. nabobs put their okay—without a dissenting voice — on the ranking of Gardnar Mulloy, 39-year-old campaigner from Coral Gables, Fla., as the No. 1 player in the men's division.

Mulloy had been recommended for the top-spot as the result of his gaining the final round in the national championships last year at Forest Hills. But there had been reports this estimate might be revised to push Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, playing captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, up from the No. 2 spot.

However, the general thinking seemed to be that Seixas had not acquitted himself sensationally enough in the cup matches at Australia to warrant a change. The Philadelphian lost to Frank Sedgman in the first singles match but later defeated Australia's Ken McGregor.

SIMMONS SIGNS PHIL CONTRACT

Pay Believed To Be Same As For Last Season — $16,000

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today announced that Curt Simmons, their stylish 23-year-old lefthand pitcher, had returned his signed contract for the 1953 National League baseball season.

As usual the announcement said nothing about the terms of the contract but there were indications Simmons received the same salary as last year, when he won 14 and lost eight after returning from army duty in Germany. Simmons' 2.82 earned run average was one of the best in the league. His salary last year was estimated at $16,000.

The announcement brings to four the number of Phillies in the fold so far. Others are centerfielder Richie Ashburn, pitcher Karl Drews and third baseman Willie Jones.

'Bevo' Francis Turns Rio Grande Into Top Basketball Attraction

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17. (AP)—Clarence (Bevo) Francis, Rio Grande's long, lean and lanky basketeer who has as many points as a guy needed for a war-time steak, is running Gen. Eisenhower a neck-and-neck race for space on the news pages.

The 6-9 freshman scored 1,072 in his first 21 games for a new collegiate record, topped by an unheard of 116 single-game splurge as the classy Redmen from the Gallia county hills continued unbeaten.

He's the biggest, and the cheapest, basketball attraction in the country. Rio Grande, on the games scheduled before the campaign opened, settled for out-of-town guarantees ranging up to $75—hardly enough to feed Coach Newt Oliver and his nine players.

But Oliver, an astute business man as well as a top-flight mentor, is boosting the ante for tilts now being booked.

Jack Meyers, publicity man for the Hobart Arena at Troy, lined the Redmen up for a game with Cedarville at Troy Tuesday night, and told Sports Editor Allan White of the Lima News:

"I had to wait in line to see Oliver. Promoters of all kinds were waiting to see Francis. Oliver's not just a coach now. He's Bevo's manager. I figure they'll leave Troy with about $4,000." The arena seats 7,000.

Ritter Collett, sports editor of the Dayton Journal-Herald, said the boys in New York were talking about Bevo at Tuesday night's game in the garden. Yogi Berra, squat catcher for the New York Yankees who has never won a beauty or Mr. America prize for his physique, was at the press table. As the conversation waxed and waned about Bevo, Yogi inquired in his most polite manner:

"What is the guy, a blasted freak?"

Francis has a twisting jump shot from which he scores most of his two-pointers, but folks who haven't seen him in action just won't believe the fantastic totals. Doc Tillotson, Toledo University's trainer who has seen some great ones come and go, remarked to Toldeo Times Sports Editor Tom Bolger, after Bevo's 116-point effort:

"That fellow must start shooting at the basket as soon as he leaves the locker room." (Bevo didn't get a field goal in the first quarter against Bliss Thursday night, but wound up with 51 points.)

Seymour Rothman of the Toledo Blade staff, who has a pal who gets everything wholesale, drove over icy roads to watch Francis pour in 44 points against Findlay's Herk Wolfe, last year's small-college national leader with a 31-point average.

"And the look at Bevo was worth every skid and scare," Seymour opined. "And for a car that skids like mine, and a guy who scares like I do, that's really saying something."

Uncle Sam Returning Half 'Lend-Lease' Athletes

SEVERAL TEAMS EXPECT TO GAIN ADDED STRENGTH

Indians, Yankees, Braves Appear To Be Most Benefited

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—Baseball's lend - lease operations with Uncle Sam for the Korean war and defense buildup is beginning to level off as major league stars are returning from two-year hitches in the service.

To be sure, many big names are still wearing khaki and more are almost certain to join their former diamond colleagues in the future, but the pendulum is beginning to swing back to baseball.

The answer is simple. Tht boys have served out their time while the great majority of the club rosters are filled with men ineligible for the draft. The clubowners are wary of signing youngsters who are draft bait.

In all, 45 current big leaguers are back from service while 48, including such stars as Ted Williams, Don Newcombe, Willie Mays, Gerry Coleman and Chet Nichols, are still marking time. About a half dozen have passed their physicals for induction and several are expecting that letter of "greetings."

The clubs likely to benefit most this season from the latest lend-lease operations between the major and military leagues appear to be Cleveland and New York Yankees in the American and Boston's Braves in the National.

Boston's Red Sox have been hurt the most as rookie stars Faye Throneberry and Dick Brodowski followed Williams and Leo Kiely into service since the close of the 1952 campaign. The Red Sox have six in service, second only to Detroit's seven. Cincinnati has five in service.

Six national defense men are listed in Cleveland's 1953 roster, including outfielders Bob Kennedy, Herbie Adams and Jim Lemon, infielder Doug Hansen and pitchers Dick Weik and Al Aber. Kennedy was the regular right-fielder before he re-joined the marines last spring. Lemon is a promising rookie slugger from Oklahoma City, Weik came to Cleveland from Washington in exchange for Mickey Vernon, and Aber is the southpaw hope the Indians have been seeking for years.

The Braves will have a complete battery back from the army when Pitcher Johnny Antonelli and Catcher Del Crandall report to spring training.

Antonelli, the $52,000 bonus baby, was named the best pitcher in the Wichita (Kans.) Army Tournament last summer. He captured 20 of 22 decisions with Fort Meyer, Va. Crandall is expected to be the No. 1 catcher of the Braves. The Braves still have Nichols, their 1951 freshman pitching star, and Phil Paine, another promising pitcher, in the service along with Catcher Bob Buhl.

Pittsburgh will have Shortstop Danny O'Connell, Pitcher Bill MacDonald and First Baseman Al Grunwald back in '53 but the Pirates already have lost Tony Bartirome, Ronnie Neccial and Ron Kline and are certain to lose Shortstop Dick Groat.

Tht Yankee's pitching figures to be strengthened greatly by the return of southpaw Eddie Ford, who won nine of 10 decisions in 1950. Rookie Pitcher Al Cicotte and Outfielder Art Schult also are back but Bobby Brown, Tom Morgan and Coleman still have another year in service. The New York Giants expect the return of Catcher Sam Calderone and Outfielder Bill Taylor momentarily but are more interested in the appeal of Willie Mays for discharge because of dependents.

Brooklyn gets back infielder Dimitri Baxes and Pitcher Ken Lehman to join Billy Loes and Dick Williams on the defense list, but is anxiously awaiting the return of pitchers Newcombe and Erv Palica.

The Chicago Cubs lost Catcher Harry Chiti but are welcoming the return of First Baseman Preston Ward, Catcher Carl Sawatski, Outfielder Paul Schramka and Pitcher Elvin Stablefield. The White Sox think outfielder Bill Wilson will provide the punch they sorely lacked last year.

The St. Louis Browns have four Kapscinski as wel las infielder Dick Kokos and Rocco Ippolito; Detroit is happy with the return Cardinals think lefty Harvey Tad-Kapscinski as well as Infitlder Bob Friend and the St. Louis Cardinals think lefty Harvey addix will develop into a big winner.

Night Baseball Hurts Batting, Says Richards

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (AP)—Night baseball is the main reason major league hitting has declined steadily until in 1952 only 17 batters hit .300 or better, says the Chicago White Sox manager, Paul Richards.

"It isn't just the fact that the ball is a little more difficult to see," Richards told a reporter today. "More damaging to the hitters is the strain night baseball puts on them physically and mentally.

"One day you play a night game, then it's a daylight contest and then, perhaps, a twilight - night double header. The player's eating and sleeping schedule is all thrown out of kilter."

22 Teams Set For Action In Annual Ouachita Invitational Cage Tourney

Basketball Event Opens In Two Gyms Here Friday

Twenty-two basketball teams are ready for action in the fourth annual Ouachita Parish High School Invitational Tournament which opens here next Friday and runs through Saturday, Ouachita Coach Herbert H. Holliman said last night.

The boys' division of the tourney attracted thirteen teams and nine will perform in the girls' section.

Games Friday will be played in two gymnasiums with the boys operating in the O.P.H.S. gym while the girls play at Northeast Louisiana State College gymnasium.

Coach Holliman said complete pairings are to be mailed contending schools tomorrow.

First round pairings for Friday were released to the press last night as follows:

Boys—Epps, bye; St. Mathew's of Monroe vs. Baskin, 10 a. m., Choudrant vs. Neville, 11:15 a. m.; Calhoun, bye; Ouachita, bye; L.T.I. vs. Columbia, 12:30 p. m.; Grayson vs. Monticello, 1:45 p.-m.; Collinston vs. Ruston, 3 p. m.

Girls—Ouachita vs. Monticello, 7:15 p. m.; St. Paschal's vs. Ruston, 2:15 p. m.; Neville vs. Lake Providence, 3:30 p. m.; St. Mathew's vs. Epps, 1 p. m.; Baskin, bye.

MISS CONNOLLY COPS NET TITLE

Rosewall Takes Men's Singles In Australian Play

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 17 —UP—Winsome Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., added the Australian women's singles title to her list of world-wide tennis championships Saturday and Australian tennis fans loved it.

About 6,000 of them cheered the 18-year-old Maureen lustily after she downed Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, in the finals at the Kooyong courts.

The Aussies gave "Little Mo" a great ovation as she became the youngest woman ever to take the title. She was the fourth American girl to do so.

Maureen, however failed in her quest for the mixed doubles title for she and her partner, Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., bowed to Australia's Rex Hartwig and Miss Sampson, 6-4, 6-3.

The men's singles title went to another 18-year-old, Ken Rosewall of Australia. In just 80 minutes the youngster disposed of Mervyn Rose, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4 to become Australia's No. 1 player now that Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor have turned professional.

SLIPPER SATIN TAMPA WINNER

Comes From Dead Last To Win Feature At Sunshine Park

A 14-pound advantage in weights was a telling factor for Slipper Satin in her belated rush. She carried 106 pounds to 120 for Spring Kahl.

Slipper Satin covered the six furlongs in 1.13 1-5 and paid $10, $3.70 and $4.20.

BRAVES ACQUIRE DODGERS' PAFKO

Give Up Hartsfield And Cash For Infielder-Outfielder

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—UP—The Brooklyn Dodgers sent Andy Pafko to the Boston Braves Saturday for Roy Hartsfield and cash.

The Dodgers don't even need Hartsfield. They are sending him to Montreal.

Pafko hit .287 in 150 games last season. He collected 158 hits including 17 doubles, five triples and 19 home runs. He drove in 85 runs.

Pafko came to the Dodgers from the Cubs in 1951. He immediately was injured and hit only .255 for the season. The previous year he had hit .304 for the Cubs, whom he joined from Los Angeles in 1944. He can play third base as well as any outfield position.

Zapalac, 31, was a star of the great Aggie teams which went to three straight bowl games in 1939-41, the Cotton Bowl twice and the Sugar Bowl. He has coached at Hillsboro, Tex., high school and at another Texas junior college, John Tarleton State, in addition to Arlington State and played one year of pro football with the Pittsburgh Steeler.

Head Coach Ray George also announced that he would not replace Line Coach Paul McMurty, who resigned last month to return to his farm near Rio Hondo, Tex.

Will Name Eros Gym After Wreck Victim

EROS, Jan. 17. (Special) — Two Eros youths who were fatally injured in an automobile accident near Okaloosa on Dec. 26, 1951, will be honored here Monday in the dedication of a new gymnasium at the Eros high school.

The new Crowell gym will be dedicated in memory of Jack Glendon Crowell who was killed in the auto wreck. A new piano for the school will be dedicated in the memory of Barbara Spillers, who was also fatally injured in the accident.

Dedication exercises will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the high school auditorium.

Crowell, who was 19 when he met death, was a soldier home on leave.

'AFTERTHOUGHT' BALLOT KILLED FREE-SUB RULE

Little Declares Committee Followed NCAA Orders

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17—UP—Columbia Football Coach Lou Little said Saturday an afterthought vote of the NCAA convention was the real blow that killed two-platoon football.

Little, a member of the football rules committee, said he continued to fight for the two-platoons on behalf of the coaches at the committee session here, but that it was a losing fight. The committee obeyed the NCAA. Now, he added, the new substitution rule is on the books and there's nothing anyone can do about it.

"It was the NCAA that voted on the floor, 46 to 23, to ask the rules committee to abolish it at its Washington, D. C., convention," Little said. "Forty-six to 23 is a pretty small vote of the delegates to decide an issue like this.

The veteran Columbia coach said that he left Washington for the St. Petersburg rules committee would adhere to the request coaches' wishes despite the NCAA vote.

"I carried on the fight the best I could, hoping the rules commitdtee would adhere to the request of the coaches and continue liberal subbing," he said.

"Since the committee didn't want it, of course, I am now going to go along with it. I don't see how they could rescind the new rule now.

"But I don't understand how a vote of 46 to 23, even though it may be a majority, should be accepted as a representative vote of the NCAA." (The NCAA has 316 members which played football last season; Thus, 250 of them were not represented in that 46-23 vote.)

"The NCAA should not have the right to dictate to the rules committee," Little said. "It should not even suggest to them how they should decide on a football ruling.

"The rules committee has made football their lives' work. Rules committee members are more experienced."

Chatham Boys, Calhoun Girls Take Championship Trophies In Tourney

Farmerville Sextet, Calhoun Quint Are Runners-Up

CALHOUN, La., Jan. 17 (Special)—The Chatham High School boys and the Calhoun High girls emerged as champions of the Calhoun High School Invitational Basketball Tournament here tonight. Chatham knocked off the host Calhoun quintet, 49-37, in the title finals after the Calhoun girls had stopped the highly favored Farmerville sextet, 28-23.

In the semi-final games during the afternoon, the Chatham boys advanced over Ouachita, 48-42, and Calhoun climed over Ruston, 41-25, while the girls' section saw Farmerville defeat Downsville, 37-31, and Calhoun trim Choudrant, 42-25.

The Ouachita-Ruston semi-final was tied at 40-40 with a minute and a half to go, but the Bearcats pulled away to win.

Moore sparked Chatham to victory in the boys' final with 14 points while Lloyd Crocker hit for 13 points for Calhoun, and White contributed 12 for the losers. Chatham and Calhoun were tied 19-19 at the half.

Patsy Calhoun rang the bell for 17 points to lead her Calhoun forces over the Farmerville sextet. Bridges was high scorer for Farmerville with nine.

In the boys' consolation contest the high scorers were Ferguson and Edwards, Ruston, with 13 and 12 points respectively, and, for Ouachita, Fuller and Barnes with ten and eight respectively.

GOLD STARS AS MEMBER AWARDS

L. B. Faulk Legion Post To Recognize For Work In Recent Campaign

At Monday night's meeting of L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, Adjutant Braun will arrange to award membership gold stars to those members who participated in the recent membership drive. All members who secured ten or more either renewals or new members, will be eligible for these awards. It is urged that as many of these members be present at this meeting, so that they may receive their awards.

It is also requested that any member of the post who has not been regularly initiated and who has not received his certificate of initiation as well as his legion button, be present so that they may be duly initiated into the legion post.

Arrangements are being made to have a showing of the talking movie film picture of the American Legion national convention at the Legion meeting of February 16. There has been such a great demand for this picture, that it has been impossible to get it booked before the second meeting of the post in February. Further announcement will be made concerning this next month.

Tom Firnberg, who is chairman of the March of Dimes drive in this area, has been invited to make a talk at the meeting concerning the present drive. Funds are badly needed to fight polio with and it is hoped that our membership will cooperate generously with funds as well as their personal efforts in helping to make the drive a success.

It has been announced by John Bailey, chairman of the entertainment committee, that he and his committee members have arranged for excellent refreshments to be served immediately following the meeting and that they are prepared to serve a large crowd. It is hoped that a large gathering will show up to take advantage of this generous offer of eats for everyone.

Just A Bit Wary About Hysteria

IPSWICH, Mass., Jan. 17—UP—Professional hypnotist James C. McEvoy was a bit wary Saturday of his next scheduled demonstration at a high school following the "mass hysteria" of 249 Ipswich high school pupils.

At the end of a lecture featuring mental telepathy in the school's auditorium Friday, McEvoy demonstrated hypnosis upon a few individuals on the stage.

Confusion broke out in the audience when it was discovored that a girl among the 389 students present was in sort of a trance. That "emotionally upset many of the other students—most of them girls.

School Physician Dr. Frank Collins treated those affected by "talking to them." He said "all but 140 of the 389 were affected" by McEvoy's demonstration and the resulting "mild mass hysteria."

School Supt. Robert F. Savitt said, "it's not possible to say how many just wanted to get into the act."

However, all the students "recovered," even though those who remained "drowsy" had to be furnished transportation home," Dr. Collins said.

MRS. BONNER IN HAT STORE

Becomes Manager Of Millinery Department Of Woman's Shop

Bella Scherck Davidson of the Woman's Shop announces Mrs. Sharron Bonner of Montgomery, Ala., as manager of her millinery department.

MRS. SHARRON BONNER

Mrs. Bonner was formerly with the most exclusive specialty shop in Montgomery, Al Levy's, having served in the capacity of millinery manager for the last three years. Before moving to Montgomery she was connected with the Landers Company of Memphis, Tenn., her former home. Her millinery training was originally in New York. She is well versed in the millinery field and has made a study of "just the right hat for just the right face." Head shapes, eyes and stature of women have much to do with her hat styles as well as her hair-do.

Mrs. Bonner, a chic and smart individual who wears hats well herself, states that there is a hat designed for every woman and she should definitely wear "her style."

When quizzed about the 1953 styles in millinery she stated that sailors and wide - brimmed hats will be most in demand. They will be colorful, strikingly bold, and becoming. Large hat sizes will be one of the wanted services in the Woman's Shop millinery department.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonner and daughter, Latina, arrived in the city a short time ago and are comfortably established in their home at 1005 South Fifth Street. Mr. Bonner has been named manager of Delta Air Lines.

Oil Activities In State Show Increases In 1952

The year saw 2408 well completions, which was 229 more than in 1951. The completions included 1498 producers or 1213 oil wells and 285 gas wells.

Drilling permits for the year were reported at 2742, against 2489 in 1951, and 266 former producing wells were abandoned, against 209 for the previous year.

Production figures for the year are not yet available, but apparently, because of the nationwide oil strike, will run slightly under the department's early-year estimate of 250 million. Production in 1951 was approximately 237 million barrels.

EIGHT-HOUR TV COURSE GIVEN

Installation, Maintenance And Repair Are Discussed

An eight-hour course in the field of television installation, maintenance and repair was held by the Philco Radio Corporation under the auspices of the Ark-La-Tex Wholesale Company, north Louisiana distributors of the Philco products. The meeting was held at the Virginia Hotel and was directed by John Boyett, George S. Bumham, Jr., and Felix Mulkey of the Shreveport branch.

A unique feature of the school was the method of presentation in which design engineers of the Philco Radio Corporation of Philadelphia, Pa., made tape recordings synchronized with film to cover all phases of the work. This is the method used by Philco to give television instruction in new areas where stations are being constructed. Monroe has rceeived permits for two new stations now under construction.

Persons attending the course and the firms represented were: William Fitzgerald, Fitzgerald Appliance Company, Minden; William Sherrard, Sherrard Radio Service, Ruston; C. L. Faulkner and Leonard Robinett, Faulkner Radio Company, Ruston; B. L. St. John, Bernice; G. E. Wiggers, Dubach, Hardward Company, Dubach; A. M. Stewart, Jonesboro Hardware and Furniture Co., Jonesboro; Foster Barron, Hemenway - Johnson Furniture Company, Alexandria; T. L. Gaddis, Barron and Gaddis, Farmerville; J. H. Moeller, Snyder Furniture and Appliance Company, Bastrop; A. E. Stroud, Jonesboro Hardware Company, Jonesboro; Dr. "Pops" Neilson, Louisiana Tech, Ruston; J. H. Morgan and Hugh Shipley, Trenton Appliance Company, West Monroe.

Floyd D. Howard, Robert Karkett, W. E. McFarland, and Arthur Kelsor, Jr., Louisiana Power and Light Company, West Monroe; M. M. Hill, Monroe Hardward Company, Monroe; M. L. Phillips and C. H. Baines, White Radio Service, Monroe; T. W. Patterson and William Bell, Monroe Television Center, Monroe; H. P. Cote, Cote Radio Service, Monroe; Norman Many, Montgomery Ward, Monroe; Herschel Fowler, C. and O. Electronics, Monroe; John Spier, Hale-McNeil, Monroe; T. W. Holden and J. M. Brook, Massey's Service Center, Monroe; William Belote and Guyton Powers, Guyton's Radio Service, Monroe.

James Gutton, Griffith Electric Service, Monroe; J. R. Hollis, B. and H. Service, Monroe; J. P. McKee and C. H. Jordon, Jr., McKee Radio Service, West Monroe; W. E. Love, KNOE-TV, Monroe, and R. W. Cash, Roy's Radio Shop, West Monroe.

Dismissed Angola Captain Rehired

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 17—UP—A former dismissed state penitentiary camp captain has been rehired within the past 10 days as a guard, Reed Cozart, director of correctional institutions, has disclosed.

The man is H. P. Ball, who had been discharged some time back by former warden Sam Anderson over the handling of some pecans.

Ball is a former captain about whom complaints were made to the committee investigating Angola two years ago. Records at the prison then showed he had been dismissed in 1944 upon his own admission of mistreating a prisoner.

Cozart said that Ball is being re-employed, but in a guard position, because he had only a short time to go before retirement.

LOUISIANA'S YOUNG DEMOS TO ORGANIZE

Will Hold Meeting In Alexandria To Discuss Future Plans

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 17 (AP)—Louisiana's Young Democrats will attempt to organize on a statewide basis at a meeting tomorrow.

Camille Gravelle Jr., of Alexandria arranged the meeting.

In answer to a reporter's question, Gravelle said to his knowledge the meeting will not concern the 1954 U. S. senatorial campaign.

The Daily Town Talk, however, said it understood plans would be made for the July 1954 senatorial primary.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), the incumbent, has announced he will seek re-election.

Gravelle said the meeting was called by William Hagerty of New Orleans and Al Tate Jr. of Ville Platte.

Several invitations have been issued to political leaders, the Town Talk said, but few were willing to be quoted on the session.

The newspaper said one political leader told a reporter, "We are not anti-Kennon or anti-anyone. We are just trying to get the Democrats of this state organized."

Gravelle said, "We found in the presidential election that the Democrats in Louisiana were not too solidly organized. The meeting has been called to effect a good organization." ..

Louisiana was one of the few states remaining in the Democratic columns in the November campaign. Gov. Robert Kennon, a Democrat, backed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the president-elect.

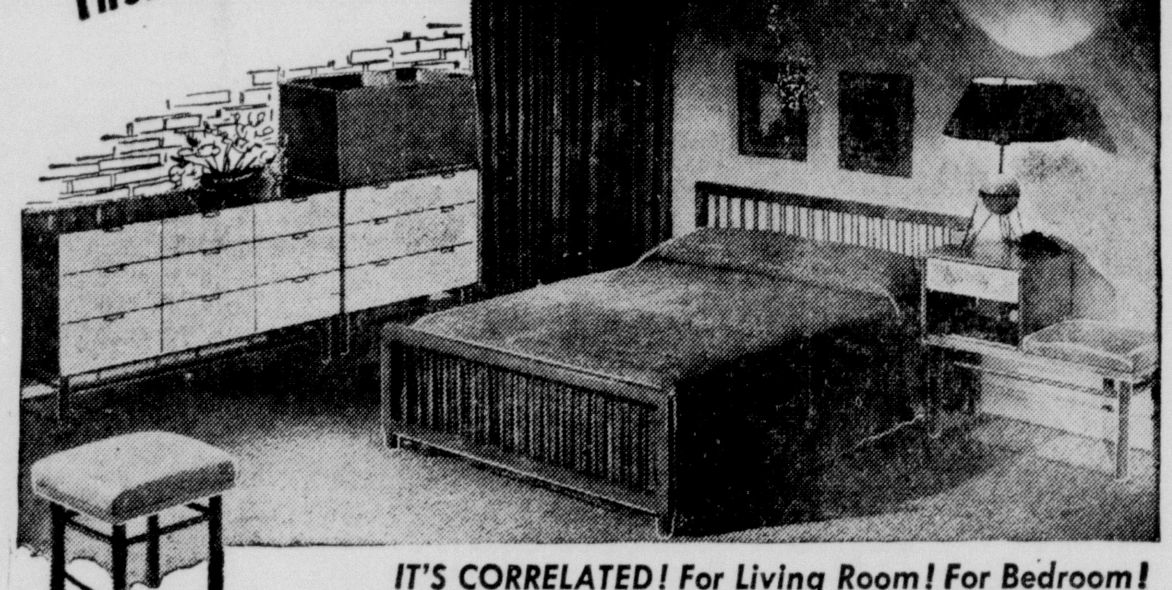
Mengel's new space-making Multi-purpose furniture
by the famous Raymond Loewy Associates

HERE IT IS!
First Showing



IT'S CORRELATED! For Living Room! For Bedroom! For Dining Room! And It's Economical!

It's NEW! It's so SMART! It's the most exciting thing that's happened in the furniture world for YEARS! HERE'S THE STORY: The MENGEL Company realized that today's small new homes and apartments created a need for a more space-making multi-purpose kind of furniture. MENGEL called in RAYMOND LOEWY—famed industrial designer—consulted with him on these problems—were impressed with his genius—engaged him to design these two new groups of functional furniture. (Store Name) in (City Name) is bursting with pride at the chance to bring you this new line of furniture exclusively in (City Name).

Who Is Raymond Loewy?

Designer of the New Studebaker, Frigidaire, Trains, Airplanes, etc.

The Loewy genius is everywhere. Probably no one industrial design organization is as responsible for so many of the efficiencies of life as Raymond Loewy Associates, headed by Raymond Loewy, one of the pioneers of industrial design in this country. Everything from your morning toothbrush to the light you read by in bed works better, and looks handsomer, because of this famous design organization.

And now . . . another feather for the Loewy cap . . . a new type of furniture that's multi-purpose-PLUS! A dresser will serve as a dining room server. A chest becomes a living room desk; a combination bench and night-stand acts as a telephone table; a day-bed turns into a living room lounge.

Pen Women

A group of members of the North Louisiana Branch of the National League of American Pen Women assembled at the Hotel Frances for lunch on Saturday, January 10. Membership in the organization, which is elective, is based on the professional achievements in the creative arts. Among its members are regular contributors to national publications as well as artists whose paintings are periodically exhibited.

Monroe Literary Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. A. M. Kite

The Monroe Literary Club held its regular meeting Wednesday, January 14, in the home of Mrs. A. M. Kite, 1015 Emerson Street. The president, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, presided over the meeting, turning the meeting over to member in charge, Mrs. D. A. Altick, who introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Ernest Holloway, dean of men, Northeast Louisiana State College.

Dr. Holloway's topic was, "Parents' Patriotism," he stressed for the parents to pay tribute, gratitude, and co-operation to our teachers, appreciation of the men and women who teach our children and make this great country of ours possible.

Dr. Holloway's speech was most interesting and helpful to all members. After Dr. Holloway's very interesting talk, Mrs. Baugh led the club collect, reports were given by different officers and members discussed a very special meeting for January 28 at the Rendezvous, with Dr. James D. Kelley as guest speaker on "Newer Trend in Medicine."

Refreshments were served to members present, Mrs. D. A. Altick, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. C. E. Coe Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. Guy DuPriest, Mrs. Floyd L. Ferrell, Mrs. W. L. Howard, Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. A. M. Kite, Mrs. C. T. Pifer, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, Mrs. J. S. Worley, and Mrs. C. H. Miller.

The Monroe Literary Club had a dessert luncheon recently in the home of Mrs. Floyd Ferrell, 1013 Milton Street.

Mrs. Guy DuPriest was co-hostess and chairman of the decorations.

The two long luncheon tables were beautifully decorated. Mrs. Jack Howard attached bells to each place setting, an interesting scene graced the piano and was enjoyed by all members and guests Mrs. J. O. Brown, Mrs. James Foster and Mrs. Bob Castleberry.

Farmerville OES Has Installation

Farmerville Chapter No. 207, Order of Eastern Star, with a very beautiful and impressive ceremony recently installed officers for 1953. After welcome and words of appreciation for work of the retiring officers by Mrs. Clara Lee Green, retiring Worthy Matron, she introduced the installing officers as follows: Mrs. Faye Futch, P. M., installing officer; Mrs. Mary Louise Johnston, P. M., installing marshal; Mrs. Etta Hammons, P. M., installing chaplain and Mrs. Josephine Lee, P. M., as installing organist. The following officers were installed: Mrs. Loduskee Ham, Worthy Matron; H. Hudwig, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Rosa Lee Meeks, secretary; Mrs. Lucille Stewart, treasurer; Mrs. Floy Kemp, conductress; Mrs. Sadie Farrar, associate conductress; Mrs. Willa Read, chaplain; Mrs. Lou Ellan Black, marshal; Mrs. Olive Milford, organist; Gloria Dawn Kennedy, Adah; Johnnie Nell Kilpatrick, Ruth; Mrs. Mildred Baxter, Esther; Mrs. Opal Eirbin, Martha; Mrs. Helen Jean Rainwater, Electa; Mrs. Dorothy Whitehead, warder and G. R. Weaver, sentenel. When Mrs. Ham was installed as worthy matron, eight lovely girls entered singing "Onward Worthy Matron, Marching to the East" and holding beautiful glittering golden keys to unlock the O. E. W. year of 1953 for the new worthy marton, who was escorted to her station through an aisle fromed by them. She was received and presented by the installing officers. In a very gracious manner. Mrs. Ham gave her greetings and thanks along with her motto "Service for others"; watchword, 'love" and flower, red rose. Immediately Frank Milford, on behalf of the chapter, came forward and with well chosen words of welcome presented her a dozen beautiful red roses with a golden key of 1953 imbeded in the foliage. M. O. Love presented Mrs. Green, retiring worthy matron, red roses and the 1952 key of thanks and appreciation, and escorted her to her seat with other past matrons. Huell Ham, son of Mrs. Ham, with appropriate words presented his mother with her gavel, which Mrs. Ham responded to with words of appreciation. Londa Lou Black, niece of Mrs. Ham, presented each of the installing officers with a gift after Mrs. Ham had thanked them for their installation services The junior past matron, Mrs. Green, and junior past patron, Vernon McCarley, were given words of appreciation and thanks for their work and escorted to the east where they were presented with their past matron's' and past patrons pins by the newly installed worthy matron and patron. Mrs. Ralph Golsby, a visitor, rendered a solo in honor of Mrs. Green and Mr. McCarley. "The End of a Perfect Day" which was very impressive.

Home Gardener Club Meets With Mrs. Flood Madison, Jr.

Mrs. Flood Madison, Jr., was congenial hostess to the Home Gardener Club in her home on January 6 at 7:30 in the evening. Co-hostesses were Mesdames H. O. Hartman, Alice David, M. M. DeWees and L. R. Harrison.

Mrs. H. O. Hartman presided at the business meeting in the absence of the president.

An interesting achievement was the decision to form a "club library" and place within same the books the club has previously purchased. One book already in the library being Period Flower Arrangement, by Margaret Fairbanks Marcus, in memory of Mr. G. C. Williams.

Mrs. M. J. Hortman was elected to fill the unexpired term of corresponding secretary, due to the resignation of Mrs. Laura Phillips.

In the absence of Mrs. D. F. Dennis, the speaker was introduced by Mrs. M. W. Montgomery. The speaker gave an interesting talk of "Consider the Lilies of the Field" and the guests were appreciative of such an informative guide on this topic.

After adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. Madison invited the guests into the dining room for refreshments. The table was overlaid with a lovely cut-work cover and a beautiful centerpiece of ranunculus formed a central interest.

Tea and coffee services were presided over by Mrs. H. O. Hartman and Mrs. Alice David. Fruitcake and glazed nuts were served by Mrs. M. M. DeWees and Mrs. L. R. Harrison.

Members enjoying this hospitality were: Mesdames T. L. Firnberg, Cleve Cornett, Roy Colquette, Jim Carroll, Sam Card, Saul Adler, M. W. Montgomery, M. J. Hortman, J. A. Funston, H. W. Fields, J. R. Miller, W. E. Young, G. C. Williams, A. A. Tarpley, L. A. Smith, K. R. Young, L. D. Rogers, C. D. Smith, F. C. Reynolds, Georgia Williams and guest, Mrs. J. E. Martin, Sr.

When you are buying a covered roaster for holiday fowl, make sure that the roaster has good handles. For open - pan roasting, any kind of pan large enough for the meat and deep enough to hold the drippings may be used. A pan about 14 by 10 by 2 inches is a good size for most roasts.

Mrs. E. Courtney Receives Eastern Star Certificate

Mrs. Eugene G. Courtney was awarded a fifty-year certificate of membership by Louise L. McGuire Chapter Order of Eastern Star at their recent meeting. Mrs. E. P. Morgan, Worthy Matron, presented the certificate with words of praise for Mrs. Courtney's long and fruitful membership and presented her with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums with gold ribbons.

Mrs. Courtney's mother and father the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Endom, were charter members of Louise L. McGuire Chapter when it was organized in 1893 and Mrs. Courtney, then Miss Stella Endom, joined the chapter in November 1897. Except for a few years during these 55 years of membership and until the past few years due to ill health, she was very active, having filled practically every office in the chapter, served as Matron for the year 1918 and as secretary for several years. She also served as a Grand Officer. Mrs. Courtney also helped in instituting and constituting of Annie D. Bennett Chapter, West Monroe, and acted as secretary until the chapter received its charter. She is an honorary member of that chapter.

Mrs. Courtney accepted the certificate with appropriate thanks and spoke of the happiness the work in Eastern Star had brought her in the past years. She told in an interesting way of the changes through the years since her first year, 1897. During those days of wood burning stoves, kerosene lamps and horse and buggy transportation it was sometimes quite an effort to hold the meetings. The Masonic Temple at that time was at the site of the present Coco-Cola Company.

Mrs. Courtney is the widow of the late Eugene G. Courtney, who was prominent in Masonic Circles and also served as Patron of Louise L. McGuire Chapter. Mr. Courtney was a Past Master of Western Star Lodge and served as secretary for many years, was a Scottish Rite Mason, member of the Shrine and Past Commander of Knights Templar, and held high office in each branch of the lodge. He had worked diligently on a history of Western Star Lodge until his eyesight and health failed, this history dating back 150 years.

HONORED BY EASTERN STAR — Mrs. Eugene G. Courtney, who was awarded a fifty-year certificate of membership by the Louise L. McGuire Chapter Order of Eastern Star at a recent meeting.

Twin City Council P.-T. A. Hears Dr. N. L. Moncrief

Twin City Council of P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, January 8, in the Health Center, Mrs. Paul Thompson, presiding.

Guest speaker, Dr. N. L. Moncrief, was introduced by Mrs. Thompson, Dr. Moncrief's topic was "The School Vision Screening Problem." Many interesting facts were cited by Dr. Moncrief, facts and figures taken from thorough study of this problem, as given in surveys throughout the country, a few of them hereinbelow.

Out of some 30,000,000 school children 6,000,000 have visual defects. The visual problems of children, with the possible exception of extreme deficiencies, are frequently not recognized either by the children themselves or by adult observers. Consequently, in the absence of specific examination procedure, many visually handicapped children do not receive the necessary visual care.

In a recent study of 6,357 school children, 16 per cent were found to be in definite need of visual care; another 9 per cent were classed as borderline cases, which could in a more strict sense be included among those needing care. Of all the children considered in need of visual care, only 22 per cent had received it.

These findings, for a rather typical sample of the school population, illustrate the general inadequacy of the visual care now provided. Serious consideration should be given to possible methods by which this unsatisfactory situation can be corrected. The magnitude of the problem has been demonstrated by other investigations in which it has been found that one third to one half of the school children should be referred for complete eye examinations.

Dr. Moncrief stressed the necessity of perfect vision and pointed out the ill effects of defective vision on the school child; how it hinders in his or her learning and progress in school, how it affects the individual's general attitude and personality.

He described to the members present the conditions to watch for in the child, which might indicate some visual disorder.

Dr. Moncrief is greatly interested in the screening program and has contributed much of his time in making these tests in some of the schools.

Announcement was made that the next monthly meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. the first Thursday in February, the meeting place to be announced later.

Dorothy Dix, Famous Adviser, Never Lost Love For Dolls

The world poured gifts by the thousands on Dorothy Dix, who became one of the most noted women of her day. During her period of great fame and high reverence, men and women from all over the world sent her presents of rare value.

But to Dorothy Dix the finest Christmas present she ever had was a plain doll from a shabby country store — the first "store-bought" doll she ever knew. Until the day of her death, a year ago in New Orleans, this counsellor to the millions often spoke of the meaning in her life of a child's plaything that most city youngsters would have rejected.

For Dorothy Dix was born in the south in 1861, at the beginning of the war between the states, and grew up in the days of new poverty and reconstruction. She was Elizabeth Meriwether of the Tennessee - Kentucky border area where her family lived on a plantation devoted to raising crops and thoroughbred cattle.

The girl who was to become the most celebrated adviser to the troubled knew limited conditions during these earlier days. The family continued at Woodstock, the Meriwether property, and they still had the fine silver and excellent plate But now and then they might have to scrape hard for the means with which to fill those plates

Still the Meriwethers could go to the fields and hunt in the woods: and as long as no cash was required, they could get along. 'And we did." said the future Dorothy Dix," and were quite happy about it all." Quite happy that is, unless little girls like that one wanted items from the stores

For years, the little Elizabeth Meriwether never enjoyed a ready-made doll. Her father had skill and ingenuity in fashioning wooden playthings, and repeatedly he created round-faced, unpainted objects for his two girls. "Imagination did the rest" said Elizabeth, "and we always told ourselves that we could hardly love anything more than we did those rough dollies."

Nevertheless, she and her sister did not forget their yearnings for the "real things"—the blue-eyed, pink and white dolls with elaborate yellow curls which they saw at the nearest crossroad establishment.

Then, when she was six or seven, great news arrived at the Meriwether household. Papa Meriwether had had a small windfall, and he informed his two daughters that they would be able to go with him to the store and pick out whatever they wanted. They chose, of course, the dolls.

"And nothing in my life ever looked so big and so beautiful," said Dorothy Dix. "Or so shiny and wonderful!"

She remembered the episode 60 or 70 years later, reciting it in detail. She kept the doll until it lost an eye, then fingers and a hand, then a foot. Long after it could no longer be used ("except when we played hospital") she had it near her.

In the years which followed, the first Christmas gift that Dorothy Dix made to nieces or other children was a doll. She still remained a Tennessee girl at heart, she said. "You can take the girl out of Tennessee." she smiled, "but you can't take the Tennessee out of the girl."

Thompson Wood Lee Auxiliary Meets With Mrs. Courtney

The January meeting of Thompson Wood Lee Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, met with Mrs. Stella E. Courtney, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt.

Mrs. H. L. Caveness, president, presided and the meeting was opened with the pledge to the flag and with prayer by the acting chaplin, Mrs. Leita Mae Davis.

Mrs. O. M. Arnette, past department president, in her characteristic efficient manner installed the officers for 1953. Mrs. Alma Peck McKee was installed as president. Other officers installed were: Mrs. Aline B. Hunt, senior vice-president; Mrs. Lula B. Pope, junior vice-president; Mrs. O. M. Arnette, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. Leita Mae Davis, chaplin; Mrs. Mary C. Webb, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Eula Morgan, historian; Miss Josephine Keller, conductor; Mrs. Dell Robinson, assistant conductor; Mrs. Ida Hawkins, guard; Mrs. Julius Johnson, assistant guard; Mrs. Lena Morrow, parliamentarain; Mrs. Stella E. Courtney, reporter.

Mrs. McKee, the incoming president, served as president in 1934, and was instrumental in accomplishing much along constructive lines during her previous term of office. Mrs. McKee was presented the gavel and once again took up the reins of leadership. She then appointed standing committees for the year with Mrs. Craveness as general chairman; hospital committee, Mrs. Minnie C. Mangham; carnation day, Mrs. Eula Morgan; cards and flowers to sick and shut - in, Mrs. Stella E. Courtney. Other committees will be appointed later.

Mrs. Caveness, the retiring president, gave a splendid resume of her work during the past year, and stated in her talk that the worthwhile projects could not have been accomplished without the help of the members of the auxiliary. Mrs. Caveness presented her secretary, Mrs. Arnette, with a gift for her untiring help during the past year. A past-presidents' jewel was presented to Mrs. Caveness at a previous meeting. Mrs. Arnette gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. Courtney at the close of the meeting served a salad course and a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Mary Hood, Mrs. Lula Pope assisted Mrs. Courtney in the courtesies of the afternoon.

The next meeting will be held February 11 in the home of Mrs. Leita Mae Davis on St. John St.

Travel Expert Carol Lane To Speak To Women's Clubs

Carol Lane, well-known travel authority, will speak on "New Trends in Travel" at a meeting of women's clubs on January 29th, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. at the Frances Hotel, according to Miss Bess Sharp, Executive Director of the YWCA. The Business and Professional Girls' Club is sponsoring this meeting and extends an invitation to the women to attend this most interesting, and informative, and enjoyable occasion.

Highlighting Miss Lane's talk will be a visual demonstration showing how to plan a two-weeks vacation wardrobe. Miss Lane, as women's travel director for the Shell Oil Company, answers 10,000 queries each year concerning travel problems. Finding that many of these deal with clothes she has developed a four-costume basic wardrobe suitable for sudden changes in plans, or climate, or versatile enough to provide about two dozen costume changes. Her planned wardrobe includes two different "types" of "trick" triangles of jersey which any woman can make herself and which turn into six blouse combinations.

Miss Lane will also discuss such new travel trends as "shun-piking" or the back road route to vacation adventures, kitchen - in - your-car gadgets, and the latest methods for making touring with youngsters easier and more pleasant.

Often called the first lady of touring, Miss Lane covers 50,000 miles annually to test her ideas personally. She is noted as the author of a syndicated newspaper column and such helpful booklets as "Touring Can Be Child's Play" and 'Travel a la Car."

At this meeting each clubwoman will be presented with Miss Lane's latest booklet: "Carol Lane's Vacation Dress-O-Graph which shows how to get a whole trunkful of vacation costumes from one suitcase along with her other travel aids.

Fine Arts Club Studies Classic Period At Meeting

The Fine Arts Club met in the home of Mrs. F. V. Allison, with Mr. Leon Hammonds as host, Miss Marie Minard and Miss Ladelle Duke co-hostesses.

In the absence of the president, Miss May Read, and the vice-president, Mrs. Mary Dalton, the treasurer, Mr. Joe F. Craig, presided. The collect was repeated in unison and a short business session followed. A nominating committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Taunton Veazey chairman, and Miss LaDelle Duke and Mr. Leon Hammonds. Guests of the club were Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Mr. John Adams.

Mr. Craig presented Mrs. Dolly Douglas, program chairman for the study of the classic period. Mrs. Douglas outlined the period by giving as nearly as has been learned the dates of this era and the trends of the times. She presented the following program: A piano duet, Sontina in C Major by Mozart, Mr. Joe Craig and Mr. John Adams. Clarinet solo Concerto by Mozart, Mr. Harry Lemert accompanied by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope.

Mrs. Taunton Veazey and Miss Leita Mae King exhibited copies of Greek art and gave an interesting discourse on the art of the classic period.

The host and hostesses assisted by Mrs. Allison served spiced tea, tiny sandwiches and confections to the following members and guests. Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mr. and Mrs. John Cale, Mr. Joe F. Craig, Mrs. Dolly Douglas, Miss Leita Mae King, Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Mr. Harry Lemert, Mrs. Louise Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newman, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, Mrs. Taunton Veazey, Mrs. Willie Mae Wafer, Mr. Max Kulcke, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mr. John Adams, and the host and hostesses and Mrs. Allison.

Want to give fish fillets the glamor treatment? Serve them with cream sauce into which you've stirred diced cooked shrimp. You'll need about a half cup of diced shrimp for a cup of medium sauce, and this amount of the shrimp sauce will be enough for four portions of the fillets. Sprinkle with minced parsley before serving!

Ouachita Parish Library Progresses During 1952

The beginning of a new year is a time for taking stock and evaluating the progress made during the previous year. This is just as true for a library as for any other sort of business. At the beginning of each year, the Ouachita Parish Public Library is carefully studied by the librarian and the board of control in preparation for making the budget for the current year and making the annual report of the past year's activities. This report goes to the Louisiana State Library in Baton Rouge and to the office of education in Washington. The report for 1952 has just been completed, and probably many of you will be interested in knowing what your library accomplished this year.

Of course, the outstanding accomplishment was the passage of the ½ mill property tax for the support of the library for the next ten years. This tax insures the library a basic support, which while not adequate for great expansion, will at least keep it running in the way it has been doing. This is not a building tax, but merely a maintenance tax for the purpose of buying books, paying salaries etc. The time is going to come before many years when a new library building will be essential. Anyone who does not realize this fact is invited to pay a visit at the main library building at 418 Jackson Street and observe the crowded conditions.

Of course, the main stock in trade of a library is books. Let's look at the book stock. During the year 1952 there were 3,500 new books added to the library collection. Of this number, 1,896 were adult books and 1,604 were juvenile books. At the same time, 1,076 volumes were worn out and lost from the library collection, so the net gain was 2,424. At the present time the book collection of the library consists of 36,532 books. These books are distributed between the four branches in the following manner. Monroe has 18,287 books, West Monroe 3,987 volumes, the Bookmobile collection consists of 2,564 books and the Carver branch has 1,407.

The next question of importance is "Who Uses These Books?" The 1950 census reported 74,276 people living in Ouachita Parish. Everyone of them is entitled to take advantage of the resources of the library, but only about one - fourth of them do so. According to our latest registration figure 9,101 adults and 10,127 children or a total of 19,228 people are registered borrowers of the library. This is about in line with the national average, but it is too bad that more people do not take advantage of the wonderful cultural and recreational resources offered by the library.

Next let us see just how many books these 19,228 people who borrowed books from the library read in 1952. They borrowed 107,996 adult books and 153,246 juvenile books, a total of 261,242 books. If worked out on a percentage basis this would average 3.5 books for each person in the parish, or 13.59 books for each registered borrower. There are many people who are registered borrowers who did not read their 13.59 books, so there were others who read many more than that number.

People are also interested in knowing the number of books borrowed from each branch. The Bookmobile had the largest circulation with a total of 114,741 books. Monroe was second with a total circulation of 94,100 books. West Monroe had the third figure with a total circulation of 40,180, while Carver was fourth with a circulation of 12,221 . If we take this total circulation figure and divide it again by kinds of books circulated, we find that the people of Ouachita Parish read 68,201 books of adult fiction, and 39,795 books of adult non - fiction, making a total of 107,996 adult books read. In the juvenile section 46,073 books of non - fiction and 107,173 books of fiction were read, giving a total of 153,246 juvenile books read. If that number is divided by the total number of juvenile books in our collection, it will show that each book was read on an average of 15 times during the year.

What did this library service cost the people of Ouachita Parish? The total expenditure of the library for the year 1952 was $38,277.65. This is an average of 50 cents per capita, which is much below the national standard for library service. The national standards say that a library should have between $1.00 and $2.00 per person to spend in order to give adequate service. If you divide our expenditure by the number of registered borrowers, you will find that we had an average of $1.90 per borrower to spend. Often we are asked how much does it cost to circulate a book? We can say now that in 1952 it cost us 14 cents to circulate each book.

The most interesting addition to the service of the library during the year 1952 was the purchase of the Microfilm reader and a number of periodicals on microfilm. This was done to save space and because back issues of periodicals are much easier to handle on microfilm than any other way. The microfilm reader has been used a great deal and is a complete success. We are also getting the old Louisiana census records in microfilm, for the benefit of those interested in genealogy. We have the 1850 census already and are collecting funds to purchase the 1880 and 1860 census records.

Your Ouachita Parish Public Library is a growing concern. Are you using it? If not, come in at once and take advantage of its resources.

HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY — Jan Spurlock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spurlock, 500 Crosley St., West Monroe, celebrated her sixth birthday with a party January 7th in her home.

Eros Family Holds Reunion

Last Sunday the Powell family held their annual reunion at the old homesite near Chatham. Fifty-nine persons were present to enjoy the festivities. At noon a delicious lunch was served cafeteria style. The guest of honor for the occasion was Dr. J. E. Walsworth of Monroe.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Garner, Chatham; Mr. and Mrs. Hood Powell, Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powell, Sarah and Booker, Wisner; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jennings and John Gordon Jennings, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lindsey and Ray, Jr., Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Powell, Chatham, Mrs. T. N. Sanford and Tommy, Shreveport; Waymon Powell, Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Hood, Lynette and Mary Beth, Chatham; J. I. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Phillips and Gwennette and DeWauna, Edward Salsbury, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Wheelis, Junior, Huey, Bobby and Aubrey, all of Eros; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freeland, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hayden, Patsy Ann and Barbara Sue, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith and Jimmy, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Denmon Carpenter, and Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter, Dianna and Ronney, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Moss, Chatham; Mrs. R. W. Jennings, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Jennings and Bobby, Jr., New Orleans; and Dr. J. E. Walsworth, Monroe, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Oglesbee.

Hard - cooked eggs, shelled and cut in half lengthwise or sliced, make a delicious luncheon dish when served with a hot spicy tomato sauce and crisp triangles of thin butered toast.

Cosmetologists Entertain At Annual Banquet

The annual banquet of the Monroe unit of the Louisiana Association of Accredited Cosmotologists was held at the Hotel Frances Thursday January 8. The Cosmotologists heard Mrs. A. D. Tisdale speak to them on the subject "Women's Organizations in the World Today" in this most informative talk, Mrs. Tisdale stressed the need for young women to take an active part in their organizations in preparation for a greater America.

Other speakers were Mrs. Tressie Arnold, Shreveport, member Board of Control of Cosmetic Therapy, Mrs Bernice Trayler, Columbia, member Board of Control of Cosmetic Therapy, Mrs. Arnold announced that Governor Kennon would proclaim the observance of National Beauty Salon Week, Feb. 22-28 for the cosmotologists of Louisiana, and that the board members who are cosmotologists would support the association in their observance and their activities.

A short business session was held after the banquet. A report of the state association meeting held in New Orleans Jan. 4 was given by Albert Ringo, unit secretary. Mrs. Ruth Touchstone reported on the progress of the units committees that will function during National Beauty Salon Week. Other out - of - town guests were Mr. James Arnold and Mr. James Pruitt, both of Shreveport.

When you are preparing an icebox cake, butter the sides of the pan in which it is to be made and you'll find the lady fingers usually used in these desserts will stay in position when you line the pan with them.

Parties Compliment Bride Before Recent Marriage

Among the courtesies extended Mrs. Herbert Wilson, the former Diana Noel, before her recent marriage, was the luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club with Mrs. Edel Blanks and Mrs. Kennedy Abington as hostesses.

For this occasion the honoree chose a beige and brown suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of pink camellias, a gift of the hostesses. Mrs. Abington greeted the guests wearing a black and white spring suit with black accessories, and Mrs. Blanks was wearing a beige tweed suit with matching accessories.

Afternoon Tea

Mrs. Forrest Linquist, Mrs. F. L. Jones and Mrs. Bailey Grant entertained recently at a lovely afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Linquist honoring the former Miss Noel.

Mrs. Grant greeted the guests at the door. Receiving were Mrs. Linquist, Miss Noel, Mrs. John P. Noel and Mrs. Mason Wilson.

Placed at vantage points throughout the receiving rooms were lovely arrangements of narcissi. The tea table was centered with an artistic arrangement of Debutante Camellias in a crystal ring and flanked by crystal candelabra with white tapers.

Mrs. Fagan Cox, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. J. S. Avriett, of New Orleans, alternated at the tea service. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Miss Catherine Noel and Mrs. Louis Phelps.

Fifty guests called between the appointed tea hours of five-thirty and seven o'clock.

Rehearsal Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery entertained the bride and groom and members of the wedding party at a supper following rehearsal of the wedding.

In the receiving hall a bride's bouquet of white hyacinths was placed beside a music box playing the Wedding March. The mantel held an arrangement of debutante camellias in antique milk glass vases. In the dining room was an arrangement of Alba Plena camellis with white satin streamers flanked by handsome silver candelabra holding slender white candles.

At one end of the table was the silver coffee service presided over by Mrs. Wesley Shafto. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. Marie Frazier, Mrs. John Edward Godfrey, and Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis.

Guests on this occasion with Miss Noel and Mr. Wilson, were Mr. and Mrs. Mason Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Noel, Mr. and Mrs. Fagan Cox, of Houston, Mrs. J. S. Avriett, of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood Fourmy, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phelps, Miss Catherine Noel, Miss Ann Shafto, Rev. and Mrs. John M. Allin, Aylmer Montgomery, Jr., John Noel, Jr., Ted Bond, Harry Frazer, Jr., Fay Green, Tom Standifer, John David Davis, Leon Hammond, James Carroll Fourmy, Joe Montgomery, Tommie Green and Elizabeth Green.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: My husband, who is very handsome, and I own a snack shop and restaurant. We employ six girls and four men. I act as hostess and substitute cashier. None of the help knows we have been married for eight years. My husband thinks the girls will work better for him and women customers will come more often if they think he is single. He says that I can keep my eye on the employes and their work better and that men customers will patronize us more if they think I am single.

I have never questioned his theory until I realized lately that one of the girls was head over heels in love with my husband and that he is far nicer to her than an employe - employer relationship warrants. I am not a jelous person but suspect him of another affair in the past. However, I have no proof.

I would like your opinion of the entire situation. — Bette.

Your husband, who is an insufferable egotist and a suspicious sleuth, likes to be known as the sole boss and owner of the business; likes having you in the role of employe. He likes being known as an unmarried man because of the increased attention—and more—he gets from unsuspecting fems on the pretext of business reasons.

It is degrading for you to be cast in the role of a spy on the employes' actions. If your husband were a good and fair employer, spying would be unnecessary. Tell him the farce is over. Wear your ring and let everyone know you have been married for so many years. Such knowledge cannot possibly hurt your trade.

Dear Mrs. Landers: My husband and I have been married for six years and have no children. Due to a post-operative condition of mine the doctor told us he did not think we would ever have children. I want to adopt a baby but my husband is afraid to take the step. He now wants to try a one-year separation to determine whether he misses me so much that he cannot live away from me. If he finds that he loves me deeply, he will agree to make the best of our marriage and adopt a child. I love my husband and desire his happiness above all else. Please tell me what to do.— Undecided.

That's darned nice of your husband to give you that chance! He hinges his love on your ability to have or not to have children. He married you for better or worse; you cannot help it if this phase turned out to be "worse."

A year's separation, indeed! He can't possibly love you if he could suggest such a thing. How would he feel if the tables were turned and you ran out on him? Don't urge the adoption of a child until your husband wants one as much as you do or all three of you will be unhappy.

Keep your marriage intact and absolutely refuse the separation unless it be for other reasons. The truth may be that your husband is using this as an excuse and wants a divorce.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am 19 and have been going steady with a girl of the same age for more than two years. I expect to go into the service in about six months. I want to give her a ring. She wants one very much but my parents say it is not fair to tie her down until I am discharged. We love one another and know that our love will last. What do you say?—D.L.E.

You have known each other long enough to know how you feel about your future. You cannot allow the possibility of your being sent away to deter you from the normal things you would do. If the girl loves you enough to be "tied down" go ahead and give her the ring. Please be warned, however, that engaged girls become mighty lonely Saturday nights and cause many a fiance serviceman a broken heart because he can't take it.

(Ann Landers will help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of News-Star.)

Woodlawn Club Has Meeting

The Woodlawn Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. O. E. Smith for its monthly meeting.

The president, Mrs. H. H. Roberts called the meeting to order, and members then gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag followed by the singing of a song.

Reports were given by Mrs. J. E. Rutledge, Mrs. O. E. Smith, Mrs. G. E. Rutledge, Mrs. H. H. Roberts, assisted by Mrs. M. D. Bush, gave a demonstration on the care of ornamental trees and shrubs.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bush to visitors, Miss Lavinia Smith, and Mrs Pauline Jones, and members, Mrs A. O. Wright, Mrs. J. A. Waggoner, Mrs. E. L. Tisdale, Mrs. J. E. Rutledge, Mrs. E. M. Frith, Mrs. G. E. Rutledge, Mrs. H. H. Roberts, Mrs. M. L. Beard, Mrs. B. F. Lowlady, Mrs. J. H. Kilpatrick, Mrs. J. H. Brown, Mrs. T. F. Burnett, Mrs. R. J. Browning, Mrs. K. L. Bonnett, Mrs. M. O. Bush and Mrs. O. E. Smith. The club will meet again February 15 at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. V. O. Broomfield near the Woodlawn School.

Most pressure saucepans are about four-quart capacity. But there are some of these convenient utensils that are about two-and-one-half quarts; these hold enough of most vegetables for a small family. For meats, the four-quart utensil is usually most satisfactory.

Miss Applewhite Complimented At Series Of Parties

Among the first of the prenuptial parties given in honor of Miss Patricia Applewhite was a kitchen shower held in the home of Mrs. Walter Woods on Tuesday, Dec. 23. Co-hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Jack Woods.

Each guest contributed her favorite recipe for the bride-elect. Then the guests dressed clothespins as brides, with Miss Bettie Sue Price winning first prize and Miss Mary Lou Applewhite receiving the consolation prize. Following this contest a clothes basket of gaily wrapped gifts were opened by the honoree.

Luncheon

A gracious pre-nuptial affair for Miss Patricia Applewhite was a luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club in Monroe, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The hostesses were Mrs. Hollis Rogers, Mrs. Louis Lowentritt and Mrs. Leo Lowentritt and their respective daughters, Anna, Ann and Jean.

Miss Applewhite and her mother, Mrs. R. E. Applewhite, presided at each end of the handsomely arranged table, decorated with a beautiful centerpiece of pink carnations and white peonies, flanked by a miniature bridal procession of dolls in rainbow colors, the tiny bride, groom, flower girl and ring - bearer facing Miss Applewhite, creating a charming effect.

Miss Applewhite was most attractive in a deep dark blue knitted suit with hat to match, and her mother was smartly attired in a black crepe, rhinestone trimmed dress. Both Miss Applewhite and her mother were presented with corsages of pink carnations.

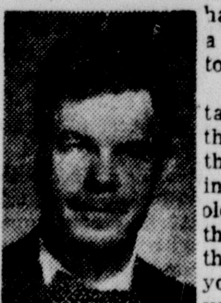
Lamb stew, bread and butter, tossed green salad, rice and raisin pudding and a beverage, make a good family supper.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Warm days of January tempt us out of doors and this is a fine time to put that gardening urge to work!



Evergreens can be shaped up now, and climbing roses which have grown into a tangle will need to be thinned out.

By all means, take the rose off the fence or off the house, if it is in a big five-year-old jungle, and lay the whole mess on the ground before you start. Then you can walk around the edges and cut your way in. First, cut loose all the old dead canes at the point from which they emanate on the main trunk or near the ground.

After you have cut them loose, you can follow each one through the mass, making cuts about every foot on the dead stems, so that these little pieces will fall through to the ground. Then you can see the new canes.

Remove the tangles of fine branches by the same system of cutting little pieces at a time and allowing them to fall through. We remember the horror of seeing a man cutting off long branches on a fine rose bush and yanking them loose by force. When he had finished, the big new canes had been bruised and bent and split, till the rose might just as well have been cut to the ground to start over again.

On a vigorous climbing rose, you will find several big new canes which extend out for some distance before the branches arise from the main trunk. The branches can be shortened to from three to five buds. Super vigorous roses like Silver Moon and Dr. Van Fleet need not have their laterals shortened so much. These and some other climbers in the Monroe area will flower for years on old wood, but these two, especially, are nearly always so rampant that one wishes to hold them down considerably by removing a considerable amount of wood.

Examine all the tender shrubs in the yard which may have been damaged by the freezes back in the late fall. Follow each trunk up from the ground to see whether it may have burst in the freeze. You will have to be very careful in your examination for this kind of damage because usually what happens is that the trunk freezes and splits lengthwise. It closes back up, of course, and the eye does not easily see the long slit in the bark.

Plants damaged this way will frequently come out in the spring and start to grow, and then suddenly wither and die in a few hours. It is a case of having your throat cut so cleverly that you do not know it till you turn your head and it falls off.

It is possible to save plants with split bark by taking the stems together at intervals of about four to six inches. The tape will hold the split closed and sometimes the bark will heal over and close the wound. This is only a temporary measure until the plant can grow more new stems from the ground and become, in effect, a new plant. However, it is better to profit by your experience and plant shrubs that are really hardy in your own garden.

The popular feeling that the climate had changed to one of entirely mild winters has suffered a reversal after our sudden freezes in November and December. The trouble lies in the fact that we have had weather records on a day by day basis for not much more than a century all over the United States, and do not really know what to expect of our climate.

Your columnist has been doing research along these lines for some 20 years. I have examined old gardening records, publication and private letters and they reveal that as far back as the time when John Smith's colony was trying to grow silkworms in Virginia, there were series of mild winters followed by destructive freezes.

The Oglethorpe Colony in Georgia had the same trouble. On one of the sea islands of Georgia, an orchard of olive trees grew to maturity and actually bore several large crops of fruit, but they were subsequently killed by sudden freezes which swept down the northwest.

The Temperate Belts around the world, in both the northern and southern hemispheres, are full of beautiful plants which tempt the gardener to try them here. However, years of climate study have taught your columnist that many of these plants which would seem, from their native climates and weather phenomena, to be good plants for us here in the southern states, are not able to make the grade. This is mostly because they are not able to stand the suddenness and extremity of our weather changes.

Our native trees and shrubs have been conditioned through millions of years to such weather extremities. The plants from temperate China are mostly able to withstand our extremities. Chile and South Africa will in time be able to supply us with many fine woody shrubs and bulbous plants, too, but one has to try them out through several years to find out whether or not they can take in the region below the Mason-Dixon Line.

More about these plants in a later column. Now get out and see what you can do before it gets too cold.

Lakeview Club Has Meeting

Reports were given by Mrs. F. B. Baker, Mrs. L. D. Jackson, Mrs. J. H. Thrasher, Mrs. Alan Smith, Mrs. C. P. George.

A social hour followed the meeting and refreshments were served by the hostesses to Mrs. Merle Bennett, Mrs. Alan Smith, Mrs. C. P. George, Mrs. Betty Sims, Mrs. L. D. Jackson, Mrs. J. C. Tolbird, Mrs. D. F. Guess, Mrs. J. H. Thrasher, Mrs. H. M. Speight, Mrs. F. B. Baker, Mrs. C. M. Almond, Mrs. J. T. Waldroup, and two visitors, Mrs. Eula Bailey and Mrs. C. W. Hammond.

The club will meet with Mrs. A. E. Redden in February.

Maggie Smith Weds In Home Ceremony

In a simple and beautiful wedding here on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Miss Maggie Smith became the bride of Christian Hanson with the Rev. R. Mack Bentley reading the impressive double-ring service. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith in Tallulah where the vows were exchanged before the mantle in the living room with a large arrangement of pink carnations and feverfew as a background.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, W. A. Smith, was lovely in a white wool crepe dress trimmed with gold and sequin embroidery with which she wore a white hat, gold shoes and a white orchid corsage. Edwin Berkness of Lake Providence served the bridegroom as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was enjoyed. The refreshment table with its lace cover was centered with an exquisite epergne, holding pink carnations, pink and yellow tulips and at the top a cluster of lilies of the valley. Tall pink candles in crystal holders were placed on either side of the epergne. At one end of the table Miss Annette Smith served hot cranberry punch from the handsome silver service and at the other end Miss Sharleen Hanson, daughter of the groom, served the wedding cake. Pink mints and salted nuts in attractive containers were also placed on the table.

When the couple left later in the afternoon for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, Mrs. Hanson was wearing a navy gabardine suit with which she wore white and navy accessories and the white orchid. On their return they will reside in Tallulah where Mr. Hanson has planting interests.

Brenda Adams Has Birthday

Brenda Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Adams of Columbia celebrated her fourth birthday Tuesday with a party in her home. Balloons, gum drop tree and cakes formed the decorations for the party. Games were played throughout the afternoon and the high light of the party was the lighted birthday cake and the singing "Happy Birthday." Her gests were Hill Clinton Durham, Judy Hardwick, Butch Hardwick, Sharon Cochran, Stevie Stewart, Nina Stewart, Blake Adams II, Emily Causey, Leamon and Freeman Stamper, Sylvia Fisher, Betty Fisher, Patricia Fisher, Ellen Fisher, and Suzanne McClarey.

Fort Miro Chapter Enjoys Meeting At Stubbs' Home

An open fireplace and glowing wood logs added warmth and charm to the solarium of the Riverside Drive home of Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs for the January meeting of Fort Miro Chapter, D.A. R.

Mrs. George M. Snellings Jr., presided in the absence of the Regent. The invocation was given by Mrs. Clarence Faulk and Mrs. Shelby Meek led the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Miss Eleona Brinsmade read the minutes of the last meeting, following which Mrs. Snellings introduced Mrs. H. Austin Miller, who brought a most informative talk on "The D. A. R. in National Affairs."

Mrs. Miller pointed out that while the D. A. R. is definitely against communism, socialism and similar "isms," they are for a good many things also, including schools for mountain children and provisions for our Indian population. She brought out the fact that the group is opposed to the Genocide Convention because it does not carry out the purpose for which it was supposedly organized—prevention of the extermination of national or racial group through decimation or forced assimilation. The Genocide Convention as actually set up would permit extermination of a race or group by declaring them enemies of the state, hence subject to trial in the country making the accusation, and not subject to trial by the Genocide Convention. The D. A. R. is also opposed to World Government as now envisioned as it calls for the election of a World President once in four years, and other important posts to be filled by appointment. Also, the plan as now conceived, would relegate the United States to the status of a fifth rate power since the basis for voting is population only.

Mrs. Herbert Steed introduced special guests of the Chapter, Misses Gwen Williamson, Pauline Bacle, Wanda Jordan and Mary Virginia Parker. These young ladies were selected to represent their respective schools in the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage to be held in Baton Rouge February 21st. Mrs. Steed also called attention to an article appearing in the December issue of the D. A. R. Magazine written by a member of the chapter, Mrs. Roland Brown, under the by line Maude Gallman Brown.

Reports were given by Mrs. W. L. Husted, treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Martin, chairman of Approved Schools and Mrs. George I. Hemphill, historian.

Assisting Mrs. Stubbs in extending courtesies were Mrs. H. R. Speed, Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Sr., Mrs. J. W. McWilliams, Mrs. Francis Barringer, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. Victor Barringer, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. J. H. Trousdale, Sr., and Mrs. Bradley Waelder.

At the conclusion of the business and program meeting guests were invited to the dining room where delicious coffee, nuts and other confections were served to: Mrs. O. M. Grisham, Mrs. W. D. Smith and Mrs. Amory Gore of Fort Worth, Mrs. Glays Sperry, Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. George Hemphill, Mrs. Martha Troy, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Mrs. C. R. Russell, Mrs. R. L. Junod, Mrs. Sallie Tidwell, Mrs. Sherod McLean, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. Harry Lemert, Mrs. W. L. Husted, Sr., Mrs. Adelia Baylor, Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. Dorothy Hodges Jones, Mrs. Shelby Meek Gladney, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. C. E. Slade, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. John E. Coon, Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. L. C. McGuire, Mrs. George M. Snellings, Jr., Mrs. Austin Miller, Mrs. J. R. Coulter, Mrs. Clarence Faulk and Mrs. Roland Brown.

Overloading a food freezer, slows down the rate of freezing, and foods that freeze too slowly may lose quality or spoil. For quickest freezing, place packages against freezing plates or coils and leave a little space between packages so air can circulate freely. Put up a list of frozen foods near the freezer and keep it up-to-date by listing the foods as you put them in and check them off as you take them out.

American Legion Auxiliary Has January Meeting

The L. B. Faulk Unit 13 American Legion Auxiliary met in the Legion Home last Tuesday. Mrs. Louis Gimler, the president presided. Reading of the club collect was followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the reciting of the preamble to the constitution in unison. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Dewey Mobley and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Harold Gill. Five dollars was donated towards the Fifth District's annual party to be held in the Veteran's Hospital in Shreveport in January. A letter was read from Mrs. Hilda Busby in charge of the gift shop at the Veteran's Hospital thanking the auxiliary for the Christmas box they had sent amounting to $172. The L. B. Faulk Post donated $50 and the auxiliary $25, also 20 dolls that were dressed by members. Generous donations were also given by the Woman's Shop and the La. Paper Co.

Mrs. T. C. Mahr, Sr. Child Welfare chairman gave the following report: Four families were given Christmas baskets and children's toys to the amount of $43.32. The Goodfellows sent clothing to two veteran's families. A check was sent for $14.87 for aid to a destitute family whose father is in the Veteran's hospital. Mr. Charles Mitchell State Child Welfare chairman for the Legion gave a check for $52 to pay back rent for this same family.

Reports were given by Mrs. G. K. Godwin on Americanism and by Mrs. H. G. Cooper on Legislation before the 83rd Congress. Miss May Faulk reported 73 paid memberships.

The Ouachita Parish Health meeting was attended by Mrs. Wayne Huckaby as a member and Mrs. Vivian Benison and Mrs. Louis Gimler as honorary members. The unit voted to send Mrs. Gimler to the mid-winter Conference to be held February 7th and 8th in Alexandria. Mrs. Gimler appointed Mrs. Wayne Huckaby and Mrs. H. G. Cooper on the National Security committee.

A vote of thanks was given to the Post for the lovely Christmas party and Mrs. Gimler also thanked the ladies who helped serve at the party.

The door prize donated by Mrs. Gimler was won by Miss May Faulk. Refreshments were served by Miss Faulk and Mrs. Gimler.

Mrs. R. H. Grant Honored At Party On Birthday

On Thursday Mrs. R. H. Grant quietly celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday. She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Harper, near Eros. Although separated by many miles from some of her children and grandchildren, there were many kind wishes and loving remembrances from all, those absent and present, for her continued good health and happiness.

Mrs. Grant was born January 1, 1869, at Indian Village, a community near Calhoun. She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Smith. Both her parents were physicians. Her mother was also a teacher. After Dr. Smith's death, Mrs. Smith and her children moved to the community of Cadeville, and here Mrs. Grant grew up and attended public school. She attended high school one year at Vernon and planned to teach, but married quite young and gave up teaching. She was married to R. H. Grant, a nearby farmer. To this union ten children were born. All ten children were reared to maturity. Nine are still living. The nine remaining children are Mrs. J. O. Manning and Mrs. A. M. Harper, Eros; Dr. Theron Grant and Mrs. Marie Slaton, Savannah, Ga.; Mrs. John T. Buckley, Austin, Tex.; Mrs. Elma Davis, Hot Springs, Ark.; R. O. Grant Wichita Falls, Tex.; A. V. Grant St Jo, Tex., and G. G. Grant, Bastrop.

She is a member of the Methodist church, having united with the church when quite young. She has been a devoted member and worker in her church all these years.

Mrs Grant was left a widow on July 15, 1943. That was when she went to live with Mrs. Harper.

To use her own expression, she had a "yen" for painting and has considerable talent. Only last year she exhibited some of her work at an art exhibit in Monroe. She paints lovely cards and writes her own verses for them. She is keenly interested in everything about her. She enjoys the radio, she fishes, and when able, worked in her flower garden. She keeps up a lively correspondence with her absent children and grandchildren. She has one granddaughter in New Zealand, Mrs Richard Hardin. Mrs. Hardin has inherited some of her grandmother's talent as an artist and she married an artist. A few months ago Mr. Hardin won a scholarship which entitled him to a year's study in New Zealand. He and his wife and their two sons spent some time here with Grandmother Grant before leaving the States. Mrs. Grant's many friends wish her many more happy birthdays.

Cheniere Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Carter

Reports were given by Mrs. C. C. Street, garden leader, Mrs. H. P. Carter, clothing leader and Mrs C. C. Street on house furnishing, Mrs. Lee Mann gave a report on family life. A demonstration on the care of plants was given by Mrs. Will Davis.

A $5.00 donation was given to the March of Dimes fund.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Bill Calloway, Mrs. C. Frost, Mrs. M. B. McDonald, Mrs. C. C. Street, Mrs. H. V. Parsons, Mrs. Webb Portman, Mrs. Elaine Newton, Mrs. A. K. Lowery, Mrs. B. F. Hudnall, Mrs. C. C. Owens, Mrs Will Davis, Mrs. Lee Mann, Mrs. H. P. Carter.

The February meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Will Davis.

The Home Shift With

Mildred Swift

We've been having March in January. Let's hope we don't have January in March. Many camellias are just ready to pop into bloom. Buds on almost everything are swelling ready to give us spring with all it's beauty in Ouachita Parish.

Around the Garden

These warm days have really brought the gardeners out. There's been a trek to the nurseries, and our telephones have rung constantly. One nursery called and said they have gingko trees. Several have the pearl bush, two have the tulip and one has the tallow tree. For an inexpensive screen planting your wild sweet myrtle is very fine and you can buy them at a local nursery.

Katie Mae Thornhill asked how a pearl bush looks, blooms, etc. I was asking that three years ago, too. That's when I saw my first one and fell in love with the blossom. They look like a double white dogwood and bloom just before the dogwood.

Color All Summer

While your friends are thinning their verbena, ask for some plants. If your house is gray or pastel, stay in the pink and lavender shades. White can be used with any colors and to separate masses of color in the garden. When verbena gets a good start in your beds, it makes a complete ground cover that crowds out weeds and grass. You'll have masses of color all summer, too, with very little labor.

Have you seen the dark wine colored verbena? Mrs. Rabb on Cole Avenue plans to use this because her house is trimmed in wine.

Poinsettia

Provide a dark place for your plant where it will not freeze. Water the poinsettia only enough to keep it alive until spring when you cut back the plant, water and place in the sun. Pot plants can be set in the open ground in the spring when danger of freezing is gone.

Living Rose Fence

Green Haynes on Arkansas Road is planting a living rose fence next month. The variety is Rosa Multiflora and is recommended by the conservation and wild life departments. In early June the plants are profusely covered with lovely white single roses. It requires no clipping, no training, no supports. Grows into an eight foot stock proof hedge. Tignor Conger planted a row at his place on Cheniere Lake. For those who want a fence but don't want to build one — this is the answer. The white blooming fence will be lovely in front of the Haynes green stained house.

Wanted — Plants!!

The Y. W. C. A. plant showing day has meant so much to new home owners. Can't we keep this a continual exchange? So many young homemakers have just moved in and need so much. Those of you who have a well established yard may have small red buds, mimosas, cherry laurels, nandinas or other plants. Please don't destroy them. Call me at 3-2251 and tell me when the couples can get the plants and I'll pass the good news on to them. They'll be glad to do the digging and will come when it's convenient with you. You may have plants that need dividing or an overflow of bulbs. Look around and see what you can pass on to others.

Briefly Speaking

To keep plaster from crumbling when driving nails and picture pinup hooks, first press a small strip of adhesive tape over the spot. Then drive the nail or pinup hook through the tape and the plaster won't crack.

While boiling, if an egg cracks, pour a small amount of vinegar into the water to seal the crack immediately.

To make gelatine desserts and salads slip out of molds easily, rub the inside surface of the mold with salad oil before placing the gelatine into the mold.

Scratchy phonograph records might need only a cleaning. A ball of absorbent cotton dipped into a weak solution of mild soapy warm water may be used to remove fingerprints, grease and dirt. Finish off with plain water.

Old Christmas Cards

The Missionary Servants of the Holy Encharist, 3452 Magazine Street, New Orleans can use your Christmas cards you received this year and are now ready to discard. Classes there use these cards to make fancy work, jewelry boxes etc. Just mail them to the above address. Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich gave me this information to pass on to you.

D. A. R. Meets In Oak Grove

Gen. William Carroll Chapter D. A. R. met for a business meeting in the visitors room of Oak Grove High School with Mrs. Shaw Miliken as hostess.

Mrs. D. W. Kelly, regent, presided and appointed committees for the year. Mrs. S. A. Holt was welcomed as a new member. Other members present were Mrs. C. H. Neely, Miss Alene Holland, Mrs. Elon McCasland, Mrs. Mildred Franklin, Mrs. James David McIntosh and Mrs. Charles E. Cox.

For good nutrition, it's wise to divide foods fairly evenly among meals. Don't fill up on toast and tea or cake and coffee between meals so that there is no appetite for milk, vegetables, fruit, or other foods when you do sit down to have lunch or dinner.

Current Literature Club Members Hear Talk On Art

The Current Literature Club met at the Rendezvous Wednesday with Mrs. M. L. Riley as hostess. The president, Mrs. Buddy Tolson, appointed the nominating committee for officers for the coming year. Mrs. M. L. Frey is to serve as chairman and working with her will be Mrs. W. A. Webb and Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr.

Mrs. Dan Dennett, a member of the program committee, introduced the guest speaker, John Spatafora who gave a most interesting lecture, which gave members a better insight into the development and progress of the art of painting. As Mr. Spatafora spoke he showed paintings of some of the artists to illustrate his lecture.

"Much confusion in art comes from the belief that art is a static form of expression. That is the uninitiated looks at a painting for its realistic qualities. Its trueness to life. Actually, though, the techniques and styles of painting, and sculpture too, vary with every new social reform and fashion.

In the renassiance, when men glorified in pageantry and kings, and had greater religious intensities, the paintings naturally reflected the signs of their times. Today, a picture painted after their school, with middle age costumes and all, would be as out of place in the twentieth century as our form of painting and dress would have been in their day.

Since the classic masters, a gradual change in painting has come along with a general loosing and freedom of brush stroke. Importance of subject has also been substituted for one of emotional impact rather than factual statement.

Here, as an example; the artist instead of drawing a vase in correct perspective, will exaggerate the contour of the container in such a way as it personally appeals to him.

Exceptions to this academic standard are however, profuse. Many artists, past and contemporary, have ignored existing tastes, and have succeeded in their own manner quite famously. Such men are Van Gogh, Gaugin, and in our present year, the Albright brothers and many others.

In a word, art is personal. The different types of painting can neither be compared nor held to be good or bad. The only true criterion is whether a particular school of art appeals more to one individual than to another."

Girl Scout News

One of the ways to be sure that girls have a voice in the planning of city - wide affairs is to have a Girl Planning Board to bring ideas from their troops and take ideas and decisions back. Each Intermediate troop has two representatives in the local group. With Mr E. A. Bishop as adviser, the group meets once a month and proves again and again that Girl Scouting is Democracy in action.

Meeting with the girls at their January meeting was Mrs. George Forman, Juliette Low chairman of the council, who with Mrs. Bishop started the girls to planning for a city - wide observance of the 41st birthday of Girl Scouting. As is customary, troops will present their offerings for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fun at the birthday celebration.

Between now and the February meeting of the Girl Planning Board on the 7th, troops will discuss how they will collect the offering in their troops and how it will be presented, as well as what kind of program will be held. All you Scouts give your ideas to your representatives. The next meeting should really reflect an interchange of ideas.

Troop 43, Mrs. E. C. Slaughter and Mrs. Earl Cobb, leaders, has started on a project of making puppets, which the girls say they will carry on to completion by giving a puppet play, costumes, scenery, and all. When the girls made plaques for mother's kitchen and ash trays for Dad for Christmas, they decided they liked to work with their hands, and the puppet project was the result.

The cup of coffee that is the gesture of Louisiana hospitality has become more important in the Ted Strausser family since June received a dozen demi - tasse spoons from her troop as a Christmas gift. The spoons are dainty as can be, and the appreciation of girls and parents of troop 34 makes them doubly valuable. The same appreciative girls and parents presented Co - leader Doris Keller with a silver necklace that surely looks stunning, as well as reminding her of pleasant associations with the troop.

Troop 44, fourth grade Brownies at Sherrouse School, who haven't had a leader all fall, are all ready to go now and make up for lost time under the leadership of Mrs. Faheam Cannon and Mrs. E. H. Lyons.

One notation we've overlooked for several weeks has been the investure of the girls of troop 9, a Brownie troop made up of girls in the Riverbend neighborhood who attend Mitchell School. Mrs. J. D. Henderson, Mrs. Gordon P. Jordon are leaders of the troop, with Mrs. Melvin Caples, Mrs. Edgar Beard and Mrs. L. P. Bell as members of the troop committee.

Girls registered in the troop are: Janet Sherrell Beard, Diane Bell, Beverly Brown, Linda Caples, Wanda Sue Green, Helen Carol Groves, Sharon Henderson, Diana Jordon, Sandra Poole and Brenda Watts.

What we especially wanted to tell you, though, is that the troop is to have a little meeting room all its own, built by interested daddys, with lumber donated by friends, some old windows, for example, and a door that once belonged to a church. Can't you just see Brownies working to make their own meeting place more attractive and useful? Dads are always a help, and we are glad to report one more example of family cooperation.

Winter winds may blow as our readers read this (no attempt at predicting the weather, of course), but spring cannot be far behind when troops begin putting camp dates on the calendar. Troop 11 has already asked for a March date and have started tentative plans to go on a week end trip, completing campcraft and outdoor cook badges.

Camp committee still is seeking names for troop camp. Names are coming in, but the more the merrier. Hope someone comes forward with the winning name before the annual girl scout dinner on February 3. Remember that the person suggesting the winning name will be an honor guest at the banquet.

Stocker Fontelieu Speaker At Delta Rho Delta Meeting

Delta Rho Delta enjoyed one of the most outstanding speakers of the lecture program last Monday evening when Mr. Stocker Fontelieu, a newcomer to the Sigma members, spoke on "The Little Theatre's Place in the Community."

Mr. Fontelieu has been director of Monroe's Little Theatre for the past three years and is a graduate of both the New Orleans Academy and Tulane University.

In a most interesting discussion of the Little Theatre, he said in part, "to fully realize the meaning of the topic, "The Little Theatre's Place in the Community," one has to be shown as well as talked to. What is the value of theatre anywhere? What is the value of theatre? The fact of which we must be most cognizant is that it has its root and origin in dates of yesteryear which read 4000 B. C. With that as a beginning date we can then say that drama is now well over 5000 years old, and well on its way to becoming six thousand."

"Those inhabitants of the New York area, the Chicago area, the Boston area are indeed fortunate. They may partake of drama whenever their appetites are so inclined. Drama, like music from the great symphony orchestras, like paintings from the great museums and galleries, is there for those people to have. But people in central Iowa, northern Georgia, or northeast Louisiana are not so fortunate. These trips into the field of the arts are not theirs for the plucking. In fact, that privilege is a rare one, enjoyed by a small percentage of our country's population. And to overcome this geographical short coming, we see to it that we get that to which we are entitled through our own Little Theatre."

"Just what is this thing called Little Theatre? Here, like in most cities, it is a funny looking barn-like building badly in need of paint, a hotwater heater, proper heating, adequate dressing rooms for actors, air conditioning. It is a place thought lightly of by many people, but dearly revered by others. This is the physical thing which is called Little Theatre. And that is only a small part of the scheme, but a necessary one, we must remember. To those of us who love it, it is a spirit, it is a tradition, it is a fathomless pit of adventure, it is an endless river where dreams become reality, and oddly enough, reality becomes dream.

"How did all this begin? It has sprung from our own discontent, discontent with our own doing. It was in 1910 that it all began in this country. Broadway, theatre headquarters for the world, the road shows, and the stock companies were losing ground rapidly. It was then that the Little Theatre movement began. Groups throughout the country dedicated themselves to experimentation and the cry, nationally, was "create your own theatre with the talent at hand." In these early days of Little Theatre, it was primarily a theatre for participation, a place for self expression.

"Little Theatre organizers were not blatant showmen, but artists with vision and social concern, for it must be fully understood that theatre was and has been, through the centuries, a vocal mouthpiece of the times. Playwrights have always chosen to dramatize their most burning philosophies, and it is through such theatrical styles as this that we have come to recognize such men of theatrical letters as Shakespeare, Ibsen, Strindburg, Shaw and more recently Arthur Miller, whose "All My Sons" and "Death of a Salesman" are more than trivial pieces of literature, they are significant trends in thinking."

"In the realization that these theatres were those guided by men of vision and social concern, it was realized also that since they are the products of a community, they must be the manifestations of the same community which support them. Which is what we have worked toward here in Monroe, like the many other cities throughout the United States which have fathered Little Theatres. Our state seems to be as alive with Little Theatres as any in the country. The one in Shreveport is recognized as one of the outstanding ones in the country, along with the one in New Orleans. Lake Charles has a group which has been nationally recognized more than once. Crowley has one, which has just two months ago moved into its own brand new playhouse. Baton Rouge is making a bid for state and national recognition with its theatre, and right now, the Little Theatre of Monroe is working hand in hand with a group in Ruston which is trying to organize."

"So now we can answer the question, what is the Little Theatre's place in the community? It is the furthering of an ideal which has been alive and important and vibrant for more than 5000 years. It offers a variety of opportunities to its participants. It allows them to see live drama. It offers to all of us that opportunity to walk into that world of illusion which is too often denied us. It is a proving ground for professional aspirants. It gives the individual the opportunity of self expression. It stimulates the imaginative powers. It affords the participants the chance to function as a team. But most important, it enriches the lives of those to whom it is exposed."

After the lecture, the entire group joined in an informal and lively discussion, led by Mr. Fontelieu, of the past plays of the Monroe Little Theatre and the plans for the future.

YWCA Activities

YRG'S

The YRG's Club was held at the home of Miss Nona Martin with Miss Martin assisted by Miss Juanita Porter and Mrs. Mary Lee Barbee serving as hostess. After a delicious chicken dinner was served the girls enjoyed canasta, Chinese checkers, and other games.

Y-TEENS

The Be Y's Club met at the Y with the president, Jalna May, presiding. The meeting was opened with group singing the Y-Teen song. Mary Martha Heard read the devotional: "Your Influence." Mary Elizabeth Vaughn led the group in prayer. The secretary, Jackie Roberts read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. Sue Wade, assistant adviser, read a greeting and letter from the girls in Stuggart, Germany, in appreciation for the chocolates that the Monroe Y-Teens sent at Christmas time. Plans for the programs for the club meetings were presented by Miss Sharp. Next meeting the group will go to the Catholic Church where the girls will have a discussion on "The Catholic Faith." The program for the meeting was group singing of many Y-Teen songs. The meeting was closed with the Y-Teen motto.

A new club of Y-Teens has been organized at Crosley School. Mary Virginia Parker, president of the Y-Teen Inter - Club Council, met with the group to tell the girls about Y-Teen symbols, ideals, and activities.

The Honest Injuns' Club is making plans for a party at the Y on Friday, January 23rd.

Business And Professional Girls

The B. and P. Girls' Club is making plans for the meeting which they will sponsor at the Frances Hotel on Thursday, January 29, at 7:30 p. m. at which time Miss Carol Lane, Shell Oil Company's travel expert will talk on "New Trends in Travel." Invitations are being extended to the women's groups to attend this meeting which will be most enjoyable and informative.

Sorority Aids March Of Dimes

Members of Delta Beta Sigma sorority were quite active during the past week with many of their worthwhile projects. Tuesday, January 13, four members of the sorority assisted the Red Cross at the Mobile Blood Unit. They registered donors, and served as hostesses.

Saturday, January 17, members were on duty at a local supermarket in connection with the March of Dimes, pasting dimes in the window given by the market to the March of Dimes for purchases over a certain amount.

Plans are now in progress for a style show to be presented at the end of the month. All proceeds to go to the March of Dimes.

Cooking utensils of glass are easy to keep clean because they have a hard smooth surface. Soak the utensils to loosen stuck-on food. Use fine cleaning powder rather than rough cleansers that might scratch the surface.

You can make your place into a "showplace" like I did with
HARDY, RED DWARF DOGWOOD
My name is Mrs. Mary McKay and folks come from miles around to see my dogwood blooming in the Springtime. I began planting them as a hobby. Then I kept on planting more and more because I found out how easy they are to grow—and how beautiful they are in the Springtime.
My favorite is the hardy red dwarf dogwood because it will stand any kind of weather, I don't care how cold it gets! And it just thrives in any kind of soil. You just plant it and watch it grow! And, when yours is loaded with big red blooms in the Springtime, believe me, your place will be a "showplace"!
It's time to plant now and I've got lots of them ready for you to plant. I'll wrap yours in water-repellent plastic and pack them in corrugated boxes to make sure they reach you in perfect condition. I'll send you three of my hardy dwarf dogwood for only $2.00. And if you order right away—within 10 days—I'll pack in extra, as a gift, one of my snow white flowering dogwood, 2 to 3 ft. tall. Now, don't send me any money! I want you to get yours first and see for yourself what fine shape they arrive in. Yours will come C. O. D.

Miro Book Club Hears Review By Mrs. Pracher

The first semi-monthly meeting of Miro Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. A. L. Peters, in Edgewater Gardens, and facing lovely Bayou DeSiard. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Jett, in the absence of the president, Mrs. D. M. Moore. The collect was repeated in unison, and the pledge of allegiance was given to the Flag.

Following the transaction of business, and reports of committees, Mrs. Jett, program chairman, presented Mrs. John Pracher who gave the review prepared by Mrs. D. M. Moore. The review was from Living Ideas in America, Chapter 12, by Henry Steele Commager. This chapter deals with "America as a World Power", and from it these thoughts are significant: "America is the youngest of great nations, but is in many respects very old. In one way or another, United States History has been taken up with war, preparation of war or solution of the problems left by war. At the present time we are on a war basis and our economy, our politics, our diplomacy and our psychology will be closer to that of war than to that of peace.

Though appearances are against it, it is a fact that the American people are loyal to the principle of ultimate civilian control in the Government. As American society is democratic, democracy characterizes the military. There is no military class here, though the military is respected.

Then, the Americans have always been unprepared for war. It is true to say that the United States has been taken by surprise in every war. And because Americans have almost always been unprepared for war, which they consider abnormal, they have fought wars as amateurs.

Americans are not a vindictive people and they have never imposed harsh terms on defeated enemies. All this is proved by historical records and by accreditable writings of our own authors. Such names as George Washington, Mc Clellan, Lincoln, Robert E. Lee as well as Emerson, Henry L. Stimson, William Vaughn Moody, William James are our best proofs of veracity.

In war records, we begin with the battles of Lexington and Concord memorable as the first blow for independence, the shots "heard round the world." Here we have civilians, amateurs, men who rallied to the defense of their own fought courageously and then went home again. Their war was a defensive one and Congress established the fact that the British fired the first shots. But this same Congress failed to pay the soldiers who had fought so heroically. There were mutinies against a government that had shown itself incapable of gratitude. Washington met and defeated this by his famous address to the officers of the army. His preliminary was simple and touching: "Gentlemen, you will permit me to put on my spectacles, for I have not only grown gray, but almost blind, in the service of my country."

With the following words, he closed his address: "Let me conjure you, in the name of our common Country, as you value your own sacred honor, as you respect the rights of humanity and as you regard the Military and National character of America, to express your utmost horror and detestation of the man who wishes, under any specious pretences, to overturn the liberties of our Country and wickedly attempts to open the flood Gates of Civil discord and deluge our rising Empire in blood." The spirit of Washington, thus expressed in 1783, is still the American spirit of today.

The second part of the program, was a Forum, with National Defense as the subject under discussion, and with Mrs. Jett as leader.

Mrs. Peters invited the members into the dining room where delicious refreshments were served from the handsomely appointed table, with Mrs. Jett presiding at the coffee service. The following members were present: Mrs. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. R. Q. Cole, Mrs. Thomas Jett, Mrs. Neal W. McHenry, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. L. Wood, and the hostess, Mrs. A. L. Peters.

The Skillet Club

By UNCLE FRANK KOHLER

OCCIDENTAL OXTAILS
FLAT WALLET

The holidays are behind us, but not the flattened wallets and expanded waistlines. So with one eye on the pocketbook and the other on the diet, let's first survey "Occidental Oxtails" from Skilleteer Joseph Vachlon, Chicago Daily News Chapter. They survey well.

2 oxtails cut up (about 2½ lbs.)
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 large onion, chopped
1 beef boullion cube
½ cup water
2 cans mushroom steak sauce, (6 ounces)
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
24 whole allspice
Salt (prefer seasoned salt with MSG)
Pepper
Flour

Sprinkle seasoned salt and fresh ground pepper on all sides of oxtail pieces. Roll in flour (or shake in bag with seasoning and flour) until all sides are dusted.

Heat fat in cast iron skillet, and brown tails on all sides. If you have time, a dutch oven is recommended, cooking time about two hours. Mr. Vachlon uses a pressure cooker, and transfers the browned meat to it.

Dissolve the boullion cube in ½ cup hot water, add Worcestershire, and mix in the mushroom sauce. Throw the chopped onion over the meat, then the allspice, then the mixture of boullion and sauce.

Bring to pressure of 15 pounds and cook 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from flame and let cool slowly. Gravy will be just the right consistency, with no need to thicken. Don't look now, but we added 1 tablespoon Marsala. Serve over broad noodles. "It's good, — even my wife says so," says this Skilleteer, and we agree heartily.

And here is a dessert that we find really for the record. Skilleteer Dave Krupnick of Chicago says "This has been floating around the family archives and might interest the Skillet Club." Amen, brother! Black Pudding, he calls it. Stale bread crumbs can be used, but dried cake crumbs are preferable.

1 egg
1 cup cold water
1 cup dark molasses
1 cup sifted flour
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon soda
Pinch salt

Blend well and pack into a can with a tight lid — we have used baking powder cans. (This stuff expands — leave room in can for the pudding to swell. We used a melon mold with a tight cover.) Tie a string around it to hold the top on and facilitate removal from kettle.

Steam for three hours and serve hot, using the sauce you prefer. We prefer the Kohler family lemon sauce, and here it is:

1 teaspoon corn starch
1 cup boiling water
Dash salt
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 dashes nutmeg

Mix sugar and cornstarch thoroughly, then slowly add the boiling water, stirring constantly over a low flame, and cook until the mixture thickens and is smooth. Stir in butter, and when blended, add lemon juice, rind, and other ingredients. Let cook slowly a few minutes, stirring to prevent boiling over, then remove from heat. Equally good hot or cold, and we do mean good!

Your favorite recipe and a stamped envelope mailed to this newspaper makes you a member of The Skillet Club for life—send them in and you'll receive your membership card to prove it.

Ike Team Devoted To Free-Market Idea Of Agriculture

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP— The Eisenhower farm team, taking power next week after 20 years of Democratic rule, shapes up as efficiency-minded and devoted to a free-market agriculture with a new role for government.

Secretary of Agriculture-designate Ezra T. Benson has stubbornly refused to take a public stand on long-term price support proposals.

Present government guarantees of support for cotton, wheat, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco at 90 per cent of a "fair earnings" parity standards expire after 1954 crops.

Congressional advocates of high supports want Benson to tell them what he favors after 1954. He won't. He says the problem must be studied first.

But his own thinking is evident in his statements and in the men he has picked to surround and advise him.

Benson himself, a marketing expert and Mormon Church leader from Salt Lake City, Utah, told the Senate Agriculture committee Thursday "we should aim at full parity income in free markets."

"The most important thing for the government is support of education and research," he said. "This has enabled farmers in the past to do their share in giving America the world's highest living standard," he said.

Benson thinks price supports are necessary as "insurance against disaster." He places more emphasis, however, on programs that help farmers to help themselves.

Eisenhower's name is not on the government payroll and is not likely to be in the near future, but his views carry weight.

His brother, the President-elect, is believed to depend on the educator more than on any other man or group for advice on farm policy.

Working behind the scenes, Milton Eisenhower is expected to give agricultural college leaders more influence in Washington than they enjoyed under Democratic administrations.

Benson has already made Cornell University's agriculture dean, William I. Meyers, head of his farm advisory committee. The secretary-designate can also draw on the advice of John A. Hannah of Michigan State College who was named manpower chief for the Defense Department after he had been mentioned as a prospective secretary of agriculture.

Working with him as undersecretary of agriculture Benson will have a business farmer, True D. Morse of St. Louis. Morse was head of a farm management service.

As executive assistant Benson picked business-trained D. K. Broadhead of San Marino, Cal. Now a record manufacturer, Broadhead's experience in agriculture was gained selling fruit and directing dairy and egg operations for a food store chain.

A blunt-spoken advocate of free markets, Paarlberg has called "ceiling prices, rationing and subsidies...the three-legged stool of an economy which endeavors to hold prices below equilibrium levels."

Karl D. Butler joined Benson as an aide shortly after the devout churchman was selected by Eisenhower several weeks ago. An "agricultural consultant" by profession and a resident of Ithaca, N.Y., Butler apparently is scheduled for "trouble shooting" duty in reorganizing the Agriculture Department.

SAILOR TELLS HOW HE WON BRONZE STAR

Conscientious Objector Wins Medal Without Trying To Kill Anybody

By FREDERICK C. PAINTON

WITH FIRST MARINE DIVISION, Jan. 17—UP—A husky young sailor told Saturday how he became the first conscientious objector of the Korean war to win a medal for heroism in combat.

He saw his best friend killed in a Communist ambush. He does not hate the enemy. He carries three pieces of shell fragments in his body, but he never tried to kill a man.

In a quiet but positive way, Hospital Corpsman Alvin Joyner, 23, Madison, Wis., is a Seventh Day Adventist. His religion forbids violence.

But during two months at the front, Joyner has won three Purple Hearts, a Silver Star and a Bronze Star. He never carried a weapon.

"It makes you old in a hurry," he said. "But when you think back it seems like a nightmare, not something that really happened."

"We had 31 men hit in the first half hour," he said. "I couldn't leave the guys lying there. There was a barrage coming in every five minutes. I was trying to get one man with his arm half blown off. Then in came another shell."

Joyner started to crawl to the wounded Marine, then "realized I couldn't see."

He had been blinded by powder burns from the flash of the exploding shell. For the rest of the night, Joyner kept giving blood to the wounded, feeling his way with his hands. Finally his company commander ordered him back to the rear.

Joyner refused to go.

"I couldn't have stayed back," he said. "The cries I heard—you just couldn't if you had any conscience at all."

The first night back he was wounded again.

"My eyes started bothering me again," he said, "everything was beginning to catch up with me. The company commander personally escorted me to the battalion aid station."

They gave him a Bronze Star for Bunker Hill. He got the Silver Star for a combat patrol that "never had a chance."

"They spotted us before we ever got to the objective," he said, "and dropped in mortars. A little guy we all liked was hit. A man trying to carry him was hit too.

"I ran to them and was giving the little guy some plasma when a mortar blew the plasma bottle out of my hand. He had enough in him to get over shock."

With both patrol leaders killed or wounded, it was Joyner who led the men back through a maze of mine fields to Allied lines, carrying the "little guy."

If he's lucky he will go home soon because he has three Purple Hearts for wounds.

"I was pretty lucky in boot camp," he said, "they didn't make me fire the weapons. Around here I don't have to carry a weapon either.

"I'm not trying to be different. It's just the way I feel. I think you can be a conscientious objector and still be a good citizen."

WILL FIGHT COURT SUITS

Government Order Places Minimum Wages At $1 Hour In Some Cases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 —UP— Southern cotton, silk and synthetic textile manufacturers Saturday prepared to fight in the courts a new government order requiring them to pay a $1 an hour minimum wage to workers on government contracts above $10,000.

An industry official said some southern manufacturers would "certainly" seek to block the order in the federal court. The order, issued Friday by Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, is slated to go into effect on bids for government contracts on or after Feb. 21.

Tobin, acting under authority of the Walsh-Healy act, boosted the mininum wage from 87 cents to $1. The ruling would primarily affect the southern part of the industry, where about 16 per cent of the workers are now paid under $1.

If the ruling goes into effect, it would tend to cut down the differential in wage scales between the North and South, since less than 1 per cent of northern textile workers are paid under $1. Northern manufacturers have been moving their plants south to take advantage of the differential—which runs as high as 25 cents-an-hour—and have warned that more of the industry would be shifted unless wage scales are brought closer together.

Truman Fails To Get Ike Special Tax Treatment

The tax-writing House Ways and Means committee has decided it wouldn't have time to act on Mr. Truman's recommendation before Eisenhower's inauguration Tuesday, even if it favored special tax treatment.

Mr. Truman proposed that Congress authorize Eisenhower to take up to $50,000 in special living expense deductions. The President suggested also that the vice president be permitted to take up to $10,000 in special tax deductions $10,000.

The Constitution says a President's compensation cannot be increased after he takes office. Hence it would be necessary for Congress to act before Tuesday noon if it wanted to give Eisenhower special tax relief.

Nearly 9½ million trucks are owned and operated in the United States.

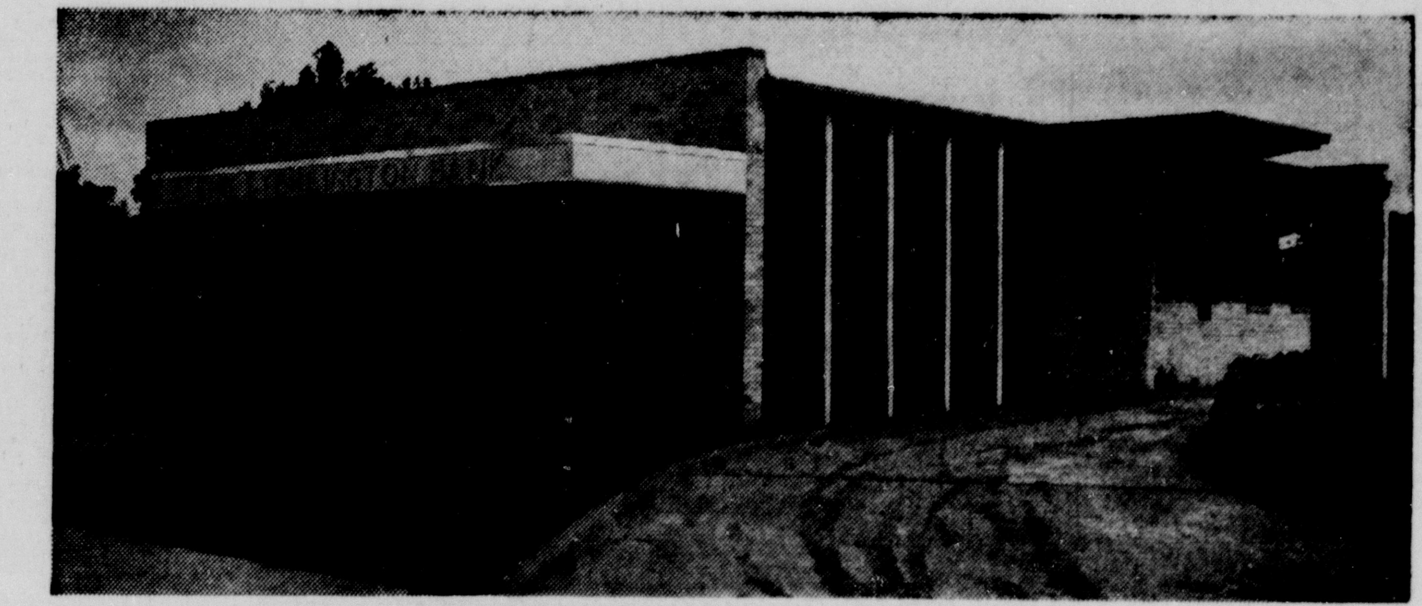
PROGRESS

The Sterlington Bank

on the march in '53

Let us all rejoice and be grateful for this new era of prosperity for Ouachita Parish and all Northeast Louisiana.



STERLINGTON BANK

The complete financial service we offer includes loans of all types consistent with sound banking principles . . . checking accounts with no service charge, savings accounts and certificates of deposit on which we pay 2% interest (no limit), Christmas savings accounts and the rental of safety deposit boxes.

In the few years that have passed, we are proud to think that our basic program of banking service to business has helped North Louisiana and Ouachita Parish become one of the outstanding areas in industrial growth. Today, businesses of every size . . . individuals in every walk of life . . . find in The Sterlington Bank not only the desire, but the ability to serve with the most modern banking services available.

Our customers' confidence in our banking ability is shown by their deposit increases, many times over what it was the first year. We are constantly striving to give you the best service possible . . . and appreciate your faith in us.

by CHIC YOUNG
HERE'S YOUR PIPE, DADDY DEAR
HERE'S A LIGHT FOR YOU
YOU'LL BE MORE COMFORTABLE WITH YOUR SLIPPERS, DEAR
NOW I CAN'T RELAX UNTIL I FIND OUT WHY THEY WERE SO KIND TO ME
WHAT IS IT YOU WANT FROM ME, THAT YOU SHOW ME SO MUCH ATTENTION?
WELL, I LIKE THAT!!
WE WERE KIND TO YOU BECAUSE WE LOVE YOU, POP
IT'S OUR WAY OF SHOWING OUR APPRECIATION FOR ALL YOU DO FOR US
WE DON'T WANT ANYTHING, DADDY
NOW, I FEEL TERRIBLE--- I SHOULD BE ASHAMED OF MYSELF TO QUESTION THEIR MOTIVES FOR BEING KIND TO ME
WONDER WHAT MADE POP THINK WE WANTED SOMETHING FROM HIM
COME TO THINK, I DO NEED A FEW THINGS
DAGWOOD, NOW THAT YOU MENTION IT, I DO NEED A NEW COAT AND I NEED NEW ICE SKATES
I NEED A NEW SWEATER
LET'S SEE WHAT ELSE DO I NEED ?
I WISH I WOULD LEARN TO KEEP MY BIG MOUTH SHUT!

FAB
WASHES CLOTHES CLEANER THAN ANY SOAP
A COLGATE-PALMOLIVE-PEET PRODUCT AND FAB WASHES CLOTHES CLEANER THAN ANY SOAP ON EARTH!

IT'S AMAZING—BUT TRUE!

New Fab washes whiter without bleaching, whiter than any soap or any other washing product known with bleach in the wash water! Yes, with Fab, you can stop bleaching—except for stubborn stains. And, remember, freshly-rinsed Fab clothes are cleaner than you can get them with any soap because Fab washes out dirt, leaves no dulling soap scum . . . gives you the world's sweetest-smelling wash!

IF YOU PREFER NOT TO RINSE, Fab gives you the cleanest possible, sweetest-smelling no-rinse wash!

SAVE CLOTHES! WORK! HANDS!

Fab washes clothes dazzling white without bleaching—so clothes last longer. Washable colors look brighter, too! And, with Fab, there's no soaking needed, no dulling soap scum to rinse out—even in hardest water. So you save work. What's more, Fab is wonderfully mild to hands!

CUT DISHWASHING TIME IN HALF!

Fab soaks dishes, glasses, pots, pans shiny clean! If a food speck clings, whisk it off with the dishcloth! Just a quick rinse and dishes drain sparkling clean! No hard scouring and no wiping!

TIM TYLER'S LUCK
BY LYMAN YOUNG and TOM MASSEY
LOOK, MITZI! IT'S THE RED-HEADED APE!
I-I SEE HIM, TIM... DON'T MOVE OR HE MIGHT ATTACK US!
HE'S COMING TOWARD US!
AND THE JEWEL THIEVES HAVE US TIED UP! WE CAN'T PROTECT OURSELVES!
LISTEN! I HEAR SOMEBODY COMING!
MAYBE THE JEWEL THIEVES ARE RETURNING!
LOOK— THE APE HEARD THE FOOTSTEPS, TOO!
THE APE IS GOING TO ATTACK HIM!
LOOK OUT, TOMBO! THE APE!

The PHANTOM
By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY
THIS FAR IN THE JUNGLE? QUICK, OFF THE ROAD!
THE ROBBERS!
GOING BACK TO THE CAVE. WHAT LUCK!
THINK SHE'S STILL ALIVE-- IN THERE?
SHE'S GONE!
THE CHEST OF GOLD IS GONE!
IMPOSSIBLE! HOW? LET ME IN THERE!
IT'S TRUE! BUT-BUT HOW? SHE WAS TIED - THE CAVE WAS SEALED UP-- LOOK-ON THE WALL.
THAT'S THE PHANTOM'S MARK! LEMME OUTA HERE!
WAIT, YOU GUYS. LET'S THINK THIS OUT!
YOU THINK! I WANT OUT! THIS PLACE IS SPOOKY!
GOING SOMEWHERE, GENTLEMEN?

HELLO, LITTLE BOY. WILL YOU COME AND PLAY DOLLS WITH ME?
DOLLS!
ISN'T HE PRECIOUS?
HERE, HONEY, LET ME HELP YOU DOWN. HIM'S SUCH A PWECIOUS, ITSY-BITSY DARLING, I MUST DIV HIM A KISS.
WHAT'D YOU THINK A MAN'S GOT... FEATHERS?
HEY, HOW ABOUT SOME SERVICE? I WANT TWO NICKEL CIGARS.
CIGARS? TAKE THIS LOLLIPOP AND RUN ALONG HOME TO MOMMY, SONNY. YOU'RE TOO LITTLE TO SMOKE.
SPUTT-SPUTT!
LOLLIPOPS!
DOLLS!
SPUTT!
LATER
HEY! LEAVE MY BOOKS ALONE!
I WAS JUST SORT OF CLEANING UP. DO YOU READ THESE BIG BOOKS, SCRAPPY?

KAYO! WOTTA YOU THINK YER DOIN'?
I'M HOOKIN' A RIDE UP THIS HILL-WHY?
WELL, I'M UNHOOKIN' IT! THAT'S DANGEROUS! VERY DANGEROUS!
HECK!
CALLING ME "GIRLIE!" STOP THE CAR AND PUNCH THE SMART ALECK'S NOSE, JOE.
BAM!
WHY DON'TCHA STICK OUT YER MITT WHEN YOU STOP, STUPID?
I GOT A BIG NOTION TO POKE IT RIGHT IN YOUR EYE, WISE GUY.
OH, YEAH? UGH!

WHEN THE RAM JET BEGAN TO DISINTEGRATE, JACK PULLED THE PANIC LEVER WHICH DISCONNECTED THE PRESSURIZED COCKPIT "CAPSULE"...
SMILIN' JACK
THEN, JACK OPENED A PARACHUTE THAT WAS BUILT INTO A "POCKET" IN THE "CAPSULE"!
THE BEAUTIFUL BRUNETTE SAW THE "CAPSULE" LAND IN A ROCKY RAVINE. SHE RUSHED TO THE SCENE BUT SHE SLIPPED AND FELL!
YEEOW... OH, TH' PAIN! MY LEG... MY ANKLE... IT MAY BE BROKEN, BUT I'VE GOT TO DRAG MYSELF TO THAT WRECKED COCKPIT!
...BY BALANCING ON HER GOOD FOOT, THE SECRETARY FINALLY MANAGES TO REACH THE COCKPIT AND TRIES TO FREE THE PILOT!
THERE— I HAVE TH' STRAPS LOOSE AND I GOT HIS INJURED LEG FREE FROM THE WRECKAGE!
NOW, I'VE GOTTA GET HIS JET HELMET OFF ...HIS FACE IS COVERED WITH BLOOD!
I'LL RIP OFF A PIECE OF MY SKIRT TO USE AS A CLOTH...
WHA— WHAT HAPPENED? WHERE AM I? WHO AM I?
